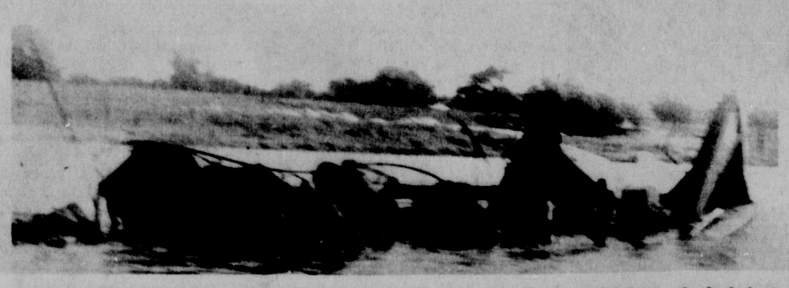
Clifford Says Troop Protection Must Precede Any Bombing Cut



BLACKENED HULL OF THE James E. Graham towboat, which exploded, burned and sank in the Mississippi river at the foot of Main Street in New Madrid.

Towboat Burns After Explosion

By H. H. TOWNSEND JR.

NEW MADRID - The river towboat James E. Graham of the port of Paducah, exploded, burned to the Mississippi river, waterline and sank last night. The superstructure, still smoking could be seen this morning where it went aground on a sandbar at the boat of Main street.

Apparently no one was injured.

Two barges of gasoline had been brought from St. Louis and delivered to the Sinclair Oil terminal yesterday. The boat had started upstream with two empty gasoline barges when the fire occurred.

None of the crew was available for comment this morning, but witnesses, who were on the bank, said that an explosion was heard and the boat burst into flames.

It was stated that the crewmen cut the empty barges and tied them to shore.

Normally, a boat of this size carries a crew of seven, the captain, pilot, two engineers, two deck hands and a cook. Witnesses stated that there were six on board at the time of the fire.

Information taken from the Inland River Record indicates that the boat was 86 feet long, 17 feet wide with a draft of seven feet. It was built in Memphis, in 1941 and was single propellor driven with a steel hull.

The boat was considered to be a total loss and damage was estimated at $100,000 John Richie of Paducah was reported to be the owner.

Pair Fails to Cash Checks at Kennett

KENNETT -- Two Negroes, one tall and wearing a silk yellow shirt and white hat, the other smaller attempted to pass a payroll check at a Kennett bank. They were unable to pass two other checks in Kennett.

A month earlier, Ralph Harris, of the Kentucky Fried Chicken in Sikeston, cashed a forged payroll check for $75.33.

The check according to Harris, was made out on the United Meat Company, St. Louis, and signed with the name of Odie Rutherford. The Negro showed a driver's license with the same name, which caused Harris to cash the check.

Harris later learned that 500 payroll checks were stolen when the United Meat Company was broken into more than a month ago.

The two men rented a room at Kennett but never used it in a two-day stay and traveled in a white 1960 Chevrolet station wagon.

The pair both believed to be in their 20s, failed to cash a check Wednesday at a Kennett bank yesterday afternoon for $151 and fled when the check was questioned. All checks were drawn on the United Meat Company.

The highway patrol was notified.

Floor Sanders, Pump Taken

Two floor sanders, a water pump and about 300 feet of floor trim were reported stolen from a house under construction east of Crowder Wednesday night, deputy sheriff Eddie Michael reported today.

The house is being built on the Carl Dye farm east of Crowder.

France May Explode First Hydrogen Bomb

PARIS (AP) - The French probably will test their first hydrogen bomb this weekend at Mururoa, in the South Pacific, Agence France Press reported today in a dispatch from Tahiti. Tahiti Radio has been warning ships and airplanes to stay away from the area starting Saturday, but favorable winds will be needed for the test, the agency said.

The broadcasts specified a larger danger area than for previous French nuclear tests - 120 nautical miles around Mururoa instead of 100.

Adult Education Classes Begin Sept. 9

An adult education program will be offered by the high school vocational department beginning Sept. 9. Interested persons may state their instruction preferences prior to opening. Technical and general courses will be offered. In charge is Richard Downey, adult education supervisor.

Technical courses will include secretarial, electronics, printing and drafting. The 16-week courses will begin at 4:30 p.m. and can be a two-year course with a certificate given after its completion.

General courses will be offered in two hour class sessions and will include typing, shorthand, business machines, welding, and others.

Enrollees must be over high school age. Adults can complete a high school equivalency education and receive a state educational certificate.

Other courses may be added if 10 or more enroll.

The course may include driver education and square dancing.

Selassie Calls for Cease-Fire

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) - Emperor Haile Selassie has called on Nigeria's chief of state, Gen. Yakubu Gowon, to declare a cease-fire while peace talks with rebel Biafra are going on in the Ethiopian capital, diplomatic sources said today.

Selassie also invited Gowon and Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, Biafra's chief of state, to come to Addis Ababa for a face-to-face session next Monday, the informants said. Ojukwu announced last week that Biafra would observe a truce during the talks.

The emperor made his proposals as Nigerian troops were reported advancing in a pincer movement toward Aba, the temporary Biafran capital.

The informants said Selassie also asked the other members of the consultative committee on Nigeria of the Organization of African Unity to come here for the meeting Monday. They are the heads of state of Niger, Ghana, Liberia and Congo-Kinshasa.

The moves by the emperor, who is chairman of the OAU committee sponsoring the talks, came as the deadlocked parley entered its 11th day with no sign of progress toward an end to the war.

Both sides denied published reports that agreement has been reached on ways of speeding relief to starving Biafran civilians.

A high officer said a commando column led by Col. Benjamin Adekunle had crossed the Imo River 15 miles south of Aba and occupied Akwete, a settlement on the northern bank.

The lead column of the other pincer was believed across the river at the Imo railway station, 22 miles from the city.

The drive appeared aimed at bringing the 13-month-old secession of eastern Nigeria's Ibo tribesmen to a quick military end. But the Biafran leader, Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, has pledged that his people will retreat into the bush and wage guerrilla warfare.

An estimated 6,000 troops from Nigeria's 3rd Marine Division were reported committed to the attack on Aba. The city some 40 miles inland is the largest of the three major towns still in rebel hands.

Ojukwu's secessionist army now holds only about one third of the 29,000 square miles he proclaimed independent in May 1967.

In Addis Ababa, the deadlocked peace talks switched to discussion of relief supplies to starving war refugees. There was no indication of any progress in the session Wednesday night, but various sources voiced expectation of a break soon.

Informed sources said Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie would sound out both sides on a compromise proposal for funneling in the supplies. Diallo Telli, Guinean secretary-general of the Organization of African Unity, said an agreement might be reached by the weekend.

Swiss diplomat August Lindt of the International Red Cross said the Biafrans have proposed establishment of a neutral airstrip on Biafran territory under control of the all-Swiss Red Cross committee.

Injunction Issued Against Bluff Grocery Firms

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The United States Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis issued Wednesday an injunction against violation of fair labor standards by a southeast Missouri grocery enterprise.

The three-judge circuit court reversed the decision of the U.S. District Court. The District Court in the Department of Labor suit had refused to issue the injunction on the ground that the Barnes Grocery Co., Piggly Wiggly Twin State Distributors, Inc., and Bowling Green, Inc., did not constitute "an enterprise."

The appellate court ruled that the ownership of all three firms rests in essentially a single family and therefore meet the requirements of common control.

The court said the three firms operated for a common business purpose.

The injunction would bar violation of minimum wage and overtime, both provisions of the labor law.

The three firms operated retail stores in Poplar Bluff, Mo., and Piggott and Corning, Ark.

WASHINGTON (AP) Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford said today the United States will not cut back the bombing of North Vietnam until the administration can work out some arrangement with the North Vietnamese which would protect American servicemen near enemy territory.

Clifford said the bombing restriction authorized by President Johnson March 31 allowed for strikes against the enemy above the demilitarized zone so U.S. and allied forces in that area would not be jeopardized.

"I think that reason still holds," the defense chief told a news conference.

Clifford said he felt that without some agreement with the North Vietnamese, the current bombing limitation is a "reasonable and logical approach."

At the same time, Clifford said the United States still awaits a "clear signal" from Hanoi that the recent lull in fighting in South Vietnam is North Vietnam's response to President Johnson's bombing cutback.

The United States has repeatedly called on North Vietnam to cut back its own warlike activity as a means of further de-escalating the war.

Clifford said U.S. intelligence information indicates the lull in fighting is merely a prelude to a third North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam.

If it is not, Clifford said, all the North Vietnamese have to do is "get the word to us."

But he also cautioned:

"I am not sure that at this point we can dignify the present circumstances by suggesting that it constitutes a marked departure from the enemy's activities in the past."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had indicated earlier there is argument within the administration over the significance of the lull, and the possibility it may signal a North Vietnamese willingness to de-escalate.

"We are trying to really find out what is going on," Humphrey said on the NBC "Today" show.

Despite the expected new round of attacks, Clifford said the United States will hold to the currently authorized ceiling on the number of U.S. troops in Vietnam, which is 549,500.

He disclosed that an additional 5,000 American troops have gone to South Vietnam in the past week, raising the total in the country to 543,000.

Clifford emphasized that despite the lull, the United States is still suffering relatively high combat losses.

In the seven-week period ending in mid-August, American combat deaths averaged 181 a week, Clifford said.

During the same period in 1967, weekly losses averaged 161 a week, he said.

And although the recent loss rate is lower than those recorded during the enemy's February and May offensives, they are about equivalent to the average weekly losses of 180 men last year.

Clifford also estimated that through July the North Vietnamese had sent 150,000 men— most of them replacements— into South Vietnam this year.

"We have no alternative, obviously, but to proceed on the assumption there will be a third offensive," Clifford stated.

Asked how long the United States will wait before deciding that the lull represents a change in the North Vietnamese attitude, Clifford said: "There is no definitive answer to that."

He said planned enemy attacks could be spoiled or delayed by operations of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U. S. commander in Vietnam, or could be affected by "developments in other capitals."

Clifford praised Abrams' strategy of trying to keep the enemy off balance, and then appeared to criticize proposals by some persons that the United States would be better off to defend only certain key population areas.

"I think it would be unwise to sit back and allow the enemy to prepare for attacks as he sees fit," Clifford said.

Physician Sees No Significant Change In Johnson X-rays

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - President Johnson's personal physical reported today that abdominal X-rays indicate "there has been no significant change in the President's physical condition" since 1966.

This word, from Vice Adm. George G. Burkley, was relayed to newsmen at the Texas White House here by press secretary George Christian.

Christian declined to go beyond the statement he attributed to Burkley.

However, Christian said anyone who saw Johnson make a speech Wednesday in Houston could only have noted that the President seemed in fine fettle.

A TRUCK DRIVER, W. R. Clegg, route one, Harrisville, Miss., stands in back of his tractor trailer that was struck by another tractor - trailer while parked on the shoulder of I-55, one half mile south of Sikeston. The truck's load, 700 bushels of corn was spilled on the shoulder for more than 100 yards.

Three Big Trucks Pile Up In Rear End Chain Reaction

A three tractor-trailer truck collision today at 2:15 a.m. resulted in injury to a driver and his assistant, and destruction of one trailer and a cab.

The three were southbound on Interstate 55 when the crash occurred 300 yards south of the I-55 and I-57 interchange, south of the Sikeston.

A 1968 Mac tractor trailer, driven by Sidney Lewis, 26, Morton, Miss., pulled on the shoulder to investigate a rear axle.

A 1963 Ford tractor-trailer, driven by William Clegg, 41, Harrisville, Miss., pulled off behind him, to give him assistance.

Everett Page, 30, Carbondale, Ill., apparently went to sleep, driving a 1966 International tractor trailer and rammed into the rear of the truck driven by Clegg, loaded with shelled corn, the state patrol reported.

The impact tore half of the truck open and spilled corn along the shoulder for 100 yards.

The cab of the Page truck on the right side was demolished. Page received cuts on his head, and a relief driver asleep in the upper portion of the cab, John Morris, 30, DuQuoin, had a sprained ankle.

Both were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

The Mac truck was in turn struck by the Clegg truck, but was not badly damaged and was able to proceed.

Clegg told the patrol that he was off the highway and had flashing lights in operation.

The corn truck was on its way to Forest, Miss., from Gilman, Ill.

A two-car collision Wednesday at 4:45 p.m. at the Oran city limits, sent Margot Westrich, 33, Oran, to St. Francis hospital, Cape Girardeau, for treatment of internal injuries.

The Westrich woman was driving a 1965 Ford, when a 1960 Ford stationwagon driven by Michael McMillen, 16, Oran, pulled out of an alley and struck the side of the Ford, the patrol reported.

McMillen was given a summons for careless and imprudent driving.

WRECKED CAB of a 1966 International tractor-trailer, is shown at the side of the highway I-55, one half mile south of Sikeston. The driver, Everett Page, 30, Carbondale, received cuts on his head, and a substitute driver, a sleep in the upper portion of the cab, received a sprained ankle.

Recovery Inc. Votes To Buy Eight Lots

Recovery Inc., the non profit corporation attempting to improve housing conditions in substandard neighborhoods in Sikeston, voted Wednesday to buy eight additional lots, if they can be purchased for the amount of delinquent taxes against them.

Four of the lots are in Sunset Addition, where the corporation has purchased five lots. Abstracts and FHA committments are expected to be received on the five lots and construction of five 3-bedroom houses for about $8,600 each can begin in a short while, Joe Peace, architecture student employed by Recovery for the summer, reported.

Peace plotted the lots to be bid in the tax sale at Benton. Four of the lots to be bid are in Sunset and four are at the corner of South West and William streets.

In a more ambitious project, Recovery Chairman W. Raymert Miller appointed a committee to examine contracts and decide on a consulting firm to develop a rent-supplement housing project. Committee members are Charles Mitchell, Donald Fulton and Charles Matthews.

Jack Dickerson, a staff representative of Kirschner Associates, Inc., in a recent meeting offered the services of the firm he represents in the planning, development, financing and construction of a housing project. All phases would comply with FHA approval and the corporation would not be liable for costs, Dickerson said.

Dickerson appeared at the meeting yesterday and asked that a committee be appointed and a letter of intent be sent him asking for the consulting firm's assistance in the project.

Miller explained the committee appointed would examine any other proposals, then issue a letter of intent.

The number of units to be constructed has not been decided. Recovery members previously discussed projects ranging from 50 to 150 units. The number of units would be decided in the initial planning stage upon agreement of the corporation and the consulting firm.

Hearnes Thinks up to 57 Missouri Votes May Go to Humphrey

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today he thought 54 to 57 of Missouri's 60 Democratic National Convention votes would go for Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

Reaffirming his own support of the vice president, the governor said he has not asked any delegate how he feels about the nomination but thought it was clear that the bulk of Missouri's votes would go for Humphrey.

Under a resolution adopted at the Democratic State Convention, a vote of two - thirds of the delegates could bind the entire 60 votes for Humphrey.

Hearnes said he expects a wild convention but did not elaborate.

He said his wife, Betty, is scheduled to sing on one of the four nights of the Chicago show.

Police Report Six Arrests

Solom F. Mathenia, 64, Corinth, Miss., was charged by Sikeston police Wednesday with failure to yield the right of way.

The car Mathenia was driving ran a stop sign at Main and Malone and was struck by a truck driven by Cecil D. Lynch, 32, 802 William St., police reported. No one was injured.

In other activity, James L. Western, 410 Wallace, was charged today with assault. He was arrested at his residence.

Vivian Davis, 126 Reuben, was charged early today with peace disturbance.

Roscoe W. Gray, route four, Sikeston, was charged Wednesday with public intoxication.

Alberta Rafferty, 924 South Main, was charged Tuesday with careless and imprudent driving for running a stop sign at Main and Malone.

Jerry McMackin, 230 Ruth St., was charged Tuesday with careless and imprudent driving for taking off at a high rate of speed.

Gene Jones, route three, Sikeston, reported to police Wednesday that a set of golf clubs and a set of assorted tools and their containers were stolen between Aug. 7, and Monday.

Charges Filed In Accident

NEW MADRID - Manslaughter charges have been filed against Kenneth Dewayne Johnson, 22, in connection with the fatal accident Monday night in which Gary Lynn Higgerson, 16, operator of a motorbike, was killed.

Johnson, home on leave from the navy, is a patient in Veteran's Hospital in Poplar Bluff from injuries sustained in the accident.

No date has been set for arraignment.

Helicopter Crash Takes 21 Lives

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-one persons — many of them looking forward to a Disneyland visit — were killed Wednesday in a helicopter crash similar to one that took 23 lives in this area last May.

Among the passengers were a recently retired grandfather, his wife, daughter and 8-year-old granddaughter, the 14-year-old grandson of the airline's president and three Denver businessmen.

The Los Angeles Airway helicopter broke apart and crashed in flames in an empty section of playground on a flight from Los Angeles International Airport of Disneyland.

It was the second worst commercial helicopter disaster in the United States. The worst, the crash of another twin-turbine Sikorsky S61L copter owned by the Los Angeles firm, occurred at nearby Paramount in May, killing 23.

The company suspended all flights. Witnesses told Federal Aviation Administration investigators they saw a tail rotor fly off, as preceded the May tragedy.

FAA experts began gathering the strewn wreckage to see if a reason for the crash could be determined. Cause of the May 22 disaster still remains a mystery.

Aboard the craft that crashed Wednesday were a crew of three men and 18 passengers.

The dead included Christopher Belinn, 14, grandson of Clarence Belinn, president of the helicopter line; John P. Meehan, 65, his wife, Helen, 63, and their granddaughter Anne, 8, of San Rafael, Calif., and businessmen Kenneth J. Atwell, Wes Eldreakamp, 39, and L. E. Baker, 44, all of Denver. Meehan retired two weeks ago as a San Francisco police captain.

The crew was identified as Capt. Kenneth L. Waggoner, 32, of Costa Mesa, Calif., the pilot; Frederick Fracker of Redondo Beach, Calif., co-pilot; and James A. Black, Wilmington, Calif., flight attendant.

Witnesses said they heard a "thump, thump, thump" as the helicopter fell earthward. Others described a loud "popping noise" followed by a rapid plunge and an explosion on impact.

The helicopter took off at 10:25 a.m. and was due at the Disneyland heliport at 10:41 a.m. It slammed to earth 12 minutes after takeoff while 30 children played about 200 feet away. No one on the ground was injured.

In the May tragedy, the copter went down 11 minutes after takeoff in a Paramount dairy farm 2¼ miles east of Wednesday's crash. It was en route from Disneyland to Los Angeles.

Kenneth Hahn, a Los Angeles County supervisor, demanded that the FBI be called in. Similarities between Wednesday's crash and the May disaster, he said, suggested "this could be a man-made accident as well as or instead of mechanical failure."

Just before the helicopter hit the ground, said Carl Shaw, 14, of Compton, Calif., he heard the pilot scream 'hell-l-l ... helll!" There was no other human sound from the craft, he said.

Steven Fuss of Hollywood, who was working nearby, said he saw the tail rotor fall off "as if it were sheared from the shaft."

"It then went straight out," said Fuss. "Then the copter rolled back end over end toward the tail, made two loops. Thirty seconds later it hit the ground."

Witnesses fought the spreading flames with small extinguishers as the fire streaked along the full length of the fuselage.

Jonathan Dollar, 48, said the pilot tried to the end to keep the copter airborne. "God bless that man," he said.

Efforts to Define Lull Bog Down

PARIS (AP) — U.S. efforts to find out in some official way whether the lull in Communist attacks in South Vietnam is intended by North Vietnam as a peace gesture apparently have bogged down.

American officials at the Paris peace talks say that as far as they are concerned the question is still open. But they now put major emphasis on their contention that North Vietnam is preparing for an offensive by pouring troops and military supplies into the South at a high rate. "The disposition of the North Vietnamese forces indicates that major military attacks are in preparation," U.S. spokesman William J. Jorden told a news conference Wednesday after the weekly session of the talks.

"If North Vietnam wished to convey to us some meaning (about the purpose of the lull), they could do so readily, directly or indirectly, and so far we have had no indication whatsoever."

Jorden did not say whether U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman has ever asked Ambassador Xuan Thuy or his deputies whether the lull has significance. U.S. officials say the question has not been put directly in any of the formal sessions, but they decline to say whether it has been raised in private conversation with the North Vietnamese during the coffee breaks at the meetings.

Nguyen Thanh Le, the North Vietnamese spokesman, declined to be drawn into discussion of the issue. When he was asked whether it came up in the 22-minute coffee break Wednesday, he said he only had time to drink tea. To another query on the same subject he said: "The United States continues to intensify the war in Vietnam."

Le at his news conference kept hammering at the point that "we are going to keep insisting" that the United States must stop bombing and "all other acts of war" against the territory of North Vietnam before anything else can be accomplished in the Paris talks.

He seemed intent on stressing that his government's stand on the bombing issue, including its refusal to promise a parallel scale-down of military action, is absolutely firm.

The 17th session of the talks, now in their fourth month, lasted four hours Wednesday, and the statements by both Harriman and Thuy followed a hard line. Each accused the other's government of intensifying the war while talking peace. Each said the talks had made no progress because the other side was unwilling to move realistically toward peace.

Western diplomats in Paris generally believe that Hanoi's leaders may be convinced that domestic political consideration will compel Johnson to call off the bombing without any concessions from North Vietnam.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

The American people are uneasy about the testimony of Associate Justice Abe Fortas that he served as a political errand boy for President B. Johnson.

It is disquieting for Americans in the hinterlands far removed from Potomac political practices to be exposed to disclosures that a supreme court justice has been cast in a servant's role by the President, who appointed him.

Blame cannot fairly be directed at Fortas because as a crony of President Lyndon B. Johnson he felt obliged to obey the commands of the man, who gave him a lifetime position on the nation's highest court.

This doesn't erase the fact that his conduct was beneath the dignity of a supreme court justice.

It would be useless to complain to President Johnson, who soon will leave office and who always has exercise political power as he saw fit.

The remedy lies in choosing a President who really believes in this country's separation of powers, a chief executive who believes that the best politics for him is to uphold this separation and to strengthen it rather than circumvent it or break it down.

Johnson has been motivated by the theory that what is best for the executive branch is best for the legislative and judicial branches.

This is not necessarily so.

Once a President appoints a supreme court justice he should let him alone if he is concerned about the welfare of the country.

This President Johnson has not done.

It was improper for Fortas to continue to act as the White House lawyer while serving on the supreme court, to participate politically on issues on which the supreme court might later rule, and to sit in on White House strategy councils.

Fortas has been serving two masters -- President Johnson and the American people.

He cannot do both. This involves a conflict of interest.

While on the supreme court he has continued to carry out administration policy much as he did before his appointment.

To maintain the independence of the judiciary, the American people must send statesmen to the White House not arm twisting wheeler dealers for whom the end justifies the means.

NO PLACE FOR NAZIS IN AMERICA

The American Nazi Party is very small in numbers and is without influence on the life of the nation. Its members get into the newspapers from time to time by brawling in public and insulting speakers with whom they disagree - and they disagree with almost everyone who makes a speech.

Of course, the term "American Nazi" is self-contradictory, for there is nothing in the least American about the Nazi ideology. Nazism is by its very nature intolerant, brutal and murderous. Those who call themselves American Nazis have absolutely nothing to contribute toward the solution of any of our country's problems.

There are so few of them that they cannot be considered dangerous to the United States. At best, though, they are a nuisance, and at worst they may add to the uneasiness in the minds of millions of Americans who are deeply disturbed by demonstrations and riots in our cities.

These American Nazis are among the potential destroyers of America. Nazism and communism are types of socialism equally far left of constitutional government.

The building of a community often begins in the local bank.

The stagnation of a community may also be the responsibility of the bank.

Following the parable in the New Testament, the banker may "bury his talents or use them."

In burying his talents he loses them and the whole community suffers. The banker who fully uses his talents (money) brings a blessing in the community and receives multiplied benefits.

The progressive banker is more interested in lending then in hoarding. His own income from loans for building is great. His income from hoarding is miserly, and as a simple money changer he is a drag to his community.

Few institutions can gain as much from the prosperity of the community as the local bank. The bank shares the profits of every local business. The progressive bank gains greater profit when it contributes to the development of all local institutions.

Such contributions cannot be maximum unless the services of the bank are understood by the people. Few people realize that a bank is more interested in lending than in savings. Few people understand what "full service" banking means. Only consistent advertising can educate the citizen as to the important place of the bank in community development.

This means, of course, that a strong and independent newspaper is the best support of the local bank, and vice versa.

And in communities where a good newspaper has not been established farsighted bankers are the first to look for a competent newspaper publisher to help in the leadership of community building.

St. Louis Cardinal fans have reason to be grateful for the services of Outfielder Roger Maris.

Maris has announced that this will be his last season as a player in the major leagues.

The Raytown citizen's career with the New York Yankees was a distinguished one. He broke the late Babe Ruth's home run record for one season of 60 in 1927 by polling 61 circuit clouts in 1961.

Then he went into a period when he was plagued by injuries and a batting slump and didn't do well until he joined the Cardinals.

His work with the Cardinals has been outstanding.

Maris has played a brilliant baseball afield and while he doesn't hit as he did of old he has been an inspired and dependable clutch hitter.

The Cardinals string of victories would not have been so long or impressive without the trusty stick work of Maris, who has won a number of games by timely hitting.

The Cards are well on the way to winning the National League pennant.

If they manage to repeat their 1967 achievement of winning the National League flag and the World Series, Maris will have the satisfaction of quitting while he is ahead.

Maris, who is 33, has called his two years in St. Louis his most enjoyable in baseball.

They have been rewarding ones for Cardinal fans, too, who wish him a pleasant life after he tucks away his glove and bat.

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that television repairmen get tired of hearing:

"The only difference between you and Jesse James is that Jesse rode a horse."

"What new tweed pattern are you going to leave us with this time, Benjy[ I got kind of tired of the last one."

"I don't know what's wrong with it. I kicked it several times—and even that didn't seem to help."

"Why can't you fix our television set so it will stay fixed[ Is that too much to ask["

"I hear that Benjy studied television repairing through a correspondence school. He must have run out of stamps after taking the second lesson."

"What!—You here again Benjy[ You spend more time in my living room than Walter Cronkite does."

"It was real eerie. We were just sitting there calmly watching an old Lucille Ball program, and then, instead of her voice, we heard Hubert Humphrey giving a political speech. How mixed up can a television set get["

"I'm giving you one last warning, Benjy. If you don't get this set in working condition in two days, I'll climb down your chimney with it next Christmas and leave it under your tree."

"What's wrong with it this time[ Well, for one thing, the NBC peacock looks like a flamingo or a blushing chicken. Are peacocks supposed to have pale pink feathers["

"Put away your screwdriver, Benjy. I guess I won't need you after all. Just before you got here, I jiggled the machine a little and now it's doing fine again. Here's a quarter for your trouble."

"My wife wastes whole days looking at soap operas, Benjy. I'd like to make a secret deal with you. Whatever she pays you to fix the set, I'll double the amount if you fix it so that it breaks down again ten minutes after you leave."

"Why is it that every television repairman, when he finds he can't make your old machine work anymore, can always refer you to an uncle or a cousin or a brother-in-law who is in the business of selling new sets[ Isn't that against the antitrust laws—or something["

"Well, Benjy, if our television set has you stumped, how about looking at my laundry machine or my vacuum cleaner[ They're not working either."

"Just do me one favor, Benjy. Tell me who your wife calls for help when the set in your own house breaks down—and I'll give him a ring."

"I'm warning you, Benjy—my check for this job is postdated 10 days. If our machine falls apart again in that time, I'll call the bank and tell them to stop payment."

"Well, the world can be grateful for one thing, Benjy—at least you didn't take up brain surgery."

"Is this your bill—or just the federal debt["

"We first suspected there was something wrong with it when we saw Richard Nixon addressing the Republican convention on the right side of the set, and on the left side we saw Kitty pouring Marshal Dillon a drink in the Long Branch Saloon."

"As soon as he finds out that we don't have any more beer in the refrigerator, he'll get the set working again in a jiffy."

"Benjy, you must make more out of television than Johnny Carson and Jackie Gleason put together."

"I don't want our television set to be lonely in case my wife and I should pass on suddenly, Benjy, so I've put a clause in my will leaving the machine to you. After all, it has spent more time in your shop than it has in our home."

BROTHERLY CRIME

AT THE TRIAL, the judge was questioning the prisoner.

"Have you ever been in trouble before?" he asked.

"No, sir," asserted the prisoner, vigorously. "And all I did this time was rob my kid brother's bank."

The judge was about to dismiss him, when the district attorney held up his hand.

"Your honor," he cautioned," the prisoner forgot to explain that his kid brother is the cashier of the Security National Bank."

It is human frailty that prevents one generation from understanding and trusting another. A young man of twenty-five will go into business and surround himself with others of his own age, or younger. Rarely will he employ men older. He thinks they are fossils.

As he ages, he continues to feel confidence and faith in his contemporaries. Whereas at twenty-five he thought men of that age had a monopoly on intelligence and resourcefulness, so at forty he turns to men of his own age for assistance. By the time he is sixty, he distrusts anyone under forty, except for routine work.

We need to remind ourselves occasionally that neither young nor old men necessarily know it all. Integrity, imagination, and executive ability may exist in full bloom at any age.

A neighborhood lady had given herself a fancy new permanent. Two of her neighbors were discussing the job after she had gone home."What do you think of it?" asked the first.

"Well, to me," said the second, "it looks like her parole came through just as the warden pulled the switch."

VIOLENCE IN OUR COUNTRY

The increasing violence and lawlessness in our country, most recently examplified by the murder of Senator Robert Kennedy, has prompted many of our people to ask why this is happening. President Johnson has appointed a commission to inquire into the causes of violence in our nation.

A commission is not necessary to find the underlying causes of the breakdown of law and order. Many of these causes have been obvious to right-thinking people for years.

The primary cause of the increasing lawlessness in this country is the attitude of permissiveness by those in leadership positions in government, education, and the communications media. We are told that if an individual wants to do something badly enough, he should be allowed to do it, and that individuals who disrupt law and order should not be punished.

This attitude of permissiveness appears in many Supreme Court decisions over the past decade which have protected the criminal, hampered law enforcement, and endangered innocent persons. If a criminal knows that Supreme Court decisions give him many ways to escape punishment, he will be much more likely to commit crimes.

We see permissiveness on college campuses. Professors have been teaching for year that absolute moral standards do not exist. Now students are putting this doctrine into practice, sometimes lead by professors, and all too often escape punishment for their lawless actions.

We must reverse these trends. We must again teach absolute moral values and require punishment for violators of the law. Only then will the climate of violence come to an end. HLH

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON SAYS: Jonathan Daniels reveals more details of FDR's secret romance; Mrs. Roosevelt discovered that Lucy Mercer had been at the White House; Lucy's visit at Warm Springs was hushed up.

POOR FOOD FOR GHETTOS

Almost one year ago, Nov. 16, 1967, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that "some chain stores have been loading their counters, particularly in the Negro ghettos, with food that has been rejected by the defense supply agency for U. S. troops." They gave further details.

On Aug. 11, the house government operations committee under Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D- N.Y., reported that grocery chains sometimes sell second - rate food in their ghetto stores;

WASHINGTON -- Jonathan Daniels, son of Woodrow Wilson's Secretary of the Navy, has written another book, "Washington Quadrille," giving more details of the secret romance of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It's a fascinating account of Washington society in the days of the Wilson administration, when young FDR served as assistant secretary of the navy under Jonathan's father, Josephus Daniels.

This time Jonathan, now editor of the Raleigh (N.C.) News and Observer, has done painstaking research to document a romance which could have changed history. More important than the romance, he has also told the story of Eleanor Roosevelt, the ugly duckling who married her handsome cousin, FDR.

Daniels has dug up the dates of the gay yachting trips on the SS Sylph when the dashing young assistant secretary of the navy took Lucy Mercer for weekend house parties down the Potomac. Eleanor Roosevelt was in Campobello, and Washington summers, especially during 1917, the first year the U.S. was fighting in World War I, were both lonesome and romantic.

Lucy Mercer, then 25, daughter of an aristocratic Maryland family, had become Eleanor's social secretary, later a navy yeomanette. There are two versions as to why she and FDR never married. One version is that Lucy, a Catholic, was unwilling to marry a divorced man. The other version is that Eleanor was firm in reminding her husband that he could never reach the White House as a divorced man.

My own knowledge of the romance came from Elsie Cobb Wilson, who later married Gen. Louis Little of the Marine Corps.

CALM MRS. ROOSEVELT

Elsie, a close friend of the Roosevelts, told how the romance came to a crisis when Eleanor came back from a summer of 1917 in Campobello, and driving through the Virginia countryside, passed her husband and Lucy in a parked car, in fond embrace.

Mrs. Roosevelt had an unemotional showdown with her husband, while Elsie had a talk with Lucy Mercer, advising her to step out of Roosevelt's life altogether.

It is not quite clear, either from Jonathan Daniel's book or from my conversations with Mrs. Little, whether it was Eleanor's confrontation or Lucy's decision to bow out that finally broke up the romance.

However, there are at least three subsequent chapters.

Elsie Little always blamed the Lucy Merger incident for the fact that Roosevelt would not promote her husband to be commandant of the Marine Corps. Gen. Little, a brilliant officer, reached the No. 2 rank in the Marine Corps, but FDR never made him commander. According to Mrs. Little, he was irked over the part she had played in breaking up his romance.

Another chapter occurred during the closing days of World War II when Steve Early, Roosevelt's press secretary, told me that late one night he received a phone call from an editor in northern New Jersey telling him that the President's special train was on a siding near Allamuchy and he, the editor, wanted permission to publish the story.

In those war days, the whereabouts of the President was a military secret and could not be published without permission. Steve withheld permission. He said that he learned later that FDR, traveling north to New York, had ordered his train stopped near the home of Lucy Mercer, who had become Mrs. Winthrop Rutherford.

FDR's DEATH

The final chapter in FDR's secret romance is told poignantly by Daniels in describing the death of the President in April 1945. Mrs. Rutherford had gone to Warm Springs, taking along portrait painter Elizabeth Shoumatoff. He suffered a stroke while posing.

Mrs. Rutherford was spirited out of Warm Springs, and Bill Hassett, the President's Secretary, deliberately omitted her name from the list of those who were with FDR when he was stricken. But Mrs. Roosevelt knew.

Daniels tells the story: "But Early blurted to him (Hassett): 'There's hell to pay, Bill. Mrs. Roosevelt knows that Lucy Rutherford was here.'

"Even in the midst of the solemn obsequities there was on her heart a secret something she had to face," Daniels continues. "She made direct inquiries. Had Lucy Mercer come to the White House in the times she had been away? The truth could not be denied. Eleanor's resentment could not be dissembled. She announced that she was getting out of the White House immediately."

She packed in record time.

Daniels goes on to tell of Mrs. Rutherford's own death, July 31, 1948. "The world Little noticed," he reported. "The New York Times obituary gave much of its attention to her dead husband."

Mrs. Roosevelt outlived Lucy by many years, and Daniels concludes his book by telling of Mrs. R's busy life, especially her life on July 31, the day of Lucy's death. She had taken a trip to Wilkes - Barre, Pa., where she dedicated a monument to her husband.

"The afternoon was growing late. The road she followed along the New Jersey - Pennsylvania line ran, as the twillight came on that afternoon, a little north of Allamuchy.

"There the word had come to prepare Lucy's place in the Rutherford family cemetery at Tranquility under the little mountains and not far from the pond where occasionally a blue heron stood as at Val-kill. The big, old Rutherford house loomed, solid and heavy in the dark. It had given Lucy shelter. She had given it grace, affection, a warm heart and a blithe spirit. She was welcome to its earth. Her story was over as Mrs. Roosevelt on her lengthening journeys rode by, hurrying home -- and to the world."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

BIG DRAFT COMING:

Top Labor Chiefs Launch Boom to Make Ted Kennedy Humphrey's Running Mate.

Washington, D.C.: —Inside labor, the boys in the front room, as well as the chiefs in the executive suites, want Ted Kennedy as Hubert Humphrey's running partner.

When they hear that the Vice President may choose Oklahoma's Senator Fred Harris, they say, in effect, that a Humphrey - Harris ticket would be "swell alliteration, but is it an inspiration?"

These words are those of one of the nation's most influential policy - making labor leaders who privately doesn't believe the Nixon - Agnew ticket will be easy to defeat.

"Maybe it's corn to say, chum, but the Humphrey campaign will need exhilaration and perspiration, as well as what some of my colleagues think will be built-in inspiration, simply because the enemy is Dick Nixon," he mused. "And young Ted Kennedy can give us what we need -- a jolt in the arm."

There are other labor leaders, equally as powerful, who are delighted to shed their anonymity along with their jackets these hot pre-convention days, and talk up for Ted Kennedy. This, regardless of the Massachusett's Senator's positive refusal to get into pre-Chicago politicking so soon after "Senator Bob's" murder.

"Nothing and nobody could beat a Humphrey - Kennedy ticket this fall," said Louis Stulberg, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers, the New York City - based union which invented modern laborite political action.

Stulberg, whose needle trades union traditionally has run the big eastern windup presidential rallies for Democratic candidates for decades, is no sideliner. Just two weeks ago he welded together some mighty disparate union leaders into the New York Labor Committee for Humphrey, first such regional machine in the nation. It went soft-sell so the pro-Rockefeller labor leaders would not be embarrassed and could swing into position with the Humphrey people after the Nixon nomination.

"I'm not denigrating the qualities of leadership of my good friend Hubert Humphrey, with whom I've been in regular contact," Stulberg said some hours after the Republicans left Miami Beach's silken coast.

It's just that Ted Kennedy would give terrific strength to the Democratic ticket. We need what the Kennedys have stood for in this nation. And let's be candidate, Ted can get along with us labor people far better than did his late brother. He is far warmer than Bob was. In our parlance, he is a nice guy, but nice guys finish last, unless they have Ted's youth, energy, appeal and posture.

"Yes, there is considerable talk in labor circles that Sen. Kennedy is more than acceptable. He is vital and regardless of what he has said, he can be drafted. No man today can really reject the call of a presidential candidacy and the national convention. We all are organizational people. He is too. And organization people just don't run off, or out."

Stulberg, whose union is a heavy contributor to the Democratic - labor coalition in a score of states, articulates labor's sentiments best.

This column's poll of national labor circles found considerable support for Stulberg's analysis and sentiment -- though there was a reluctance to talk publicly of a vice presidential nominee.

The attitude was that, publicly at least, this must be Mr. Humphrey's choice. But in such unions as the steelworkers, the longshoremen, the auto workers, the retail clerks, and other traditional Democratic supporters, the posture was the same: Draft Ted Kennedy regardless of what he says or where he is. Aristotle Onassis' yacht is but a phone call away.

A talk with some of the intimates of Ted Kennedy and "Senator Bob" reveals a yearning to get back into politics this year, and not in some uncertain 1972.

One of Bob Kennedy's closest advisers -- and I rarely saw one without the other -- put it in this way:

"I'm not bouncing into this one. But we do think that a Humphrey - Kennedy ticket can unite the party, cut deeply into McCarthy supporters, rally virtually all the labor people and the youth. But there are two crucial considerations which only Ted can cope with and determine. Grim as it sounds, he must decide whether he wants to get into the line of fire in this maniacal year after having lost Jack and Bob.

"And will Humphrey accommodate himself to Ted Kennedy on key issues. The Senator can't suddenly accept principles which he and Senator Bob were attacking just two months ago."

This would mean that Mr. Humphrey must establish a new Vietnam policy without repudiating the past, or the administration. There is might little difference between the two men on domestic policies. Furthermore, the Kennedys and the Vice President always have been fond of each other. There's sharp bitterness within the Kennedy Camp over Gen. McCarthy. They've always disliked him. And labor dislikes him.

So, if Ted Kennedy has the stomach for a campaign, the could be a swift, dramatic, traumatic, united roar for Ted Kennedy in the city where the equally young Jack Kennedy took his first swing at big-time politics.

Thomann-Tinsley Vows Pledged

Betty Carlene Thomann and Charles Ervin Tinsley Jr., route three, Charleston, were married at 2 p.m. Aug. 4 at the Illinois Avenue General Baptist church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl I. Thomann, 221 Crowe. Tinsley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Tinsley Sr., route three, Charleston.

The Rev. Ronald Austin officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Coyita Dockins was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal-length gown of angel mist taffeta and peau de ange lace. The empire bodice and long sleeves were made of lace. The controlled skirt was fashioned of taffeta. A lace chapel - length train was banded with taffeta and ended in a point.

Marcia Mays of Sikeston was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Peggy Tanner, Betty Hampton, both of Sikeston, cousins of the bride, and Topsy McClain of Sikeston. Junior bridesmaid was Dorothy Tinsley of Charleston, the groom's sister. Flower girl was Deborah Thomann, the bride's niece.

The attendants wore empire styled gowns of Serrana fabric. They wore headdress of roses covered with net and each carried a long stemmed yellow rose.

Miss Mays' gown was mint green trimmed in yellow velveteen ribbon. The other attendants wore pale yellow gowns with mint green trimming.

John Laster of Charleston was best man. Groomsmen were Pat Gresham and Bill Freezor, both of Charleston, brothers - in - law of the groom, and Gary Noisworthy of Charleston. Ushers were Julian Pease of Blodgett, the bride's uncle, and Dennis Stockman of Charleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomann entertained the wedding guests at a reception at the Holiday Inn.

The bride's table was covered with a white taffeta cloth overlaid with green net. The corners were draped and secured with yellow bows. A four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple centered the table.

Serving were Mrs. Rosie Pease of Blodgett, Miss Kay Johnson and Miss Dorothy Templeton, both of Sikeston.

Donna and Janet West were in charge of the gift table.

The couple left on a wedding trip to the South. They are living on route three, Charleston. Tinsley farms with his father.

The new Mrs. Tinsley formerly was a clerk employed by P. N. Hirsch and Company.

Sikeston, Beaumont, Tex. Remain Unbeaten

YOUR OUT was the call from first base umpire Lou Wise on this close play at first base in the final contest of a four-game opening series of the south plains regional baseball tournament at VFW stadium Tuesday. Making the play unassisted is Sikeston's Rick Wilson, at right, who reaches first base just ahead of sliding Felix Martinez of La Junta, Colo. At left is Potlatch pitcher Tim Halter, who hurled a two-hitter for a 5-1 victory.

Two teams were eliminated and two remained undefeated after a second full day of baseball at VFW stadium in the south plains Connie Mack regional baseball tournament.

Cape Girardeau and Corning, Ark., bowed out of competition after suffering their second defeats of the tournament by identical 1-0 scores.

Cape fell to El Paso behind the one-hit pitching of Jim Greggerson and Corning again failed to score as it did in its opener Tuesday night while out-hitting its opponents and lost to La Junta, Colo. Both were afternoon contests.

Sikeston waited eight years and finally overcame a Ft. Worth entry into the tournament by going 10-innings for a 3-2 victory in the nightcap.

Beaumont, Tex., remained unbeaten by topping Grand Prairie in the night opener, 6-1 behind a tight defense that yielded but one run and six hits while comitting one error.

El Paso rode the strong southpaw pitching of Greggerson through seven scoreless and six hitless innings in posting its first win of the tournament.

Greggerson allowed a single to Walt Matthews leading off the seventh inning for Cape only hit of the game as he faced 22 men and retired the first 14 batters he faced, getting 13 of the Missourians on strikeouts.

Paul Guerrero scampered home on the second inning for the game's only run after reaching first on an error by the Cape shortstop, Greg Brune. He advanced home on a wild pitch by losing hurler Tim Godwin.

DROUTH DISASTEROUS FOR CORNING

Felix Martinez scattered six hits in posting La Sunta's first win of the tournament in yesterday afternoon's second tame against Corning.

Corning failed to advance a runner past second base, stranding four at that position after one was out.

It was the second defeat by shutout for Corning, which outhit two opponents.

La Junta broke in for its only run in the third inning. Tim Waner reached first on a hit and swiped second before advancing home on a two base error by Corning's centerfield, Doug Harmon, who bobbled Martinez's pop fly.

BEAUMONT CAPS ON ERRORS

Grand Prairie failed in its bid to remain undefeated as it took a 6-1 drubbing from Beaumont, which captalized on five Grand Prairie errors to tally its runs.

All five of Grand Prairie's miscues came in Beaumont scoring innings with the first being in the third. Beaumont pushed across Russ Ball, who had singled after one was out and took base on an alert running play. He then scored on Jim Kerr's single after the second out hald been recorded.

David Bensen carded the victory with nine strikeouts to his credit.

FORESTERS FINALLY SCORE

Like the St. Louis Cardinals, Sikeston Potlatch has their fireman, that man being Tim Halter, the lad who had hurled the first win Tuesday night for Sikeston. He returned for two innings, reliefing Bruce Farris in the ninth with runners on first and second with no outs. He walked out of the jam and held Ft. Worth while his teammates scored in the top of the ninth.

Halter managed to do something no other Sikeston hurler in the past eight years had done in defeating Ft. Worth.

Halter provided the heroics on the mound while cleanup clutch-hitting by Gary Owens did the job at the plate. With two out and Wayne Limbaugh on third, Owens ripped a ball up the middle that scored Limbaugh to break a 2-2 deadlock that had checked the two teams for four innings.

Sikeston drew first blood with a pair of runs in the third inning with Stan Sorrells and Mike Garner driving in the tallies. Ft. Worth waited one inning before evening the score in the fourth and both teams battled from their out, with bqth threatening periodically.

Farris went eight innings for the Foresters and took count of 14 strikeouts, got into a pair of jams in the late innings but managed to work out.

Ft. Worth committed nine errors, with the biggest in the 10th inning when the losing hurler, David Green, shot a ball past the catcher, allowing Limbaugh to move to second.

Tonight, Sikeston and Beaumont meet to settle the matter of who will remain undefeated after El Paso encountered La Junta at 11 a.m. today and Ft. Worth went against Grand Prairie.

GARY OWENS, prepares to plant his foot on home plate in scoring the first run in Tuesday's opening game of the Sikeston Potlatch Foresters against La Junta, Colo., which the Foresters won 5-1. He played a major role in last night's 3-2, 10-inning win over Ft. Worth. He drove in the winning run in the tenth.

Gibson Serves As Fireman

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Gibson, the Big Pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, may have hurled the season's Big Win for the defending world champions Wednesday.

Gibson, notching his 14th straight victory with a 3-1 decision over the rampaging Chicago Cubs, fattened the Cards' first-place lead over the Cubs to 13 games.

Gibson, now 17-5, effectively scattered eight hits before a third straight howling, partisan weekday crowd of more than 30,000 to end a string of seven straight Cardinal defeats by the second-place Cubs.

The two clubs today wind up a four-game series — and their 18-game season rivalry — but, win or lose, the Cards seem to have dimmed the chances of a miracle stretch drive by the Cubs, now holding a 9-8 edge over St. Louis. Nelson Briles (15-7) will pitch for St. Louis and Ken Holtzman (8-8) for Chicago.

Gibson, last beaten May 28, discounted the importance of stopping the Cubs, who had visions of a four-game sweep to send St. Louis limping off with a shrinking 10-game lead.

"Any game is a big game to win after you have dropped three in a row," said Gibson.

"I heard on the radio we were getting to be fat cats. That's ridiculous. That comes from people who don't play the game. We're in it to play our best and win every time out," Gibson added.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

JAIPUR, India (AP) — Jaipur's oldest woman and one of the oldest persons in India, Jelle, died recently at the age of 112.

She was known and admired for her hectic life and prodigious hunger.

"It is much better now than in my youth when it was difficult to get even two square meals a day," she told a neighbor not long ago, while having one of her usual seven meals a day.

Big Red Swap For Giants' Childs

By The Associated Press

Returning kickoffs in the National Football League isn't child's play, so the St. Louis Cards went out and acquired Clarence Childs, once one of the best in this important department.

The trade that brought Childs from the New York Giants to the Cards was one among several in professional football Wednesday.

In other transactions, the Cards traded veteran linebacker Jerry Hillebrand to the Pittsburgh Steelers for a high 1969 draft choice and sent Sam Silas, a defensive lineman, to the Giants for a 1970 draft choice.

The New Orleans Saints traded linebacker Dave Simmons to the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft choice, and dealt second-string quarterback Gary Wood back to the Giants for two undisclosed draft choices.

Childs, also a defensive back, was among the NFL's leading kickoff return artists until he lost his starting spot last season to rookie Willie Williams. Childs was among the top ten in his specialty during his first four years in the circuit, but slipped to 21st in 1967 with a 20.8 yard average for 29 returns.

Hillebrand, acquired by St. Louis from the Giants in 1967 for Bill Triplett, had been traded to the Minnesota Vikings earlier. However, the Vikings sent him back to St. Louis, apparently dissatisfied with a knee condition which limited Hillebrand's training.

Simmons, a four-year veteran, played in 11 games for the Saints last season. New Orleans obtained him from St. Louis in the Saints' expansion draft.

New Orleans' expansion draft also was a factor in the deal that sent quarterback Wood back to the Giants. The Saints had acquired him from New York in the 1967 expansion draft and, under NFL rules, a team cannot trade back a player to the club from which he was drafted.

So, the Saints placed Wood on waivers and then notified all other clubs that he was intended for New York. The Giants promptly grabbed him. Wood saw limited action for the Saints last year, serving behind Bill Kilmer and Guary Cuozzo. New Orleans obtained quarterback Karl Sweetan from Detroit Tuesday.

In another development, Gene Snipes, considered one of the Atlanta Falcons' top pass catching prospects when summer training started, was placed on waivers along with rookie receiver Jack Head and defensive back Floyd Hudlow. Snipes, the Falcons' sixth draft choice in 1967, was on the Falcons' taxi squad last year.

Elsewhere, the New York Jets of the American League cut running back Henry Owens, defensive back John Dockery and end Wayne Richardson. Boston of the AFL released John Magnum, a defensive tackle. Houston, also of the AFL, trimmed Bob Longo, a split end, Johnny Brunson, a rookie halfback, and Ed Mitchell, a guard.

The custom of saying "God bless you" when a person sneezes is thought to have originated under Pope Gregory the Great when in A.D. 590 Rome was beleaguered by a plague which produced sneezing as a symptom, The World Almanac notes. It is said that after expiatory processions ordered by Gregory, the plague ceased.

Big Red Meet KC Chiefs

KANSAS CITY - The St. Louis Cardinals and the Kansas City Chiefs meet here Saturday night in the first cross-state battle between professional football teams and the Big Red's first playing-field contact with an American Football League team.

Kickoff at Municipal Stadium is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. (CDT).

A sellout crowd, blostered by the presence of several thousand St. Louisians, will view the game between a pair of clubs unbeaten in three pre-season contests.

The Big Red opened its 1968 campaign at home last Friday night, with Jim Hart piloting three first-half touchdown drives on the way to a 24-7 triumph over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Kansas City edged the Minnesota Vikings, 13-10, last Saturday night on a last-minute field goal by Jan Stenerud. The Chiefs had opened their pre-season campaign with a 38-14 romp over the fledgling Cincinnati Bengals.

"I think we're quite a bit ahead of where we were a year ago," commented Coach Charley Winner after the victory. "I think our conditioning showed up well, and there were a number of bright spots. Jim Hart led the team well, and our offensive line provided excellent protection for Jim and for Charley Johnson.

"There still are some things to be worked on, and we will be doing that before the season opens. For a first game, though, you'd have to say that we were pretty well satisfied."

The Cardinals rolled up 341 yards on the Steelers, and the Big Red defense limited Pittsburgh to only 191 total years, dumping quarterback Dick Shiner four times.

Hart, playing only the first half, completed nine of 16 passes for 130 yards and led the three scoring drives. Willia Crenshaw bulled a yard for the first score, and passes to Bobby Joe Conrad (seven yards) and Jackie Smith (33 yards) provided the other two.

Crenshaw topped the rushers with 46 yards in 13 carries. Cid Edwards added 37 in seven tries, Roy Shivers picked up 26 in three carries and John Roland posted 23 yards in six attempts.

Smith and Conrad each caught four passes, one for a score. Smith totaled 73 yards, Conrad 56. Billy Gambrell and Dave Williams snared two apiece.

Jerry Stovall was credited with an interception and a fumble recovery, and Church Walker fell on a fumble. Chuck Latourette punte three times for a 39-yard average.

Looking to the meeting with the Chiefs, the Cardinals will be facing a team that is laced with top performers and which is led by veteran quarterback Len Dawson, who piloted the Chiefs to the first Super Bowl game. Mike Garrett, Bert Coan and Wendell Hayes spark a strong running game, and receivers Otis Taylor, Fred Pitts and Fred Arbanas have good speed and moves.

Navajos Celebrate their Sovereignty

By HOWARD GRAVES
Associated Press Writer

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The Navajos, the nation's largest Indian group, are celebrating their centennial year of freedom.

Under the Treaty of 1868, signed with the U.S. government, the Navajos achieved sovereignty — the nation's only Indian tribe to hold such an agreement.

The June 1, 1868, signing by 29 Navajo headmen and 10 U.S. Army officers ended four years of captivity under the Army at Ft. Sumner, a specially built installation in what is now east central New Mexico.

An estimated 1,500 Navajos died during the exile. Historians say 7,304 made the famed "Long Walk" back to their reservation area of what is now eastern Arizona and western New Mexico.

In late June, 165 Navajo men, women and children — all in traditional dress — participated in a reenactment of the peace treaty signing at the now abandoned fort site. Then, riding most of the way in four air-conditioned buses, the Navajos reenacted the "Long Walk" back to Window Rock, their reservation capital.

Each of them received $10 per day for the six days they were away from the 25,000-square-mile reservation which also extends into a part of Utah.

Those selected for the pageants represented a broad cross section of the reservation population of an estimated 110,000.

Martin Link, Navajo Centennial Commemoration Committee chairman, said the reenactment ceremonies meant a great deal to the Navajos, especially the older ones, many of whom don't speak or understand English.

"The big thing nowadays," Link said, "are protest marches. The Navajos marched not to Washington, but to their symbolic home, Navajoland."

He added, "We're too busy constructing and don't have time to destruct. The best way to improve life is to build, not to burn."

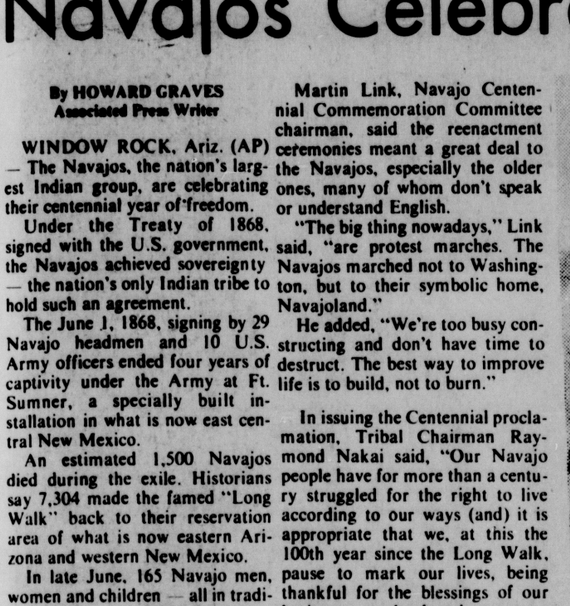
In issuing the Centennial proclamation, Tribal Chairman Raymond Nakai said, "Our Navajo people have for more than a century struggled for the right to live according to our ways (and) it is appropriate that we, at this the 100th year since the Long Walk, pause to mark our lives, being thankful for the blessings of our heritage, our land and our progress."

When the Navajo marchers returned to Window Rock in a dramatic ceremony July 4, Nakai, the ninth person elected chairman, said, "Today, freedom rings for us, the Navajo people, even louder, even more distinctly than for the rest of America.

"Today, we stand on the threshold of achievement. We cannot stop now. We dare not. Success will be ours. We have only to live up to the legacy of courage and perseverance left to us by our ancestors."

READY FOR REENACTMENT — Dick Drabble, Ft. Defiance, Ariz., Bob Potter, Mesa, Ariz., and Don Woodward, Gallup, N.M., as U.S. cavalrymen, lead Navajos through a field to ceremonies reenacting the signing of a treaty which ended four years of Navajo captivity under the Army at Ft. Sumner, N.M. The Navajos portrayed warriors and other Navajo men. The field is part of the original fort site where Navajos were held in captivity from 1864-1868.

THE LONG COAT — Cotton canvas in a forest green shade interprets a many-pocketed midi-coat. Belted at the waist in trenchcoat tradition, it's teamed with trousers fashionably flared at the hem. By Don Simonelli for Modelia.



1968 REENACTMENT of peace treaty of 1868 signing at Ft. Sumner, N.M., has Graham Holmes, Bureau of Indian Affairs area director at Window Rock, Ariz., portraying Lt. Gen. W.T. Sherman. The Indian portrays one of the 12 Navajo headmen who signed the original treaty.

IOE TOLEDO awaits his turn to board the bus that will take some of his people to Ft. Sumner, N.M., to reenact signing of peace treaty of 1868. His son, Harry Toledo, gives a final check of the label on their baggage.

OPEN WIDE for a comparison test to see who has fewer cavities. Three-year-old Michael Lankes of Austin, Tex., has a lot of growing ahead of him, but his feline friend has had it, for it's stuffed.

Johnson Will Open New Jewelry Store

50 years ago
August 15, 1918

Announcement. I have opened a jewelry store and repair shop in the Mayfield building, occupied by the Shankle Music House, where I will be glad to serve those needing anything in jewelry or repair work. I was with E. Julson's Jewelry Store in Sikeston for two years, also have had a thorough course of instruction in a watchmaking school. James P. Johnson.

Teenage Drivers Urged to Cool It

Dear Ann Landers: Drunk drivers get fined, speeders get fined, people who drive without a license get fined, but nothing is done about teen-age sexpots who can't leave each other alone long enough to let a fellow drive a car.

I am not a crabby old lady. I am 24 years of age. I love my husband very much, but I wouldn't dream of kissing him or running my hands through his hair when he is at the wheel.

Last night we were on the highway and noticed the car ahead was weaving from one side of the road to the other. My husband said, "That guy must be drunk." As we got closer we saw the driver was a boy of about 18. At first it looked as if he were alone in the car. Then another head appeared. Ann, the girl was sitting on the boy's lap kissing his neck.

Why is there no law against this sort of thing? - FUMING

Dear Fuming: According to Chief Nicholas Ferri of the Illionis Secretary of State's office, there IS a law against reckless or negligent driving. There is also a law against interfering with a driver's ability to control a vehicle. Chief Ferri said a staggering number of accidents occur because kids insist on making out at high speed. He asked me to suggest that kids from coast to coast cool it. So do like the man says.

Dear Ann Landers: How long does a mother have to keep still? Forever?

My husband is a kind and gentle man. We raised our children to be thoughtful and considerate. I never recall my husband losing his temper with me, although I am sure I deserved it.

The problem is that our darling daughter is married to a man who is so mean and abusive it breaks our hearts to be around them. Our son-in-law takes sadistic delight in insulting and hurting this poor girl. She keeps a neat and comfortable house and has raised two fine children. Everyone loves her.

What mystifies us is that she takes this punishment and never opens her mouth to defend herself. Yesterday we were there for dinner and he let fly some foul language for no reason whatever. What is the matter with him anyway? -- WE NEED AN ANSWER

Dear Need: Your son-in-law is obviously immature, short-fused, and he probably feels woefully inadequate for reasons which go a long way back.

The real question, however, is what's the matter with your daughter? Why does she tolerate this shameful abuse? When she is able to face up to the answer to this question she might find a solution.

Dear Ann Landers: Please stop knocking fortune tellers and calling them fakers. I can attest to the fact that a tea leaf reader has added years to my life by warning me to stay out of planes, helicopters and motocycles. In the last five years I have lost two friends in plane accidents, a cousin in a helicopter crash and my neighbor was killed last week in a motorcycle accident. If it hadn't been for the fortune teller I might have been with them. -- SIGN OF THE SAPPHIRE

Dear Sign: Did the tea leaf reader warn you against taking a bath? Thousands of people are injured every year getting in and out of bathtubs.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

If You Were the Judge

Party Guests Liable For Overindulgence

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Walter and Wally went to a wedding at the Joneses' where they toasted the health of the bride and groom so often they nearly ruined their own. In fact, by the time they left the party, you could hardly tell them apart since they zigged-zagged so much alike.

Getting in their car, Walter did the driving. Unfortunately, he didn't get to drive very far. Two blocks away he had a head-on collision with Helen who would have been glad to have given him half of the road if she could have told which half he had wanted.

Climbing out of the wreckage, Helen not only sued Walter for her injuries, but she sued Mr. Jones as well.

"If he hadn't permitted Walter to get so loaded at the wedding," she complained in court, "there would have been no accident. Having supplied them with so much liquor, he's responsible for the consequences."

"That's ridiculous," retorted Mr. Jones. "A host can't ride herd on a guest at a wedding. It's a celebration. If a guest celebrates too much, it's not the host's fault."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold Mr. Jones responsible for the accident?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that private individuals are not liable for the actions of their social guests who over-indulge in the liquid hospitality provided at private homes or parties.

Four Receive God And Country Award

The God and Country Scout Award was presented to Fred Cauthorn, Bill Colwick, Greg Colwick, and Jim Swacker at the First Christian church. The Award was presented after the completion of a course of study and work in the God and Country program in which they enrolled last fall.

Those participating in making the presentation were Roy Nall, Scout Master; Ray, district scout executive from Cape Girardeau, Charles Shaw, assistant Scoutmaster; Earl Jarvis, chairman of the board of the Eagle review, and the Rev. Durward Penry, minister.

The Prayer
The Upper Room

One of his disciples aid to him, "Lord, teach us to pray." (Luke 11:1, RSV)

PRAYER: Thou art here now with me, O Lord; and even as I talk with Thee, I am growing stronger. The darkness of doubt is clearing away and Thy light is making this day to shine for me. Thanks be to Thee, O Lord, most high. Amen.

Today In U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Aug. 15, the 228th day of 1968. There are 138 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1904, the Panama Canal was officially opened to traffic.

On this date:

In 1769, Napoleon Bonaparte was born on the island of Corsica.

In 1935, Will Rogers, the humorist, and aviator Wiley Post were killed in the crash of their airplane near Point Barrow, Alaska.

In 1944, the Allied invasion of southern France began in World War II.

In 1947, the independent states of India and Pakistan were created, ending two centuries of British rule.

In 1948, the independent Republic of Korea was proclaimed.

In 1961, East German workers began to build the Berlin Wall.

Ten years ago: United Nations observers reported that it had found no evidence of massive infiltration into Lebanon from the United Arab Republic.

Five years ago: Fulbert Youlou resigned as president of the Congo Republic, and the army took charge.

One year ago: Fairbanks, Alaska, was devastated by floodwaters as the rain-swollen Chena River swept over its banks.

New York State pays its governor $50,000 annually, the highest gubernatorial salary in the nation. California, with $44,100, ranks second.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

Ed Bihr, legislative chairman of the Missouri School Boards Association and co- chairman of the Governor's Conference on Education, states, in a recent article in the MISSOURI SCHOOL BOARD, that Missouri is still $87.00 below the national average in terms of current expenditures per pupil, ranking 35th in the nation among the 50 states. The average salaries of teachers in Missouri are $790.00 below the national average. Fifty per cent of the revenue used for public elementary and secondary education, comes from local school districts with only 34.2% being provided by the state government.

Missouri ranks 16th among the states in income per pupil, thus indicating Missouri's ability to provide adequate financial support for education, which it is not presently doing, Mr. Bihr continues.

Increasing pressure on the local property tax, as a primary source of school support, makes it imperative that the state participate more fully in school financing, we would add to the above statement. Unless the next session of the legislature results in much greater state support, Missouri's schools are in for real trouble. We are already losing good teachers to other states and we could not blame Missouri's teachers for departing, en masse, in the event that our General Assembly fails to live up to its obligation. It is up to every Missouri citizen, all of whom are concerned with the quality of education in the state, to actively assist the governor and the legislature in facing this problem.

Vandalism, i.e.: senseless and wanton destruction or defacement of school property, is becoming an increasing problem to Boards of Education and school administrators throughout the nation. We are faced with more vandalism in our schools here. This week, two plate glass doors, costing in the neighborhood of $300, were broken out by rock- throwing vandals. This is only one example of the breakage and destruction which annually costs the taxpayers of this school district several thousand dollars.

Such irresponsible and criminal actions result in a weakened educational program because of the loss of property which must be replaced or repaired, it benefits no one and sets up a pattern of criminal behavior on the part of the vandal, which may result in even worse crime.

Our Board of Education, the faculty and employees are adopting a very positive policy of trying to prevent vandalism first of all, and secondly, trying to apprehend and convict those who are responsible. We ask parents, in fact all citizens, to help us eliminate this vicious practice. The Board has established a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person who destroys or defaces school property. With the help of the police and city government, we intend to aggressively preserve and protect the taxpayers' interest and property. We solicit the cooperation of all.

The enrollment fee for elementary school children, including kindergarten is the usual $1.50. This partially covers some of the additional materials provided by the school: the weekly reader, penmanship paper, art supplies. etc, which purchased individually by the pupil would cost much more.

Middle school students will pay an enrollment fee of $3.00 for consumable supplies and at the high school, the $14.00 enrollment fee will include supplies, book rental, insurance and an activity ticket to all sports and activities.

Elementary and middle school children may buy activity tickets admitting them to athletic contests for $3.00. Individual admission for each contest, without an activity ticket, is 50 cents per contest.

The insurance which the child may buy through the school is provided by as an additional service and it is suggested that parents may wish to buy insurance from their own insurance agent. At the elementary and middle school level, the school insurance is optional for the parent and the cost is $2.25 per student per school year. At the high school level, insurance is included in the enrollment fee.

Classes opening the 1968-69 session of the schools will open at 8:00 A.M., Wednesday, August 28th. All students, grades K through 12 will report with the exception of juniors and seniors who will not be required to attend classes on the opening day. The first day of school will be devoted to the orientation and organization of freshman and sophomore students who have not previously attended Senior High School, hence the one day recess for juniors and seniors who will report on August 29th. Next year, it will not be necessary to hold juniors and seniors out of school until the second day, as then only incoming freshmen will be involved.

---

The cost for the daily noon meal for elementary school children will remain the same as last year or $1.50 per week plus an additional 10 cents if they desire extra milk at the mid morning break.

Middle school and high school student meals are 35 cents per meal.

Kindergarten youngsters will not be served at noon and the second session children are expected to have had lunch prior to reporting to school. They will be provided a mid session snack at a cost of 20 cents per week. This will consist of milk or fruit juice and cookies.

Angela DeLeon Dies Tuesday

EAST PRAIRIE -- Angela Batz DeLeon, 77, died in the Charleston Host House at 10:45 p.m., Tuesday after an illness of three months.

She was born July 19, 1891 in Wickliffe, Ky., and resided in Mississippi county for 48 years.

She was a member of the Church of God. Her husband, Nathaniel DeLeon, preceded her in death.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Jack Pratt, Bloomington, Calif.; three sons, Clifton DeLeon, East Prairie, David Joe DeLeon, Granda Hills, Calif., and Nathaniel DeLeon, Corona, Calif.; two sisters, Misses Nola and Dell Batz, both of St. Louis; one brother, Sampson Batz, Wichita, Kans.; nine grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

Services will be in the Shelby Funeral Home, Sunday at 2 p.m., with the Rev. J. L. Hatchel, officiating.

Burial will be in Dogwood cemetery, near here.

Two Breakins Investigated

NEW MADRID - Two break-ins Tuesday night are being investigated by the sheriff's department.

Entry was made to the New Madrid County Health Center by forcing the lock off a basement door. A 17-inch portable television was taken from the health director's office. A cabinet type safe was pried open and filing cabinets ranscaked but nothing taken.

One 38 caliber, chrome plated, long barrel revolver and an undetermined amount of money from vending machines were taken in the break-in of Rosie's Colonial restaurant. Entry was gained by removing a window at the rear of the cafe.

MONEY NEVER GONE

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — James J. Neely, district supervisor for the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, notified police that $2,428, representing proceeds from a Pennsylvania scholastic track meet, was missing from the safe in the McCaskey high school. Later, he called police to cancel the alarm, saying he had deposited the money over the weekend in the school's bank account, but had forgotten about it.

Breakins at Catron and Parma Firms

NEW MADRID - Burglars entered the David M. Barton gin office at Catron Monday night by forcing the front door and blew the safe open with explosives.

No money was taken from the safe but insurance papers and three checkbooks were taken. About $50 in change and one dollar bills were taken out of a desk drawer. One adding machine and one typewriter were stolen.

The sheriff's department of New Madrid warned anyone handling a check drawn on the First National Bank of Blytheville, imprinted "David M. Barton Gin Co., "David M. Barton Farms, Inc." or "David M. Barton, personal account" should investigate the issuance of the check.

Officers believe four break-ins reported in Parma were made by the same thieves.

Lovelace Station and Garage there was entered by forcing a side door. Money was taken from a soda and cigarette machine.

Glass was removed from a front window at Lutes Cafe. Money from a pinball machine and juke box and $25 in pennies and nickels in a cigar box was stolen.

Taken from Bea's Cafe was money from a juke box, cigarette machine, pool table, rifle target game and four pinball machines. Entry was gained by taking the glass out of a front door.

The front door glass was broken out of Midwest Auto Store, but no entry was made.

Four Breakins At Dexter

DEXTER - Police are investigating breakins at four business establishments Wednesday night.

At Bud Davis Chevrolet two tires and wheels were stolen along with a chrome finished breather.

The bus station was entered on the same night and $50 to $60 in cash was taken.

The Dexter Cotton Gin reported that a .22 caliber rifle was stolen and the fourth breakin was reported at Taylor and Christian Augo Sales, highway 114, where a breather for an automobile was also stolen.

BEETLE TROUBLE

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Big, black beetles were blamed for a number of car pileups on an expressway here. A three-mile stretch of expressway had to be closed until sand could be scattered. The beetles, apparently forced out of lowlands by heavy rains, made the pavement so slick that driving became hazardous.

Springfield Civic Leader Dies

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) - Lester Edmond Cox, described by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes as one of the state's most prominent citizens, died Wednesday night of an apparent heart attack.

Cox, a prominent civic leader and Springfield industrialist, died in Burge - Protestant Hospital following a 50th wedding anniversary celebration at his home. He was 72.

He was part owner of KOAM-TV, at Pittsburg, Kan.

A physician said Cox had suffered several heart attacks in recent months and that he probably suffered another one Wednesday.

Upon learning of the death, Gov. Hearnes issued a statement at Jefferson City which said:

"I am very sorry to hear of the death of my friend Lester E. Cox, one of Missouri's most prominent citizens. He was well known for his outstanding civic work and industrial leadership in the Springfield area.

"Mr. Cox was equally well known for his many services to the entire state of Missouri. As a former member of the Missouri Commerce and Industrial Development Commission and the University of Missouri Board of Curators, a member of the Missouri Academy of Squires, and as one of my appointees to the State Board of Health, Mr. Cox consistently worked for the best interests of his state. His death is a great loss to Missouri."

James A. Hutton Dies Wednesday

EAST PRAIRIE -- James Austin Hutton, 43, who formerly farmed near here and recently moved to St. Louis, where he was a city employe, died Wednesday at 2 a.m. in Alexander Bros. hospital, after a short illness.f

He was born in Winslow, Ark., Feb. 22, 1925, and lived in Mississippi county for 36 years. A veteran of World War II, he was a member of the Baptist church here.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Edna Hutton, St. Louis; three daughters, Mrs. Brenda Kunkel, St. Louis, Misses Rhoda and Sharon Hutton, both of St. Louis; two sons, James R. and Samuel E. Hutton, both of St. Louis; two sisters, Mrs. Louise Welch and Mrs. Marie Welch, both of Chouteau, Okla.; two brothers, Leon Hutton, New Madrid, and Earl Hutton, Chouteau; his paternal grandfather, James Hutton, Chouteau.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the Shelby Funeral Chapel, with the Rev. Elva Archie, officiating.

Burial will be in Dogwood cemetery, near here.

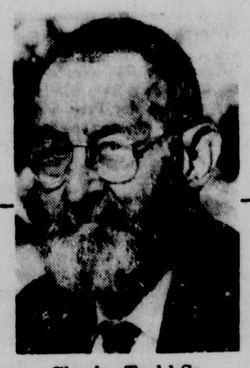
NEW DELHI (AP) — Condemning a ecent threat to kill the new chief minister of Mysore State, Veerendra Patil, a disciple of Mohandas Gandhi commented:

"On reading the news, I wondered if our people are imitating America. We are far away from the affluence and other achievements of that country."

R.R. Diwakar, president of the Gandhi Peace Foundation, regretted that any Indian should think of violence to achieve political ends.



Charles Todd Sr.

Charles Todd Sr. Dies in Belleville

ST. LOUIS - Charles Todd Sr., 84-year-old industrial launderer and inventor, died Wednesday, in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Belleville, Ill., of cancer.

Smart Grade Schoolers Dress Up to New Standards

AFTER A DAY OF HARD STUDY, IT MIGHT BE FUN to skate home from school. This young man dresses for school and the active life in warm jacket, plaid slacks and tie oxford with crepe sole. Casual shoes by Hush Puppies, traditional slacks by Metro.

ON THAT IMPORTANT FIRST DAY of school, fashions such as this shirtdress in paisley print Oxford cloth give a girl confidence. Note the Nehru collar and button-trimmed placket. By Cinderella in Lowenstein's easy-care cotton.

BACK TO TEACHER, BACK to books, grade school girls go smartly. Grown-up fashion idea might be a "Bonnie look" dress with dirndl skirt, vest. This one by Judy Bee in Wamsutta's easy-care cotton print.

ALL WORK AND NO PLAY? SCHOOL SEASON brings fun and parties, too, so back-to-school shopping usually includes dress-up wear — pretty dresses, smart slacks and jackets, and good-looking shoes. She's wearing polished leather pumps; he's well-shod in smooth leather oxfords with perfs on the squared-off toes. Shoes by Edwards.

How to Stock Home Library For Student

Much is said today about tape recorders, language records, other modern aids to in-home study.

But what about reference books? They are still the basic requirement for home study.

A well-equipped home reference library for students might consist of:

1. A new dictionary. "New" is important, since words and word meanings change constantly.

2. A thesaurus. This useful vocabulary aid can assist the student in writing more effectively.

3. An atlas. Here too, a recently-issued edition is useful.

4. An almanac or other annual fact book. This can help the student keep abreast of current events.

5. A modern encyclopedia. Look for a set which includes, in the purchase price of a full set, forthcoming supplements to bring the volumes continually up to date.

6. A book of famous quotations. Words of statesmen and authors may often be a source of helpful inspiration to the student.

TAKING THOUGHT of school, boys choose the comfort, good looks of sweaters. This one by Henry J. Tully, in Creslan acrylic fiber.

New Dimensions in Learning Aimed Also at Stimulating the Gifted

Just as there are newly developed packaged "remedial reading" systems for teacher aids, so too there are "supplementary" packaged systems designed to stimulate the average, the bright, and the highly motivated pupils to go beyond their ordinary classroom work.

New systems of this type for elementary and junior high school levels produced by New Dimensions In Education, are gaining favor among teachers. These packaged systems include cards, film strip, self checking devices and professional guides for teacher to use the sets in encouraging students to extend their learning at their own pace.

• • •

Turning a repetitive lesson from a sometimes-tedious drill into a creative experience is aim of new educational devices such as the "Language Master" instructional system.

Through a recording and playback device, students can hear instruction from prerecorded cards, then repeat and record what the cards have just played.

A wide selection of programs has been prepared for use with the "Language Master," by the manufacturer, Bell and Howell.

High School Student Uses Imagination

The trim, ready-to-act styling of shirts, slacks, sport coats and outerwear reflects the more imaginative personality of the teen man going back to high school.

An increased emphasis on correct grooming, linked with a resurgence of the suit at least for the older high school males, by no means limits the variety or versatility of class-campus clothes.

Conformity, in the sense of sameness, belongs to yesterday. Today, high schoolers express individuality, in both taste and personality, within the framework of current trends.

One reason for the happy combination of neatness with imagination may be seen in the clothes themselves. The suit is likely to be a "mixed" suit—for instance, patterned sport coat and vest combined with solid slacks, or vice versa.

Bold plaid and patterned slacks tend to take over from more conservative solid colors. And, like his older college brother, the high school man may opt for the new "earth" and "natural" tones in solids or patterns.

Military styling takes command in sports coats and outerwear. For the touch of imagination, there's the Nehru jacket, ready to meet special events on the high school calendar.

In keeping with this style mood are trim-looking guru shirts for classroom wear.

Sweaters worn with patterned slacks continue as a popular classroom combination, with turtlenecks scoring high.

Whether turtleneck or otherwise, sweaters generally carry out the heavier, "country" look, in thick-and-thin, cable, fishnet and basket-weave patterns.

ADD DETAILS

The outerwear look is accented with suburban details such as belts, mammoth pockets, hoods, big collars.

SKI LOOK continues on campus and for active weekends, in sweaters like this half-turtle, striped pullover. It is one from Jantzen's NFL Expandables collection.

NOW RECORD PLAYERS are reading aids. "My Books that Talk and Record Player" lets children hear favorite stories as they read. By Kenner.

Match What They Wear To Advanced Studies

The generation of youngsters now in grade school has a maturity and sophistication that was once to be expected only of the much older high school set. This is reflected in their more advanced studies in the sciences, languages, math. It is reflected, too, in the way they dress.

Clothes suitable for youthful grade schoolers, and with ease-of-care in mind for Mom, stress a well-planned, well-groomed look and an active interest in fashion-of-the-moment.

Fashion news that will most affect a schoolgirl's complete wardrobe is the return of separates and the fitted waistline.

Her best friend in dresses are classic favorites with fitted, natural waistlines and full skirts.

Classically tailored jumpers, pleated skirts, vests and blazers return to their studies. Shirts and sweater-shirts teach a basic wardrobe to add and subtract partners-in-style, to create a closetful of fashion looks.

Classic tartans, glens, district checks, argyl, knits and romantic, old-fashioned prints earn high marks for grade school girls' fashions.

Boys will be boys in the "country look" for fall. This casual but-not-careless way of dressing has the look boys have always liked, in sturdy clothes that take lots of wear, feel comfortable, look neat and colorful.

Tweed, twill and corduroy are the favorite fabrics in "country look" class. Tweed rates for sport coats, outerwear and twill for blazers, slacks and outerwear as well as for soft flannel-like shirts. Pinwale printed corduroy is new in textures for slacks, sport coats.

"Country look" sweaters favor bulky knit pullovers and turtlenecks in warm tones.

Western-style outfits rope young boys into jean-like clothing in denim and corduroy that's made-to-take-it, and many outfits come with permanent press and soil resistant finishes.

Federal, State Officials Seek Long-Range Solutions To Problems of Paying High Cost of Education

Severe financial problems confronting the schools are forcing both state and federal officials to take a new look at the ways of paying for the education of American children.

Federal aid continues to ride the crest of a popularity wave in Congress, with education programs being among those to win strongest bipartisan support. Congress this year has allotted nearly $3.9 billion to programs run by the U.S. Office of Education.

New programs to extend and enlarge aid to elementary and high schools, purchase textbooks and library books, prevent school dropouts, give technical assistance to rural schools and provide for the education of children with language problems are on tap.

State officials too are making a determined effort to seek out new ways of aiding the schools to meet rising educational costs.

The reasons for the crisis are obvious — costs are going up. They reached a record peak last year, rising 6.9 per cent, according to a nationwide survey in School Management magazine.

Money problems have placed many school districts in a tight financial bind.

Wyoming this year considered shortening the school year to save cash. Last year, Cincinnati schools had to cut funds for high school varsity sports, kindergarten and many other programs.

Meanwhile, property tax increases for school support are meeting widespread resistance. Just two examples:

Los Angeles threatened to trim $15 millions from its budget because a proposed tax increase was rejected. White Plains, N. Y., taxpayers twice rejected an increase in school spending before finally giving their consent.

On many fronts, the debate over how best to finance your child's education goes on. Out of all the ferment may come long-range solutions that will improve the quality of education, and the lot of the teacher, in thousands of American communities.

They're Taking 'House' out of Schoolhouse

The schoolhouse of the future may not be a schoolhouse at all.

It may be teaching space built into apartment or office buildings.

It may be the student's own home or apartment, linked by television to live teachers or to computer-controlled stores of knowledge.

Or, it may be a rapid-transit system that carries the student to university-supported "resource centers" handling different subject areas.

Two factors are behind new concepts of the schoolhouse, one educational, the other economic.

Efforts to tailor education to the needs of the individual child are contributing to the disappearance of the schoolhouse.

And rising real estate costs and spreading population are making the single-purpose, part-time facility called the schoolhouse unrealistic from an economic point of view.

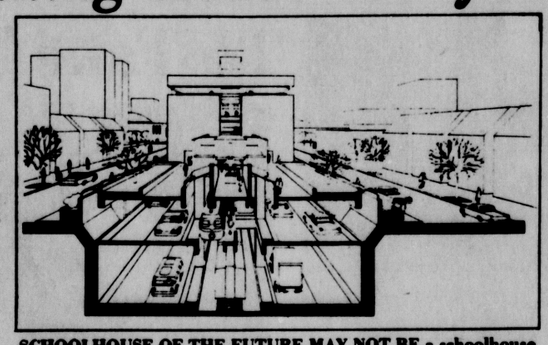
This schoolhouse of the future may not be as far in the future as it sounds.

Philadelphia, for example, already is proposing to create a new high school without putting up a single new building.

Instead, existing facilities in the city's museums, libraries, hospitals, cultural centers and even some corporate offices will be employed on a part-time basis to house an instant high school.

Or consider "Linear City," part of an exhibit, The Schoolhouse in the City, developed by Educational Facilities Laboratories (EFL) and now touring major American cities under the auspices of the U.S. Office of Education.

Linear City is a proposal from the office of New York's Mayor John V. Lindsay to build five miles of a new expressway over an existing railroad line and, in turn, build a five-mile-long city-in-the-air over the expressway.



SCHOOLHOUSE OF THE FUTURE MAY NOT BE a schoolhouse at all — witness this proposal for a "city in the air," where mass transit system would carry students not to a schoolhouse but to specialized educational resource centers throughout the city. Drawing, for proposed Linear City in Brooklyn, N. Y., by Corde Corporation; courtesy Educational Facilities Laboratories.

The proposed city would have every facility — but no traditional schoolhouse.

Instead, younger children would attend school centers built into apartments or even commercial structures located near their homes.

For older children (fifth grade and up) the entire new city would be a schoolhouse. They would use the local rapid transit system to travel to the biological sciences resource center, the language center, the social sciences center, and so forth, according to a personal program worked out with an adviser.

Eventually, a communications system, permitting children to pursue a good part of their studies at home and on their own, would be added.

Linear City may not be built for another 15 or 20 years. But it is a straw in the wind.

Already, a number of cities are building schools into apartments or commercial buildings.

The little red schoolhouse is a thing of the past. And the big red schoolhouse may not be far behind.

Children Can Learn at Earlier Age, So . . .

Schooling May Start at Age Three

American children may soon start their formal education at age three, rather than five or six.

In fact, when school opens this fall, probably more than a half million three- and four-year-olds will be in classes. And they will be in school to learn and not as part of a mass baby-sitting operation.

For years, parents who had the means and the inclination have been sending three-year-olds to private nursery schools. But the real push for an earlier start in school dates back to 1965 and the inauguration of Operation Head Start under the Economic Opportunity Act.

Head Start was set up to provide compensatory education to three, four, and five-year-olds from poverty backgrounds. The program was an immediate success, though there was — and is — criticism that the public schools fail to capitalize on that success in working with Head Start graduates.

It was so successful, in fact, that it has touched off a popular uprising among middle class families who demand schooling for their three-year-olds.

Their demands are falling on sympathetic ears. Last December, for example, the New York State Board of Regents called for a long-range program to provide free public education for all three- and four-year-old children.

And the Educational Policies Commission of the National Education Association in 1966 issued a call for mandatory school attendance beginning at age four. (Only half of the nation's five-year-olds now are enrolled in kindergarten.)

Behind it all is the discovery in the last ten years that children can learn at an earlier age than thought possible in the past and, more significant, that half of a child's mental development occurs by age four and two-thirds of it by age six.

And, the educational researchers and psychologists discovered, if that growth did not take place within that age span, it would not take place at all.

Schooling for very young children from disadvantaged homes therefore was held to be crucial.

Beyond that, the experts have concluded that middle class children also can benefit from an earlier start in school and experience fuller development than they would have enjoyed if they stayed at home.

There is disagreement among early childhood educators over the type of education to provide for very young children.

It is not clear where the money will come from to finance schooling for every three- and four-year-old.

DEMAND GROWS FOR AN EARLIER START in school for all children, as result of scenes like this. Here, four-year-olds get a head start at learning in a class operated under the Head Start program of the Office of Economic Opportunity. Photo by Ken Wittenberg, courtesy of the Institute for Development Studies.

And, according to Educational Facilities Laboratories, there is a problem in providing buildings and facilities for early childhood education and in determining how they should be designed.

It is difficult, therefore, to predict how many years will be required to establish universal education for three-year-olds. But the problems of educational theory, finances, and building design are being tackled. The future may be closer than it seems.

These Things Need Doing Before School Begins

Preparedness is the watchword, as parents and children cooperate in getting ready for school. These things need doing now, and should be first on back-to-school checklists:

- CHECK HEALTH. A general physical examination, eyesight and dental check-ups should be early on the agenda.
- CHECK WARDROBES. Build up the back-to-school wardrobe, with properly-fitted clothing and shoes, while fresh selections are available.
- CHECK THE HOME. Comfortable, correct conditions for study and sleeping are essential. Special homework needs should be anticipated, and quiet sleeping quarters provided, too.
- CHECK SCHOOL SUPPLIES. Pencils and pens, tablets and notebooks, book bags and other important accessories should be purchased now.

Whether your child will need a lunchbox or not will be determined by school cafeteria facilities.

Reach New Peaks In Spending On Salaries, Pupils

Teacher salaries have gone up about 7 per cent over the last school year, and spending per pupil has risen about 10 per cent, acording to the U.S. Office of Education.

Both increases have brought new peaks in numbers of students and teachers and total spending.

Jobs, Fellowships Help Pay Cost Of School, Say Graduate Students

How do graduate students pay their way?

Most rely on their own employment, wives' employment and fellowships, according to a study conducted by the U.S. Office of Education.

The study, based on a nationwide sample of students seeking a master's or higher degree, also finds that a majority of graduate students in the U.S. are married, going to school part time, and do pay their own way.

Teaching and research assistantships were named by some students as ways they financed their schooling. Others said gifts and loans from relatives helped.

Loans from other sources, including the National Defense Education Act, provided only three per cent of the cost of graduate schooling.

More than half the students reported that, when they graduated from high school, their fathers earned less than $7,500 a year.

Safety Patrols Preparing To Take Their Stations

PRIDE IN THE JOB the School Safety Patrol member does is reflected in the care he takes of his appearance and the brightness of his equipment.

Squads of alert young lads and gals, wearing the widely familiar white "Sam Browne" belts, soon will be taking their posts at street corners near schools in all parts of the city.

The signal for them to "go on duty" is sounded by the bells that summon all the children back to classes.

The same signal should alert drivers of all manner of vehicles, passenger cars and trucks, that it's time to keep a wary eye out for them, and to give them all the co-operation they deserve.

They are members of the School Safety Patrols whose ranks boast more than 900,000 trained youngsters across this country, serving more than 40,000 schools in 15,000 communities.

Doing their job from curbside only, since they are not allowed to go into the street or direct vehicular traffic, the proud patrols are generally credited with having made a major contribution to keeping school children safe from traffic.

The American Automobile Association reports that since 1922, when the organization became a major supporter of the Safety Patrol program, the traffic fatality rate for youngsters in the 5-14 age group has been reduced by almost half.

During the same period the rate for all other age groups has more than doubled.

The falling accident rate for children is most encouraging but is not construed as any reason for relaxation. With a vastly greater number of vehicles on the streets, and an equally increased number of school children, the situation requires even greater alertness on the part of motorists.

Since School Safety Patrols can direct only children and not the traffic in the streets, school and police authorities urge patient co-operation with the school patrols. It is their job to keep the youngsters from stepping off the curb until there is a safe break in the flow of traffic, or a traffic light or police officer signals that the way is clear.

Some patrols are assigned to duty on school buses, helping the driver keep order and getting off the bus when necessary to keep those who have just alighted on the curb until traffic clears.

The School Safety Patrol boy or girl has been chosen because of his outstanding qualities of leadership and reliability. He has pledged himself to perform his duties faithfully and strive to earn the respect of other students.

But he cannot do his job without the help of parents and motorists.

The patrol depends on motorists to drive with increased caution in school zones. And the driver must be extra careful when he spots that familiar belt and badge because it signals that the young ones are on the streets traveling to or from school.

The School Safety Patrolman depends finally on the co-operation of his classmates. Here is where parents can help by insisting that their young children obey the patrol's instructions to wait on the curb and only cross streets when it is safe to do so.

ASCOTS APPEAR

For a well-groomed casual look, ascots and other neck scarves appear as a change of pace from regulation ties.

When Lighting Is Right, Learning Gets an Assist

For comfortable, effective home study, privacy and quiet are two essentials. To these, add a third, of equal importance: Adequate, well-distributed lighting.

Lighting that is too dim, too glaring, or a hodge-podge of brightness and shadow punishes the seeing system—eyes, nerves and muscles—leads to fatigue, difficulty in concentrating, and mistakes.

Guidelines to a well-lighted study center are suggested here by the American Home Lighting Institute.

There are three acceptable ways to light the desk or work surface: Use a pair of ceiling or wall-mounted lighting fixtures; provide a single, long light source across the desk; or, use a study lamp approved by Better Light Better Sight Bureau.

If the choice is a pair of fixtures to give ample, evenly-distributed light and keep the desk completely free as a work surface, the fixtures should be positioned so that light sockets are 30 inches apart and the bottom of the shades measures 15 inches from the desk top.

Another idea is a wall bracket using two 15- or 20-watt fluorescent tubes. Tubes should be positioned six inches from the wall. A faceboard shield distributes light up on the wall and down on the desk.

Whichever method is chosen, it's a good idea to have other lights on in the room to balance the lighting.

For Mom, School Means Time to Plan Menus

Going back to school means checking wardrobes, renewing school supplies — and planning menus.

Nourishing breakfasts, essential year-round, now come in for extra attention. The dinner menu is of course important.

But with the start of school, there are two "meals" that especially demand forethought and even a bit of cunning on Mom's part: lunch and the after-school snack.

For the millions of school children who bring lunch from home, the favorite midday menu is still soup, sandwich, dessert and milk.

Soup and sandwich combinations take care of protein needs and also give Mom scope for planning something special. For a change from soup, the "one hot dish" might be baked beans or stew carried in a wide-mouth vacuum bottle.

To provide variety and keep nutritional standards high are fruits for dessert and crispy finger foods such as carrot sticks. Or, salads and gelatine treats might be packed in keep-cold snack jars.

Perhaps the biggest challenge to Mom is the after-school snack. Hungry youngsters are apt to reach for the handiest tasty tidbit, so it's Mother's job to make sure the right foods are conveniently ready.

Milk, juices, fruit and ice cream have both taste appeal and nutritive value. And that old standby, the peanut butter and jelly sandwich, still rates high as a healthful, filling snack.

What 'We Wear' May Vary, So Freshman Must Plan with Care

"At the University of Oregon, we wear pants on campus and like short coats of the pea jacket variety," says Kathy Caselton, a junior from Portland, Ore.

Key words here are "we wear." Fashion preferences and acceptability vary from college to college. Pantsuits, for instance, are forbidden or frowned on at some schools, approved at others.

For the freshman girl without first hand knowledge of what "we wear" at her chosen school, wardrobe planning demands special care. One recommended idea is to begin with basic fashions, adding others later in the semester.

Sales personnel in college shops and departments, friends who have already attended the school and, in some cases, guidelines provided by the school can help with suggestions for the starter wardrobe.

Whatever the college or status of students, double-purpose fashions help — witness Kathy's plan.

Kathy, who was elected Kodak's "Most Photogenic Smile Girl of 1968," makes most of her own clothes.

She'll return to campus this semester with a made-it-herself gray flannel pantsuit as part of her wardrobe.

PANTSUITS — TO wear or not? At University of Oregon, answer is yes, says Kathy Caselton, a junior. She made this one herself. Both Simplicity Patterns 7307, 7351 and fabric are available at Singer Centers.

For versatility, the jacket of the suit doubles as a coat with dresses and separates. Coat look of the double-breasted jacket is enhanced by insignia brass buttons.

BOOTS STEP ahead at high school, college. Shown are waxy leather knee-high, left, and antiqued leather monk-strap style. By Shenanigans, Golo.

TIMELY IDEA for school might be a watch that's also a fashion accessory. Here's a checkerboard style with matching vinyl band. By Timex.

FOR THE NEW SEMESTER, CO-EDS FAVOR DRESSES that go to class, dress up a little, too. Dirndl fashion and ease right for many occasions is demonstrated by these long-torso styles, one boasting tucks, one pairing solid and plaid. By Dorothy Pinnock.

Games Go to College

IN ECONOMICS course, students learn by playing a game called "Acquire." Based on buying, merging and expanding chains of hotels, it demonstrates corporate financing.

TESTING NEW games before they are marketed is job for college students. Here, they write evaluation of a game, test-played three times, at 3M Company in St. Paul, Minn.

Skill at "Play" Counts As New Way to Learn

Has modern education gone too far when students play games in the classroom — and teacher joins in?

Not necessarily. In fact, games based on real-life situations are being used more and more as an educational tool, from elementary school through college.

For instance, a game called "Mr. President" is used by civics and political science teachers because it shows students how the electoral system works and also gives an idea of how political parties, issues and personality factors influence election outcomes.

"The nomination, campaign and election portions of the game make an entertaining teaching device, especially as we approach another national election," comments Robert Carver, instructor of history in St. Mary-of-the-Woods College in Indiana.

Teachers teach financial games, too. The Downery School District in Los Angeles, Calif., uses the game, "Stocks and Bonds," in which each player buys and sells stocks and bonds, to teach students the terminology of finance.

Another financial game, "Acquire," is used for instruction in economics courses and is based on buying stock in hotels, then building, merging and expanding hotel chains.

Why do teachers use games in addition to more traditional methods of instruction?

"Only a mere 15 per cent of students profit from lectures in classrooms," says Dean G. Farrar, former instructor in business administration and economics at Fullerton Junior College in California.

"The other 85 per cent learn by doing — and doing is what they do with strategy games like 'Stocks and Bonds' and 'Acquire.'"

There's another reason — besides fun — why students play games. At least one major game manufacturer, 3M Company, employs students from the universities and colleges around St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., to test games before they are marketed.

New Trends Take Shape

New education trends take shape as school authorities and teachers' colleges wrestle with the mountains of research-reports coming from foundations and government presses.

According to Engelhardt, Engelhardt, and Leggett, educational consultants, these are the current trends:

- The small 400-pupil high school recently attacked as outmoded, gets a new lease on life. Sometimes it offers a better comprehensive education than the 2,000-pupil giant schools nearby because youngsters are not swallowed up, is the new feeling.
- Principals and school administrators are trying their utmost to get free of housekeeping, clerical and discipline problems so they can concentrate on educational matters.
- Language-laboratories are on the way out because it is felt they do not do an adequate job for the money spent. Closed-circuit television, however, is becoming more important for keeping both students and teachers abreast of the latest developments.

TEXTBOOK SPENDING

Current figures on school spending for textbooks and related materials show that a yearly median of $6.60 is spent for each elementary student and $9.50 for each secondary student, according to a survey made by a joint committee of the National Education Association and the American Textbook Publishers Institute.

Surveys Say Schools Need State Aid

What does the public think about today's education issues?

Educators are busy expressing their views every day, but rarely do they know exactly how the people who pay the bills think about specific problems and trends.

Two states — California and Maryland — have completed pioneer public opinion surveys to find the answer.

Rated as unprecedented undertakings to help guide school policy-makers, the two surveys disclosed that "teaching pupils how to think" should be given heavier emphasis in the classroom.

Another major finding: Schools should receive far greater financial support from state governments.

The California survey represents a cross-section analysis of the entire state. Conducted from the federally-financed State Committee on Public Education by Field Research Associates, the survey also disclosed that:

- The public is content to leave decision-making to professional educators.
- Math and social science are rated the most desirable subjects for a school to teach.
- Persons with a high income are most likely to be opponents of change and persons of low income are more likely to advocate change.
- The public says the best sources of information about the schools are newspapers and personal contact with pupils.
- Strong public support exists for efforts to make certain that schools in poorest districts have the same amount of money to spend per pupil as schools in wealthiest districts. In addition, strong support exists for spending additional money to provide special teachers and smaller classes for minority group children with learning problems.
- Negroes and other minority races are more critical of schools than any other segment of the population.

The Maryland survey reflects the opinions of the state's community leaders — local political officials, state legislators, school board members, school teachers and administrators, PTA presidents, business and labor officials.

Conducted by Johns Hopkins University for the U.S. Office of Education, it found that training pupils to find jobs, team teaching, helping pupils to make social adjustments, and a state lottery to raise school funds are given low priority.

High priority is given to placing major stress on the needs of the average child — not the bright or the disadvantaged. Only professional educators are particularly concerned with disadvantaged pupils.

The survey also showed that the state's community leaders believe that:

- The federal government and the state board of education should not be given additional control over the schools.
- Lack of qualified teachers is the most pressing problem today in education. Overcrowded classrooms rank second.
- The most valuable contribution the schools can make to a college-bound pupil is to teach him how to study.
- Teachers should be freed of clerical, babysitting and administrative chores so they can devote their full attention to teaching.

They Elect Good Grooming, for Class and Campus

LOOKING AHEAD TO COLLEGE IN DRESS as well as in study and planning, today's high schooler joins his older brother in favoring a well-groomed look — achieved here with a "mixed suit." Coat and vest in tattersall wool mohair tweed pair with trousers in polyester worsted twill. By Levinsohn in Stevens' fabrics.

CASUAL CAMPUS COATS TAKE NEW directions, for style-conscious college men. Bal-collared topper in above-knee length boasts outsize glen plaid pattern in wool mohair tweed. Coat by Stratojac, fabric by Stevens.

FOR WARDROBE FLEXIBILITY, SPORT coats and slacks get high marks. Right in town or around campus is this sport coat, in bold plaid wool saxony that epitomizes the "country look." It's by Sagner, in Stevens fabric.

College-Bound Males Study Fashion News

Though "student unrest" gets the headlines, "student well-dressed" is the order of the college day. Among the modern generation of college males some may depart from tradition as they dissent from class and campus procedures, but most put their stamp of approval on the tradition of good grooming.

A few semesters ago, the question of correct dress may have been a controversial one. No longer. The vast majority of college men favor "right dress." The only question is, how fashion-conscious should they be?

Very fashion-conscious, seems to be the answer. Current studies see college men interested not only in style but in color. Thus brown and its earth tones get masculine attention as the fashion color returning to the campus scene this fall, according to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

Look to Coordinates

As college-bound male students pack sport coats and slacks, they're likely to pay special attention to color choices in golden-brown, reddish-brown, whiskey and tobacco. Both solids and bolder, wider patterns—windowpanes and glen plaids—get attention.

Jackets, separately or as a part of suits, move toward the shaped silhouette, showing their waists.

Look for big interest in sports coordinates — three-piece combinations that mix and match solid colors and patterns in jacket, vest, and slacks trios.

In both sports coats and suits, the rustic, country look bids for campus favor through use of the heavier fabrics such as twill and Donegal tweed. The three-piece suit leads in dress fashion, with the double-breasted suit fast becoming the second choice.

Now-gear fashion finds single and double-breasted blazers worn with tartan slacks, Notable, too, is the return of tartans in shirts, coordinates and sport coats.

Shirt and tie accessories complement the rustic fashion colors in deep tones of red, orange and gold. Shirt collars are higher, wider and broader. Bigger knots for ties in woven fabrics, including silk, keep with the heavier look.

About Nehru Tunic

This look also shows up in sweaters, which sport big stitching. Many are in "natural" ground tones.

Especially on the campuses of metropolitan areas, the Nehru tunic seems due to continue its spirited fashion drive. The tunics may be worn with medallions and amulets on chains to certain campus functions such as fraternity meetings, weekend outings and dances.

Outerwear made of corduroy, suede and antique leather completes the brawny, country fashion look on campus. Coats and outer-jackets are more shaped, and many are in plaid, with single and double-breasted sports coat styling. For a different look, some have fur trims.

STUDENT BASICS, sport coats, now often appear in solid colors, ready to team up with slacks in darker solids or patterns. This one is by Mavest.

CHEERING THE TEAM at fall's football games gets a warm assist from zip jackets like this one, in brushed wool with pile lining. By Puritan Sportswear.

'Operation School' Calls for Planning

It's "Operation School."

From kindergarten through college, the school set is getting ready for the new term. The students themselves, their parents and teachers take advantage now of the days and weeks remaining before the start of school to prepare themselves, both mentally and materially.

Health and wardrobe, school supplies and home study needs all come into the picture as final preparations are made. The basic procedure for equipping the student with his or her routine requirements is so important that in many homes it's a family shopping project, planned and executed well in advance.

Broader Horizons

This early preparation contributes much to enthusiasm of both parents and children, and it is equally valuable for the reassurance it provides. While school may be eagerly anticipated, it nevertheless presents a challenge, and a vital one.

For parents, there is the deeply-felt obligation to encourage their children to make the most of today's opportunities. The children, on the other hand, are fully aware that broadening education horizons make demands as well as offering rewards.

Thus "Operation School," with its attention to preparedness in everything from clothing to school supplies, helps by assuring that both parent and student will be ready to grasp and to expand opportunity.

Parents may find two surprises.

While they expect to give careful guidance to the younger children, they are likely to discover that even the beginning grade schoolers now have a new awareness of their individual needs along with definite, and sound, opinions about their first-day-of-school supplies.

May Need Help

Older students — the high schoolers and especially those going to college for the first time -- may, conversely, need more help than anticipated. Pressures of preparation are expanding here, and call for understanding and aid on the part of parents.

While students and parents shop, check wardrobes, examine home study conditions and stock up on school supplies, those who are in charge of the nation's educational facilities — the school and college administrator, the teachers and the maintenance crews—are getting an early start, too. They're already at work, preparing the schools to receive students.

Dad's Boss Helps Pay for College

The newest way to finance that expensive college education, according to Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J., is to get help from Dad's employer.

There are now about 250 companies with programs for giving scholarships to sons and daughters of employees, and 85 more are contemplating similar ventures.

Awards range from $100 to $25,000 and total about $45 million annually. The average number of awards granted is ten per company.

Dad's corporate boss may be the key to a college degree for children of employees of such firms as W. T. Grant, the retail chain; Gulf Oil Company and Rollins, Inc., Atlanta-based diversified service company.

Coeds Mix Separates In Style

College fashion collections, opening now, beckon the high school girl as well as the collegienne. Career girls and young homemakers, too, are likely to find useful and attractive ideas in the array.

Bright, lively and practical, current back-to-campus fashions inspire wide interest for a number of reasons. Basically, they appeal because so many of them are just that — basic -- and because they're in the forefront of style news.

Shirts and skirts, sweaters and skirts and separates of all sorts have long been the foundation of campus wardrobes. Now, with the fashion renaissance of the shirt and skirt, and with the new importance of the separates look, campus-bound girls are in their element.

The ruffled and/or tucked shirt, the dirndl skirt, the turtleneck sweater, the suit mixers—shirt, skirt and vest — are just a few of the leading fashions that, while particularly adaptable to the back-to-books life, go just about everywhere.

A GEOMETRIC PROBLEM

Zippers and more zippers are the rage just now. Here's one used as a diagonal opening on a rectangular pocket made of leatherette as is the collar. The fabric of this WESTWAY PETITE JUNIOR slim dress is Gadfly (50% cotton, 50% avril). Colors: Biscuit/Cayenne; Red/Navy. Sizes: 1-11.

Clifford Says Troop Protection Must Precede Any Bombing Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford said today the United States will not cut back the bombing of North Vietnam until the administration can work out some arrangement with the North Vietnamese which would protect American servicemen near enemy territory.

Clifford said the bombing restriction authorized by President Johnson March 31 allowed for strikes against the enemy above the demilitarized zone so U.S. and allied forces in that area would not be jeopardized.

"I think that reason still holds," the defense chief told a news conference.

Clifford said he felt that without some agreement with the North Vietnamese, the current bombing limitation is a "reasonable and logical approach."

At the same time, Clifford said the United States still awaits a "clear signal" from Hanoi that the recent lull in fighting in South Vietnam is North Vietnam's response to President Johnson's bombing cutback.

The United States has repeatedly called on North Vietnam to cut back its own warlike activity as a means of further de-escalating the war.

Clifford said U.S. intelligence information indicates the lull in fighting is merely a prelude to a third North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam.

If it is not, Clifford said, all the North Vietnamese have to do is "get the word to us."

But he also cautioned:

'I am not sure that at this point we can dignify the present circumstances by suggesting that it constitutes a marked departure from the enemy's activities in the past."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had indicated earlier there is argument within the administration over the significance of the lull, and the possibility it may signal a North Vietnamese willingness to de-escalate.

"We are trying to really find out what is going on," Humphrey said on the NBC "Today" show.

Despite the expected new round of attacks, Clifford said the United States will hold to the currently authorized ceiling on the number of U.S. troops in Vietnam, which is 549,500.

He disclosed that an additional 5,000 American troops have gone to South Vietnam in the past week, raising the total in the country to 543,000.

Clifford emphasized that despite the lull, the United States is still suffering relatively high combat losses.

In the seven-week period ending in mid-August, American combat deaths averaged 181 a week, Clifford said.

During the same period in 1967, weekly losses averaged 161 a week, he said.

And although the recent loss rate is lower than those recorded during the enemy's February and May offensives, they are about equivalent to the average weekly losses of 180 men last year.

Clifford also estimated that through July the North Vietnamese had sent 150,000 men— most of them replacements— into South Vietnam this year.

"We have no alternative, obviously, but to proceed on the assumption there will be a third offensive," Clifford stated.

Asked how long the United States will wait before deciding that the lull represents a change in the North Vietnamese attitude, Clifford said: "There is no definitive answer to that."

He said planned enemy attacks could be spoiled or delayed by operations of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U. S. commander in Vietnam, or could be affected by "developments in other capitals."

Clifford praised Abrams' strategy of trying to keep the enemy off balance, and then appeared to criticize proposals by some persons that the United States would be better off to defend only certain key population areas.

"I think it would be unwise to sit back and allow the enemy to prepare for attacks as he sees fit," Clifford said.

BLACKENED HULL OF THE James E. Graham towboat, which exploded, burned and sank in the Mississippi river at the foot of Main Street in New Madrid.

Towboat Burns After Explosion

By H. H. TOWNSEND JR.

NEW MADRID - The river towboat James E. Graham of the port of Paducah, exploded, burned to the Mississippi river, waterline and sank last night. The superstructure, still smoking could be seen this morning where it went aground on a sandbar at the boat of Main street.

Apparently no one was injured.

Two barges of gasoline had been brought from St. Louis and delivered to the Sinclair Oil terminal yesterday. The boat had started upstream with two empty gasoline barges when the fire occurred.

None of the crew was available for comment this morning, but witnesses, who were on the bank, said that an explosion was heard and the boat burst into flames.

It was stated that the crewmen cut the empty barges and tied them to shore.

Normally, a boat of this size carries a crew of seven, the captain, pilot, two engineers, two deck hands and a cook. Witnesses stated that there were six on board at the time of the fire.

Information taken from the Inland River Record indicates that the boat was 86 feet long, 17 feet wide with a draft of seven feet. It was built in Memphis, in 1941 and was single propellor driven with a steel hull.

The boat was considered to be a total loss and damage was estimated at $100,000 John Richie of Paducah was reported to be the owner.

Selassie Calls for Cease-Fire

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) - Emperor Haile Selassie has called on Nigeria's chief of state, Gen. Yakubu Gowon, to declare a cease-fire while peace talks with rebel Biafra are going on in the Ethiopian capital, diplomatic sources said today.

Selassie also invited Gowon and Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, Biafra's chief of state, to come to Addis Ababa for a face-to-face session next Monday, the informants said. Ojukwu announced last week that Biafra would observe a truce during the talks.

The emperor made his proposals as Nigerian troops were reported advancing in a pincer movement toward Aba, the temporary Biafran capital.

The informants said Selassie also asked the other members of the consultative committee on Nigeria of the Organization of African Unity to come here for the meeting Monday. They are the heads of state of Niger, Ghana, Liberia and Congo-Kinshasa.

The moves by the emperor, who is chairman of the OAU committee sponsoring the talks, came as the deadlocked parley entered its 11th day with no sign of progress toward an end to the war.

Both sides denied published reports that agreement has been reached on ways of speeding relief to starving Biafran civilians.

A high officer said a commando column led by Col. Benjamin Adekunle had crossed the Imo River 15 miles south of Aba and occupied Akwete, a settlement on the northern bank.

The lead column of the other pincer was believed across the river at the Imo railway station, 22 miles from the city.

The drive appeared aimed at bringing the 13-month-old secession of eastern Nigeria's Ibo tribesmen to a quick military end. But the Biafran leader, Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, has pledged that his people will retreat into the bush and wage guerrilla warfare.

An estimated 6,000 troops from Nigeria's 3rd Marine Division were reported committed to the attack on Aba. The city some 40 miles inland is the largest of the three major towns still in rebel hands.

Ojukwu's secessionist army now holds only about one third of the 29,000 square miles he proclaimed independent in May 1967.

In Addis Ababa, the deadlocked peace talks switched to discussion of relief supplies to starving war refugees. There was no indication of any progress in the session Wednesday night, but various sources voiced expectation of a break soon.

Informed sources said Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie would sound out both sides on a compromise proposal for funneling in the supplies. Diallo Telli, Guinean secretary-general of the Organization of African Unity, said an agreement might be reached by the weekend.

Swiss diplomat August Lindt of the International Red Cross said the Biafrans have proposed establishment of a neutral airstrip on Biafran territory under control of the all-Swiss Red Cross committee.

Pair Fails to Cash Checks at Kennett

KENNETT -- Two Negroes, one tall and wearing a silk yellow shirt and white hat, the other smaller attempted to pass a payroll check at a Kennett bank. They were unable to pass two other checks in Kennett.

A month earlier, Ralph Harris, of the Kentucky Fried Chicken in Sikeston, cashed a forged payroll check for $75.33.

The check according to Harris, was made out on the United Meat Company, St. Louis, and signed with the name of Odie Rutherford. The Negro showed a driver's license with the same name, which caused Harris to cash the check.

Harris later learned that 500 payroll checks were stolen when the United Meat Company was broken into more than a month ago.

The two men rented a room at Kennett but never used it in a two-day stay and traveled in a white 1960 Chevrolet station wagon.

The pair both believed to be in their 20s, failed to cash a check Wednesday at a Kennett bank yesterday afternoon for $151 and fled when the check was questioned. All checks were drawn on the United Meat Company.

The highway patrol was notified.

Floor Sanders, Pump Taken

Two floor sanders, a water pump and about 300 feet of floor trim were reported stolen from a house under construction east of Crowder Wednesday night, deputy sheriff Eddie Michael reported today.

The house is being built on the Carl Dye farm east of Crowder.

France May Explode First Hydrogen Bomb

PARIS (AP) - The French probably will test their first hydrogen bomb this weekend at Mururoa, in the South Pacific, Agence France Press reported today in a dispatch from Tahiti. Tahiti Radio has been warning ships and airplanes to stay away from the area starting Saturday, but favorable winds will be needed for the test, the agency said.

The broadcasts specified a larger danger area than for previous French nuclear tests - 120 nautical miles around Mururoa instead of 100.

Injunction Issued Against Bluff Grocery Firms

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The United States Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis issued Wednesday an injunction against violation of fair labor standards by a southeast Missouri grocery enterprise.

The three-judge circuit court reversed the decision of the U.S. District Court. The District Court in the Department of Labor suit had refused to issue the injunction on the ground that the Barnes Grocery Co., Piggly Wiggly Twin State Distributors, Inc., and Bowling Green, Inc., did not constitute "an enterprise."

The appellate court ruled that the ownership of all three firms rests in essentially a single family and therefore meet the requirements of common control.

The court said the three firms operated for a common business purpose.

The injunction would bar violation of minimum wage and overtime, both provisions of the labor law.

Adult Education Classes Begin Sept. 9

An adult education program will be offered by the high school vocational department beginning Sept. 9. Interested persons may state their instruction preferences prior to opening. Technical and general courses will be offered. In charge is Richard Downey, adult education supervisor.

Technical courses will include secretarial, electronics, printing and drafting. The 16-week courses will begin at 4:30 p.m. and can be a two-year course with a certificate given after its completion.

General courses will be offered in two hour class sessions and will include typing, shorthand, business machines, welding, and others.

Enrollees must be over high school age. Adults can complete a high school equivalency education and receive a state educational certificate.

Other courses may be added if 10 or more enroll.

The course may include driver education and square dancing.

Three Big Trucks Pile Up In Rear End Chain Reaction

A three tractor-trailer truck collision today at 2:15 a.m. resulted in injury to a driver and his assistant, and destruction of one trailer and a cab.

The three were southbound on Interstate 55 when the crash occurred 300 yards south of the I-55 and I-57 interchange, south of the Sikeston.

A 1968 Mac tractor trailer, driven by Sidney Lewis, 26, Morton, Miss., pulled on the shoulder to investigate a rear axle.

A 1963 Ford tractor-trailer, driven by William Clegg, 41, Harrisville, Miss., pulled off behind him, to give him assistance.

Everett Page, 30, Carbondale, Ill., apparently went to sleep, driving a 1966 International tractor trailer and rammed into the rear of the truck driven by Clegg, loaded with shelled corn, the state patrol reported.

The impact tore half of the truck open and spilled corn along the shoulder for 100 yards.

The cab of the Page truck on the right side was demolished. Page received cuts on his head, and a relief driver asleep in the upper portion of the cab, John Morris, 30, DuQuoin, had a sprained ankle.

Both were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

The Mac truck was in turn struck by the Clegg truck, but was not badly damaged and was able to proceed.

Clegg told the patrol that he was off the highway and had flashing lights in operation.

The corn truck was on its way to Forest, Miss., from Gilman, Ill.

A two-car collision Wednesday at 4:45 p.m. at the Oran city limits, sent Margot Westrich, 33, Oran, to St. Francis hospital, Cape Girardeau, for treatment of internal injuries.

The Westrich woman was driving a 1965 Ford, when a 1960 Ford stationwagon driven by Michael McMillen, 16, Oran, pulled out of an alley and struck the side of the Ford, the patrol reported.

McMillen was given a summons for careless and imprudent driving.

Recovery Inc. Votes To Buy Eight Lots

Recovery Inc., the non profit corporation attempting to improve housing conditions in substandard neighborhoods in Sikeston, voted Wednesday to buy eight additional lots, if they can be purchased for the amount of delinquent taxes against them.

Four of the lots are in Sunset Addition, where the corporation has purchased five lots. Abstracts and FHA committments are expected to be received on the five lots and construction of five 3-bedroom houses for about $8,600 each can begin in a short while, Joe Peace, architecture student employed by Recovery for the summer, reported.

Peace plotted the lots to be bid in the tax sale at Benton. Four of the lots to be bid are in Sunset and four are at the corner of South West and William streets.

In a more ambitious project, Recovery Chairman W. Raymert Miller appointed a committee to examine contracts and decide on a consulting firm to develop a rent-supplement housing project. Committee members are Charles Mitchell, Donald Fulton and Charles Matthews.

Jack Dickerson, a staff representative of Kirschner Associates, Inc., in a recent meeting offered the services of the firm he represents in the planning, development, financing and construction of a housing project. All phases would comply with FHA approval and the corporation would not be liable for costs, Dickerson said.

Dickerson appeared at the meeting yesterday and asked that a committee be appointed and a letter of intent be sent him asking for the consulting firm's assistance in the project.

Miller explained the committee appointed would examine any other proposals, then issue a letter of intent.

The number of units to be constructed has not been decided. Recovery members previously discussed projects ranging from 50 to 150 units. The number of units would be decided in the initial planning stage upon agreement of the corporation and the consulting firm.

Weather

Showers and thunderstorms likely tonight, possibly continuing into Friday. Continued warm. High Friday in the 80s. Low tonight in the 70s. Probabilities of rain 50 per cent tonight, 30 per cent Friday.

HIGH AND LOW YESTERDAY

High and low temperatures for the 24-hour period ending at 7:30 a.m. today were 87 and 70 degrees.

Physician Sees No Significant Change In Johnson X-rays

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - President Johnson's personal physical reported today that abdominal X-rays indicate "there has been no significant change in the President's physical condition" since 1966.

This word, from Vice Adm. George G. Burkley, was relayed to newsmen at the Texas White House here by press secretary George Christian.

Christian declined to go beyond the statement he attributed to Burkley.

However, Christian said anyone who saw Johnson make a speech Wednesday in Houston could only have noted that the President seemed in fine fettle.

Hearnes Thinks up to 57 Missouri Votes May Go to Humphrey

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today he thought 54 to 57 of Missouri's 60 Democratic National Convention votes would go for Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

Reaffirming his own support of the vice president, the governor said he has not asked any delegate how he feels about the nomination but thought it was clear that the bulk of Missouri's votes would go for Humphrey.

Under a resolution adopted at the Democratic State Convention, a vote of two - thirds of the delegates could bind the entire 60 votes for Humphrey.

Hearnes said he expects a wild convention but did not elaborate.

He said his wife, Betty, is scheduled to sing on one of the four nights of the Chicago show.

A TRUCK DRIVER, W. R. Clegg, route one, Harrisville, Miss., stands in back of his tractor trailer that was struck by another tractor - trailer while parked on the shoulder of I-55, one half mile south of Sikeston. The truck's load, 700 bushels of corn was spilled on the shoulder for more than 100 yards.

WRECKED CAB of a 1966 International tractor-trailer, is shown at the side of the highway I-55, one half mile south of Sikeston. The driver, Everett Page, 30, Carbondale, received cuts on his head, and a substitute driver, a sleep in the upper portion of the cab, received a sprained ankle.

Police Report Six Arrests

Solom F. Mathenia, 64, Corinth, Miss., was charged by Sikeston police Wednesday with failure to yield the right of way.

The car Mathenia was driving ran a stop sign at Main and Malone and was struck by a truck driven by Cecil D. Lynch, 32, 802 William St., police reported. No one was injured.

In other activity, James L. Western, 410 Wallace, was charged today with assault. He was arrested at his residence.

Vivian Davis, 126 Reuben, was charged early today with peace disturbance.

Roscoe W. Gray, route four, Sikeston, was charged Wednesday with public intoxication.

Alberta Rafferty, 924 South Main, was charged Tuesday with careless and imprudent driving for running a stop sign at Main and Malone.

Jerry McMackin, 230 Ruth St., was charged Tuesday with careless and imprudent driving for taking off at a high rate of speed.

Gene Jones, route three, Sikeston, reported to police Wednesday that a set of golf clubs and a set of assorted tools and their containers were stolen between Aug. 7, and Monday.

Charges Filed In Accident

NEW MADRID - Manslaughter charges have been filed against Kenneth Dewayne Johnson, 22, in connection with the fatal accident Monday night in which Gary Lynn Higgerson, 16, operator of a motorbike, was killed.

Johnson, home on leave from the navy, is a patient in Veteran's Hospital in Poplar Bluff from injuries sustained in the accident.

No date has been set for arraignment.

Helicopter Crash Takes 21 Lives

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-one persons — many of them looking forward to a Disneyland visit — were killed Wednesday in a helicopter crash similar to one that took 23 lives in this area last May.

Among the passengers were a recently retired grandfather, his wife, daughter and 8-year-old granddaughter, the 14-year-old grandson of the airline's president and three Denver businessmen.

The Los Angeles Airway helicopter broke apart and crashed in flames in an empty section of playground on a flight from Los Angeles International Airport of Disneyland.

It was the second worst commercial helicopter disaster in the United States. The worst, the crash of another twin-turbine Sikorsky S61L copter owned by the Los Angeles firm, occurred at nearby Paramount in May, killing 23.

The company suspended all flights. Witnesses told Federal Aviation Administration investigators they saw a tail rotor fly off, as preceded the May tragedy.

FAA experts began gathering the strewn wreckage to see if a reason for the crash could be determined. Cause of the May 22 disaster still remains a mystery.

Aboard the craft that crashed Wednesday were a crew of three men and 18 passengers.

The dead included Christopher Belinn, 14, grandson of Clarence Belinn, president of the helicopter line; John P. Meehan, 65, his wife, Helen, 63, and their granddaughter Anne, 8, of San Rafael, Calif., and businessmen Kenneth J. Atwell, Wes Eldrenkamp, 39, and L. E. Baker, 44, all of Denver. Meehan retired two weeks ago as a San Francisco police captain.

The crew was identified as Capt. Kenneth L. Waggoner, 33, of Costa Mesa, Calif., the pilot; Frederick Fracker of Redondo Beach, Calif., co-pilot; and James A. Black, Wilmington, Calif., flight attendant.

Witnesses said they heard a "thump, thump, thump" as the helicopter fell earthward. Others described a loud "popping noise" followed by a rapid plunge and an explosion on impact.

The helicopter took off at 10:25 a.m. and was due at the Disneyland heliport at 10:41 a.m. It slammed to earth 12 minutes after takeoff while 30 children played about 200 feet away. No one on the ground was injured.

In the May tragedy, the copter went down 11 minutes after takeoff in a Paramount dairy farm 2½ miles east of Wednesday's crash. It was en route from Disneyland to Los Angeles.

Kenneth Hahn, a Los Angeles County supervisor, demanded that the FBI be called in. Similarities between Wednesday's crash and the May disaster, he said, suggested "this could be a man-made accident as well as or instead of mechanical failure."

Just before the helicopter hit the ground, said Carl Shaw, 14, of Compton, Calif., he heard the pilot scream 'hell-l-l ... helll!" There was no other human sound from the craft, he said.

Steven Fuss of Hollywood, who was working nearby, said he saw the tail rotor fall off "as if it were sheared from the shaft."

"It then went straight out," said Fuss. "Then the copter rolled back end over end toward the tail, made two loops. Thirty seconds later it hit the ground."

Witnesses fought the spreading flames with small extinguishers as the fire streaked along the full length of the fuselage.

Jonathan Dollar, 48, said the pilot tried to the end to keep the copter airborne. "God bless that man," he said.

Efforts to Define Lull Bog Down

PARIS (AP) — U.S. efforts to find out in some official way whether the lull in Communist attacks in South Vietnam is intended by North Vietnam as a peace gesture apparently have bogged down.

American officials at the Paris peace talks say that as far as they are concerned the question is still open. But they now put major emphasis on their contention that North Vietnam is preparing for an offensive by pouring troops and military supplies into the South at a high rate. "The disposition of the North Vietnamese forces indicates that major military attacks are in preparation," U.S. spokesman William J. Jorden told a news conference Wednesday after the weekly session of the talks.

"If North Vietnam wished to convey to us some meaning (about the purpose of the lull), they could do so readily, directly or indirectly, and so far we have had no indication whatsoever."

Jorden did not say whether U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman has ever asked Ambassador Xuan Thuy or his deputies whether the lull has significance. U.S. officials say the question has not been put directly in any of the formal sessions, but they decline to say whether it has been raised in private conversation with the North Vietnamese during the coffee breaks at the meetings.

Nguyen Thanh Le, the North Vietnamese spokesman, declined to be drawn into discussion of the issue. When he was asked whether it came up in the 22-minute coffee break Wednesday, he said he only had time to drink tea. To another query on the same subject he said: "The United States continues to intensify the war in Vietnam."

Le at his news conference kept hammering at the point that "we are going to keep insisting" that the United States must stop bombing and "all other acts of war" against the territory of North Vietnam before anything else can be accomplished in the Paris talks.

He seemed intent on stressing that his government's stand on the bombing issue, including its refusal to promise a parallel scale-down of military action, is absolutely firm.

The 17th session of the talks, now in their fourth month, lasted four hours Wednesday, and the statements by both Harriman and Thuy followed a hard line. Each accused the other's government of intensifying the war while talking peace. Each said the talks had made no progress because the other side was unwilling to move realistically toward peace.

Western diplomats in Paris generally believe that Hanoi's leaders may be convinced that domestic political consideration will compel Johnson to call off the bombing without any concessions from North Vietnam.

Clifford Says Troop Protection Must Precede Any Bombing Cut

BLACKENED HULL OF THE James E. Graham towboat, which exploded, burned and sank in the Mississippi river at the foot of Main Street in New Madrid.

Towboat Burns After Explosion

By H. H. TOWNSEND JR.

NEW MADRID - The river towboat James E. Graham of the port of Paducah, exploded, burned to the Mississippi river, waterline and sank last night. The superstructure, still smoking could be seen this morning where it went aground on a sandbar at the boat of Main street.

Apparently no one was injured.

Two barges of gasoline had been brought from St. Louis and delivered to the Sinclair Oil terminal yesterday. The boat had started upstream with two empty gasoline barges when the fire occurred.

None of the crew was available for comment this morning, but witnesses, who were on the bank, said that an explosion was heard and the boat burst into flames.

It was stated that the crewmen cut the empty barges and tied them to shore.

Normally, a boat of this size carries a crew of seven, the captain, pilot, two engineers, two deck hands and a cook. Witnesses stated that there were six on board at the time of the fire.

Information taken from the Inland River Record indicates that the boat was 86 feet long, 17 feet wide with a draft of seven feet. It was built in Memphis, in 1941 and was single propellor driven with a steel hull.

The boat was considered to be a total loss and damage was estimated at $100,000 John Richie of Paducah was reported to be the owner.

Pair Fails to Cash Checks at Kennett

KENNETT -- Two Negroes, one tall and wearing a silk yellow shirt and white hat, the other smaller attempted to pass a payroll check at a Kennett bank. They were unable to pass two other checks in Kennett.

A month earlier, Ralph Harris, of the Kentucky Fried Chicken in Sikeston, cashed a forged payroll check for $75.33.

The check according to Harris, was made out on the United Meat Company, St. Louis, and signed with the name of Odie Rutherford. The Negro showed a driver's license with the same name, which caused Harris to cash the check.

Harris later learned that 500 payroll checks were stolen when the United Meat Company was broken into more than a month ago.

The two men rented a room at Kennett but never used it in a two-day stay and traveled in a white 1960 Chevrolet station wagon.

The pair both believed to be in their 20s, failed to cash a check Wednesday at a Kennett bank yesterday afternoon for $151 and fled when the check was questioned. All checks were drawn on the United Meat Company.

The highway patrol was notified.

Floor Sanders, Pump Taken

Two floor sanders, a water pump and about 300 feet of floor trim were reported stolen from a house under construction east of Crowder Wednesday night, deputy sheriff Eddie Michael reported today.

The house is being built on the Carl Dye farm east of Crowder.

France May Explode First Hydrogen Bomb

PARIS (AP) - The French probably will test their first hydrogen bomb this weekend at Mururoa, in the South Pacific, Agence France Press reported today in a dispatch from Tahiti. Tahiti Radio has been warning ships and airplanes to stay away from the area starting Saturday, but favorable winds will be needed for the test, the agency said.

The broadcasts specified a larger danger area than for previous French nuclear tests - 120 nautical miles around Mururoa instead of 100.

Selassie Calls for Cease-Fire

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) - Emperor Haile Selassie has called on Nigeria's chief of state, Gen. Yakubu Gowon, to declare a cease-fire while peace talks with rebel Biafra are going on in the Ethiopian capital, diplomatic sources said today.

Selassie also invited Gowon and Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, Biafra's chief of state, to come to Addis Ababa for a face-to-face session next Monday, the informants said. Ojukwu announced last week that Biafra would observe a truce during the talks.

The emperor made his proposals as Nigerian troops were reported advancing in a pincer movement toward Aba, the temporary Biafran capital.

The informants said Selassie also asked the other members of the consultative committee on Nigeria of the Organization of African Unity to come here for the meeting Monday. They are the heads of state of Niger, Ghana, Liberia and Congo-Kinshasa.

The moves by the emperor, who is chairman of the OAU committee sponsoring the talks, came as the deadlocked parley entered its 11th day with no sign of progress toward an end to the war.

Both sides denied published reports that agreement has been reached on ways of speeding relief to starving Biafran civilians.

A high officer said a commando column led by Col. Benjamin Adekunle had crossed the Imo River 15 miles south of Aba and occupied Akwete, a settlement on the northern bank.

The lead column of the other pincer was believed across the river at the Imo railway station, 22 miles from the city.

The drive appeared aimed at bringing the 13-month-old secession of eastern Nigeria's Ibo tribesmen to a quick military end. But the Biafran leader, Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, has pledged that his people will retreat into the bush and wage guerrilla warfare.

An estimated 6,000 troops from Nigeria's 3rd Marine Division were reported committed to the attack on Aba. The city some 40 miles inland is the largest of the three major towns still in rebel hands.

Ojukwu's secessionist army now holds only about one third of the 29,000 square miles he proclaimed independent in May 1967.

In Addis Ababa, the deadlocked peace talks switched to discussion of relief supplies to starving war refugees. There was no indication of any progress in the session Wednesday night, but various sources voiced expectation of a break soon.

Informed sources said Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie would sound out both sides on a compromise proposal for funneling in the supplies. Diallo Telli, Guinean secretary-general of the Organization of African Unity, said an agreement might be reached by the weekend.

Swiss diplomat August Lindt of the International Red Cross said the Biafrans have proposed establishment of a neutral airstrip on Biafran territory under control of the all-Swiss Red Cross committee.

Injunction Issued Against Bluff Grocery Firms

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The United States Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis issued Wednesday an injunction against violation of fair labor standards by a southeast Missouri grocery enterprise.

The three-judge circuit court reversed the decision of the U.S. District Court. The District Court in the Department of Labor suit had refused to issue the injunction on the ground that the Barnes Grocery Co., Piggly Wiggly Twin State Distributors, Inc., and Bowling Green, Inc., did not constitute "an enterprise."

The appellate court ruled that the ownership of all three firms rests in essentially a single family and therefore meet the requirements of common control.

The court said the three firms operated for a common business purpose.

The injunction would bar violation of minimum wage and overtime, both provisions of the labor law.

Adult Education Classes Begin Sept. 9

An adult education program will be offered by the high school vocational department beginning Sept. 9. Interested persons may state their instruction preferences prior to opening. Technical and general courses will be offered. In charge is Richard Downey, adult education supervisor.

Technical courses will include secretarial, electronics, printing and drafting. The 16-week courses will begin at 4:30 p.m. and can be a two-year course with a certificate given after its completion.

General courses will be offered in two hour class sessions and will include typing, shorthand, business machines, welding, and others.

Enrollees must be over high school age. Adults can complete a high school equivalency education and receive a state educational certificate.

Other courses may be added if 10 or more enroll.

The course may include driver education and square dancing.

WASHINGTON (AP) Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford said today the United States will not cut back the bombing of North Vietnam until the administration can work out some arrangement with the North Vietnamese which would protect American servicemen near enemy territory.

Clifford said the bombing restriction authorized by President Johnson March 31 allowed for strikes against the enemy above the demilitarized zone so U.S. and allied forces in that area would not be jeopardized.

"I think that reason still holds," the defense chief told a news conference.

Clifford said he felt that without some agreement with the North Vietnamese, the current bombing limitation is a "reasonable and logical approach."

At the same time, Clifford said the United States still awaits a "clear signal" from Hanoi that the recent lull in fighting in South Vietnam is North Vietnam's response to President Johnson's bombing cutback.

The United States has repeatedly called on North Vietnam to cut back its own warlike activity as a means of further de-escalating the war.

Clifford said U.S. intelligence information indicates the lull in fighting is merely a prelude to a third North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam.

If it is not, Clifford said, all the North Vietnamese have to do is "get the word to us."

But he also cautioned:

'I am not sure that at this point we can dignify the present circumstances by suggesting that it constitutes a marked departure from the enemy's activities in the past."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had indicated earlier there is argument within the administration over the significance of the lull, and the possibility it may signal a North Vietnamese willingness to de-escalate.

"We are trying to really find out what is going on," Humphrey said on the NBC "Today" show.

Despite the expected new round of attacks, Clifford said the United States will hold to the currently authorized ceiling on the number of U.S. troops in Vietnam, which is 549,500.

He disclosed that an additional 5,000 American troops have gone to South Vietnam in the past week, raising the total in the country to 543,000.

Clifford emphasized that despite the lull, the United States is still suffering relatively high combat losses.

In the seven-week period ending in mid-August, American combat deaths averaged 181 a week, Clifford said.

During the same period in 1967, weekly losses averaged 161 a week, he said.

And although the recent loss rate is lower than those recorded during the enemy's February and May offensives, they are about equivalent to the average weekly losses of 180 men last year.

Clifford also estimated that through July the North Vietnamese had sent 150,000 men -- most of them replacements -- into South Vietnam this year.

"We have no alternative, obviously, but to proceed on the assumption there will be a third offensive," Clifford stated.

Asked how long the United States will wait before deciding that the lull represents a change in the North Vietnamese attitude, Clifford said: "There is no definitive answer to that."

He said planned enemy attacks could be spoiled or delayed by operations of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U. S. commander in Vietnam, or could be affected by "developments in other capitals."

Clifford praised Abrams' strategy of trying to keep the enemy off balance, and then appeared to criticize proposals by some persons that the United States would be better off to defend only certain key population areas.

"I think it would be unwise to sit back and allow the enemy to prepare for attacks as he sees fit," Clifford said.

Physician Sees No Significant Change In Johnson X-rays

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - President Johnson's personal physical reported today that abdominal X-rays indicate "there has been no significant change in the President's physical condition" since 1966.

This word, from Vice Adm. George G. Burkley, was relayed to newsmen at the Texas White House here by press secretary George Christian.

Christian declined to go beyond the statement he attributed to Burkley.

However, Christian said anyone who saw Johnson make a speech Wednesday in Houston could only have noted that the President seemed in fine fettle.

A TRUCK DRIVER, W. R. Clegg, route one, Harrisville, Miss., stands in back of his tractor trailer that was struck by another tractor - trailer while parked on the shoulder of I-55, one half mile south of Sikeston. The truck's load, 700 bushels of corn was spilled on the shoulder for more than 100 yards.

Three Big Trucks Pile Up In Rear End Chain Reaction

A three tractor-trailer truck collision today at 2:15 a.m. resulted in injury to a driver and his assistant, and destruction of one trailer and a cab.

The three were southbound on Interstate 55 when the crash occurred 300 yards south of the I-55 and I-57 interchange, south of the Sikeston.

A 1968 Mac tractor trailer, driven by Sidney Lewis, 26, Morton, Miss., pulled on the shoulder to investigate a rear axle.

A 1963 Ford tractor-trailer, driven by William Clegg, 41, Harrisville, Miss., pulled off behind him, to give him assistance.

Everett Page, 30, Carbondale, Ill., apparently went to sleep, driving a 1966 International tractor trailer and rammed into the rear of the truck driven by Clegg, loaded with shelled corn, the state patrol reported.

The impact tore half of the truck open and spilled corn along the shoulder for 100 yards.

The cab of the Page truck on the right side was demolished. Page received cuts on his head, and a relief driver asleep in the upper portion of the cab, John Morris, 30, DuQuoin, had a sprained ankle.

Both were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

The Mac truck was in turn struck by the Clegg truck, but was not badly damaged and was able to proceed.

Clegg told the patrol that he was off the highway and had flashing lights in operation.

The corn truck was on its way to Forest, Miss., from Gilman, Ill.

A two-car collision Wednesday at 4:45 p.m. at the Oran city limits, sent Margot Westrich, 33, Oran, to St. Francis hospital, Cape Girardeau, for treatment of internal injuries.

The Westrich woman was driving a 1965 Ford, when a 1960 Ford stationwagon driven by Michael McMillen, 16, Oran, pulled out of an alley and struck the side of the Ford, the patrol reported.

McMillen was given a summons for careless and imprudent driving.

WRECKED CAB of a 1966 International tractor-trailer, is shown at the side of the highway I-55, one half mile south of Sikeston. The driver, Everett Page, 30, Carbondale, received cuts on his head, and a substitute driver, a sleep in the upper portion of the cab, received a sprained ankle.

Recovery Inc. Votes To Buy Eight Lots

Recovery Inc., the non profit corporation attempting to improve housing conditions in substandard neighborhoods in Sikeston, voted Wednesday to buy eight additional lots, if they can be purchased for the amount of delinquent taxes against them.

Four of the lots are in Sunset Addition, where the corporation has purchased five lots. Abstracts and FHA committments are expected to be received on the five lots and construction of five 3-bedroom houses for about $8,600 each can begin in a short while, Joe Peace, architecture student employed by Recovery for the summer, reported.

Peace plotted the lots to be bid in the tax sale at Benton. Four of the lots to be bid are in Sunset and four are at the corner of South West and William streets.

In a more ambitious project, Recovery Chairman W. Raymert Miller appointed a committee to examine contracts and decide on a consulting firm to develop a rent-supplement housing project. Committee members are Charles Mitchell, Donald Fulton and Charles Matthews.

Jack Dickerson, a staff representative of Kirschner Associates, Inc., in a recent meeting offered the services of the firm he represents in the planning, development, financing and construction of a housing project. All phases would comply with FHA approval and the corporation would not be liable for costs, Dickerson said.

Dickerson appeared at the meeting yesterday and asked that a committee be appointed and a letter of intent be sent him asking for the consulting firm's assistance in the project.

Miller explained the committee appointed would examine any other proposals, then issue a letter of intent.

The number of units to be constructed has not been decided. Recovery members previously discussed projects ranging from 50 to 150 units. The number of units would be decided in the initial planning stage upon agreement of the corporation and the consulting firm.

Hearnes Thinks up to 57 Missouri Votes May Go to Humphrey

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today he thought 54 to 57 of Missouri's 60 Democratic National Convention votes would go for Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

Reaffirming his own support of the vice president, the governor said he has not asked any delegate how he feels about the nomination but thought it was clear that the bulk of Missouri's votes would go for Humphrey.

Under a resolution adopted at the Democratic State Convention, a vote of two - thirds of the delegates could bind the entire 60 votes for Humphrey.

Hearnes said he expects a wild convention but did not elaborate.

He said his wife, Betty, is scheduled to sing on one of the four nights of the Chicago show.

Police Report Six Arrests

Solom F. Mathenia, 64, Corinth, Miss., was charged by Sikeston police Wednesday with failure to yield the right of way.

The car Mathenia was driving ran a stop sign at Main and Malone and was struck by a truck driven by Cecil D. Lynch, 32, 802 William St., police reported. No one was injured.

In other activity, James L. Western, 410 Wallace, was charged today with assault. He was arrested at his residence.

Vivian Davis, 126 Reuben, was charged early today with peace disturbance.

Roscoe W. Gray, route four, Sikeston, was charged Wednesday with public intoxication.

Alberta Rafferty, 924 South Main, was charged Tuesday with careless and imprudent driving for running a stop sign at Main and Malone.

Jerry McMackin, 230 Ruth St., was charged Tuesday with careless and imprudent driving for taking off at a high rate of speed.

Gene Jones, route three, Sikeston, reported to police Wednesday that a set of golf clubs and a set of assorted tools and their containers were stolen between Aug. 7, and Monday.

Charges Filed In Accident

NEW MADRID - Manslaughter charges have been filed against Kenneth Dewayne Johnson, 22, in connection with the fatal accident Monday night in which Gary Lynn Higgerson, 16, operator of a motorbike, was killed.

Johnson, home on leave from the navy, is a patient in Veteran's Hospital in Poplar Bluff from injuries sustained in the accident.

No date has been set for arraignment.

Helicopter Crash Takes 21 Lives

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-one persons — many of them looking forward to a Disneyland visit — were killed Wednesday in a helicopter crash similar to one that took 23 lives in this area last May.

Among the passengers were a recently retired grandfather, his wife, daughter and 8-year-old granddaughter, the 14-year-old grandson of the airline's president and three Denver businessmen.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

The American people are uneasy about the testimony of Associate Justice Abe Fortas that he served as a political errand boy for President B. Johnson.

It is disquieting for Americans in the hinterlands far removed from Potomac political practices to be exposed to disclosures that a supreme court justice has been cast in a servant's role by the President, who appointed him.

Blame cannot fairly be directed at Fortas because as a crony of President Lyndon B. Johnson he felt obliged to obey the commands of the man, who gave him a lifetime position on the nation's highest court.

This doesn't erase the fact that his conduct was beneath the dignity of a supreme court justice.

It would be useless to complain to President Johnson, who soon will leave office and who always has exercise political power as he saw fit.

The remedy lies in choosing a President who really believes in this country's separation of powers, a chief executive who believes that the best politics for him is to uphold this separation and to strengthen it rather than circumvent it or break it down.

Johnson has been motivated by the theory that what is best for the executive branch is best for the legislative and judicial branches.

This is not necessarily so.

Once a President appoints a supreme court justice he should let him alone if he is concerned about the welfare of the country.

This President Johnson has not done.

It was improper for Fortas to continue to act as the White House lawyer while serving on the supreme court, to participate politically on issues on which the supreme court might later rule, and to sit in on White House strategy councils.

Fortas has been serving two masters -- President Johnson and the American people.

He cannot do both. This involves a conflict of interest.

While on the supreme court he has continued to carry out administration policy much as he did before his appointment.

To maintain the independence of the judiciary, the American people must send statesmen to the White House not arm twisting wheeler dealers for whom the end justifies the means.

NO PLACE FOR NAZIS IN AMERICA

The American Nazi Party is very small in numbers and is without influence on the life of the nation. Its members get into the newspapers from time to time by brawling in public and insulting speakers with whom they disagree - and they disagree with almost everyone who makes a speech.

Of course, the term "American Nazi" is self-contradictory, for there is nothing in the least American about the Nazi ideology. Nazism is by its very nature intolerant, brutal and murderous. Those who call themselves American Nazis have absolutely nothing to contribute toward the solution of any of our country's problems.

There are so few of them that they cannot be considered dangerous to the United States. At best, though, they are a nuisance, and at worst they may add to the uneasiness in the minds of millions of Americans who are deeply disturbed by demonstrations and riots in our cities.

These American Nazis are among the potential destroyers of America. Nazism and communism are types of socialism equally far left of constitutional government.

The building of a community often begins in the local bank.

The stagnation of a community may also be the responsibility of the bank.

Following the parable in the New Testament, the banker may "bury his talents or use them."

In burying his talents he loses them and the whole community suffers. The banker who fully uses his talents (money) brings a blessing in the community and receives multiplied benefits.

The progressive banker is more interested in lending then in hoarding. His own income from loans for building is great. His income from hoarding is miserly, and as a simple money changer he is a drag to his community.

Few institutions can gain as much from the prosperity of the community as the local bank. The bank shares the profits of every local business. The progressive bank gains greater profit when it contributes to the development of all local institutions.

Such contributions cannot be maximum unless the services of the bank are understood by the people. Few people realize that a bank is more interested in lending than in savings. Few people understand what "full service" banking means. Only consistent advertising can educate the citizen as to the important place of the bank in community development.

This means, of course, that a strong and independent newspaper is the best support of the local bank, and vice versa.

And in communities where a good newspaper has not been established farsighted bankers are the first to look for a competent newspaper publisher to help in the leadership of community building.

St. Louis Cardinal fans have reason to be grateful for the services of Outfielder Roger Maris.

Maris has announced that this will be his last season as a player in the major leagues.

The Raytown citizen's career with the New York Yankees was a distinguished one. He broke the late Babe Ruth's home run record for one season of 60 in 1927 by polling 61 circuit clouts in 1961.

Then he went into a period when he was plagued by injuries and a batting slump and didn't do well until he joined the Cardinals.

His work with the Cardinals has been outstanding.

Maris has played a brilliant baseball afield and while he doesn't hit as he did of old he has been an inspired and dependable clutch hitter.

The Cardinals string of victories would not have been so long or impressive without the trusty stick work of Maris, who has won a number of games by timely hitting.

The Cards are well on the way to winning the National League pennant.

If they manage to repeat their 1967 achievement of winning the National League flag and the World Series, Maris will have the satisfaction of quitting while he is ahead.

Maris, who is 33, has called his two years in St. Louis his most enjoyable in baseball.

They have been rewarding ones for Cardinal fans, too, who wish him a pleasant life after he tucks away his glove and bat.

It is human frailty that prevents one generation from understanding and trusting another. A young man of twenty-five will go into business and surround himself with others of his own age, or younger. Rarely will he employ men older. He thinks they are fossils.

As he ages, he continues to feel confidence and faith in his contemporaries. Whereas at twenty-five he thought men of that age had a monopoly on intelligence and resourcefulness, so at forty he turns to men of his own age for assistance. By the time he is sixty, he distrusts anyone under forty, except for routine work.

We need to remind ourselves occasionally that neither young nor old men necessarily know it all. Integrity, imagination, and executive ability may exist in full bloom at any age.

A neighborhood lady had given herself a fancy new permanent. Two of her neighbors were discussing the job after she had gone home."What do you think of it?" asked the first.

H.L. Hunt Says

VIOLENCE IN OUR COUNTRY

The increasing violence and lawlessness in our country, most recently examplified by the murder of Senator Robert Kennedy, has prompted many of our people to ask why this is happening. President Johnson has appointed a commission to inquire into the causes of violence in our nation.

A commission is not necessary to find the underlying causes of the breakdown of law and order. Many of these causes have been obvious to right-thinking people for years.

The primary cause of the increasing lawlessness in this country is the attitude of permissiveness by those in leadership positions in government, education, and the communications media. We are told that if an individual wants to do something badly enough, he should be allowed to do it, and that individuals who disrupt law and order should not be punished.

This attitude of permissiveness appears in many Supreme Court decisions over the past decade which have protected the criminal, hampered law enforcement, and endangered innocent persons. If a criminal knows that Supreme Court decisions give him many ways to escape punishment, he will be much more likely to commit crimes.

We see permissiveness on college campuses. Professors have been teaching for year that absolute moral standards do not exist. Now students are putting this doctrine into practice, sometimes lead by professors, and all too often escape punishment for their lawless actions.

We must reverse these trends. We must again teach absolute moral values and require punishment for violators of the law. Only then will the climate of violence come to an end. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

BIG DRAFT COMING:

Top Labor Chiefs Launch Boom to Make Ted Kennedy Humphrey's Running Mate.

Washington, D.C.: —Inside labor, the boys in the front room, as well as the chiefs in the executive suites, want Ted Kennedy as Hubert Humphrey's running partner.

When they hear that the Vice President may choose Oklahoma's Senator Fred Harris, they say, in effect, that a Humphrey - Harris ticket would be "swell alliteration, but is it an inspiration?"

These words are those of one of the nation's most influential policy - making labor leaders who privately doesn't believe the Nixon - Agnew ticket will be easy to defeat.

"Maybe it's corn to say, chum, but the Humphrey campaign will need exhilaration and perspiration, as well as what some of my colleagues think will be built-in inspiration, simply because the enemy is Dick Nixon," he mused. "And young Ted Kennedy can give us what we need -- a jolt in the arm."

There are other labor leaders, equally as powerful, who are delighted to shed their anonymity along with their jackets these hot pre-convention days, and talk up for Ted Kennedy. This, regardless of the Massachusett's Senator's positive refusal to get into pre-Chicago politicking so soon after "Senator Bob's" murder.

"Nothing and nobody could beat a Humphrey - Kennedy ticket this fall," said Louis Stulberg, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers, the New York City - based union which invented modern laborite political action.

Stulberg, whose needle trades union traditionally has run the big eastern windup presidential rallies for Democratic candidates for decades, is no sideliner. Just two weeks ago he welded together some mighty disparate union leaders into the New York Labor Committee for Humphrey, first such regional machine in the nation. It went soft-sell so the pro-Rockefeller labor leaders would not be embarrassed and could swing into position with the Humphrey people after the Nixon nomination.

"I'm not denigrating the qualities of leadership of my good friend Hubert Humphrey, with whom I've been in regular contact," Stulberg said some hours after the Republicans left Miami Beach's silken coast

It's just that Ted Kennedy would give terrific strength to the Democratic ticket. We need what the Kennedys have stood for in this nation. And let's be candidate, Ted can get along with us labor people far better than did his late brother. He is far warmer than Bob was. In our parlance, he is a nice guy, but nice guys finish last, unless they have Ted's youth, energy, appeal and posture.

"Yes, there is considerable talk in labor circles that Sen. Kennedy is more than acceptable. He is vital and regardless of what he has said, he can be drafted. No man today can really reject the call of a presidential candidacy and the national convention. We all are organizational people. He is too. And organization people just don't run off, or out."

Stulberg, whose union is a heavy contributor to the Democratic - labor coalition in a score of states, articulates labor's sentiments best.

This column's poll of national labor circles found considerable support for Stulberg's analysis and sentiment -- though there was a reluctance to talk publicly of a vice presidential nominee.

The attitude was that, publicly at least, this must be Mr. Humphrey's choice. But in such unions as the steelworkers, the longshoremen, the auto workers, the retail clerks, and other traditional Democratic supporters, the posture was the same: Draft Ted Kennedy regardless of what he says or where he is. Aristotle Onassis' yacht is but a phone call away.

A talk with some of the intimates of Ted Kennedy and "Senator Bob" reveals a yearning to get back into politics this year, and not in some uncertain 1972.

One of Bob Kennedy's closest advisers -- and I rarely saw one without the other - put it in this way:

"I'm not bouncing into this one. But we do think that a Humphrey - Kennedy ticket can unite the party, cut deeply into McCarthy supporters, rally virtually all the labor people and the youth. But there are two crucial considerations which only Ted can cope with and determine. Grim as it sounds, he must decide whether he wants to get into the line of fire in this maniacal year after having lost Jack and Bob.

"And will Humphrey accommodate himself to Ted Kennedy on key issues. The Senator can't suddenly accept principles which he and Senator Bob were attacking just two months ago."

This would mean that Mr. Humphrey must establish a new Vietnam policy without repudiating the past, or the administration. There is might little difference between the two men on domestic policies. Furthermore, the Kennedys and the Vice President always have been fond of each other. There's sharp bitterness within the Kennedy Camp over Gen. McCarthy. They've always disliked him. And labor dislikes him.

So, if Ted Kennedy has the stomach for a campaign, there could be a swift, dramatic, traumatic, united roar for Ted Kennedy in the city where the equally young Jack Kennedy took his first swing at big-time politics.

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON SAYS: Jonathan Daniels reveals more details of FDR's secret romance; Mrs. Roosevelt discovered that Lucy Mercer had been at the White House; Lucy's visit at Warm Springs was hushed up.

POOR FOOD FOR GHETTOS

Almost one year ago, Nov. 16, 1967, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that "some chain stores have been loading their counters, particularly in the Negro ghettos, with food that has been rejected by the defense supply agency for U. S. troops." They gave further details.

On Aug. 11, the house government operations committee under Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D- N.Y., reported that grocery chains sometimes sell second - rate food in their ghetto stores;

WASHINGTON -- Jonathan Daniels, son of Woodrow Wilson's Secretary of the Navy, has written another book, "Washington Quadrille," giving more details of the secret romance of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It's a fascinating account of Washington society in the days of the Wilson administration, when young FDR served as assistant secretary of the navy under Jonathan's father, Josephus Daniels.

This time Jonathan, now editor of the Raleigh (N.C.) News and Observer, has done painstaking research to document a romance which could have changed history. More important than the romance, he has also told the story of Eleanor Roosevelt, the ugly duckling who married her handsome cousin, FDR.

Daniels has dug up the dates of the gay yachting trips on the SS Sylph when the dashing young assistant secretary of the navy took Lucy Mercer for weekend house parties down the Potomac. Eleanor Roosevelt was in Campobello, and Washington summers, especially during 1917, the first year the U.S. was fighting in World War I, were both lonesome and romantic.

Lucy Mercer, then 25, daughter of an aristocratic Maryland family, had become Eleanor's social secretary, later a navy yeomanette. There are two versions as to why she and FDR never married. One version is that Lucy, a Catholic, was unwilling to marry a divorced man. The other version is that Eleanor was firm in reminding her husband that he could never reach the White House as a divorced man.

My own knowledge of the romance came from Elsie Cobb Wilson, who later married Gen. Louis Little of the Marine Corps.

CALM MRS. ROOSEVELT

Elsie, a close friend of the Roosevelts, told how the romance came to a crisis when Eleanor came back from a summer of 1917 in Campobello, and driving through the Virginia countryside, passed her husband and Lucy in a parked car, in fond embrace.

Mrs. Roosevelt had an unemotional showdown with her husband, while Elsie had a talk with Lucy Mercer, advising her to step out of Roosevelt's life altogether.

It is not quite clear, either from Jonathan Daniel's book or from my conversations with Mrs. Little, whether it was Eleanor's confrontation or Lucy's decision to bow out that finally broke up the romance.

However, there are at least three subsequent chapters.

Elsie Little always blamed the Lucy Merger incident for the fact that Roosevelt would not promote her husband to be commandant of the Marine Corps. Gen. Little, a brilliant officer, reached the No. 2 rank in the Marine Corps, but FDR never made him commander. According to Mrs. Little, he was irked over the part she had played in breaking up his romance.

Another chapter occurred during the closing days of World War II when Steve Early, Roosevelt's press secretary, told me that late one night he received a phone call from an editor in northern New Jersey telling him that the President's special train was on a siding near Allamuchy and he, the editor, wanted permission to publish the story.

In those war days, the whereabouts of the President was a military secret and could not be published without permission. Steve withheld permission. He said that he learned later that FDR, traveling north to New York, had ordered his train stopped near the home of Lucy Mercer, who had become Mrs. Winthrop Rutherford.

FDR's DEATH

The final chapter in FDR's secret romance is told poignantly by Daniels in describing the death of the President in April 1945. Mrs. Rutherford had gone to Warm Springs, taking along portrait painter Elizabeth Shoumatoff. He suffered a stroke while posing.

Mrs. Rutherford was spirited out of Warm Springs, and Bill Hassett, the President's Secretary, deliberately omitted her name from the list of those who were with FDR when he was stricken. But Mrs. Roosevelt knew.

Daniels tells the story: "But Early blurted to him (Hassett): 'There's hell to pay, Bill. Mrs. Roosevelt knows that Lucy Rutherford was here.'

"Even in the midst of the solemn obsequities there was on her heart a secret something she had to face," Daniels continues. "She made direct inquiries. Had Lucy Mercer come to the White House in the times she had been away? The truth could not be denied. Eleanor's resentment could not be dissembled. She announced that she was getting out of the White House immediately."

She packed in record time.

Daniels goes on to tell of Mrs. Rutherford's own death, July 31, 1948. "The world Little noticed," he reported. "The New York Times obituary gave much of its attention to her dead husband."

Mrs. Roosevelt outlived Lucy by many years, and Daniels concludes his book by telling of Mrs. R's busy life, especially her life on July 31, the day of Lucy's death. She had taken a trip to Wilkes - Barre, Pa., where she dedicated a monument to her husband.

"The afternoon was growing late. The road she followed along the New Jersey - Pennsylvania line ran, as the twillight came on that afternoon, a little north of Allamuchy.

"There the word had come to prepare Lucy's place in the Rutherford family cemetery at Tranquility under the little mountains and not far from the pond where occasionally a blue heron stood as at Val-kill. The big, old Rutherford house loomed, solid and heavy in the dark. It had given Lucy shelter. She had given it grace, affection, a warm heart and a blithe spirit. She was welcome to its earth. Her story was over as Mrs. Roosevelt on her lengthening journeys rode by, hurrying home -- and to the world."

"What!—You here again Benjy[ You spend more time in my living room than Walter Cronkite does."

"It was real eerie. We were just sitting there calmly watching an old Lucille Ball program, and then, instead of her voice, we heard Hubert Humphrey giving a political speech. How mixed up can a television set get["

"I'm giving you one last warning, Benjy. If you don't get this set in working condition in two days, I'll climb down your chimney with it next Christmas and leave it under your tree."

"What's wrong with it this time[ Well, for one thing, the NBC peacock looks like a flamingo or a blushing chicken. Are peacocks supposed to have pale pink feathers["

"Put away your screwdriver, Benjy. I guess I won't need you after all. Just before you got here, I jiggled the machine a little and now it's doing fine again. Here's a quarter for your trouble."

"My wife wastes whole days looking at soap operas, Benjy. I'd like to make a secret deal with you. Whatever she pays you to fix the set, I'll double the amount if you fix it so that it breaks down again ten minutes after you leave."

"Why is it that every television repairman, when he finds he can't make your old machine work anymore, can always refer you to an uncle or a cousin or a brother-in-law who is in the business of selling new sets[ Isn't that against the antitrust laws—or something["

"Well, Benjy, if our television set has you stumped, how about looking at my laundry machine or my vacuum cleaner[ They're not working either."

"Just do me one favor, Benjy. Tell me who your wife calls for help when the set in your own house breaks down—and I'll give him a ring."

"I'm warning you, Benjy—my check for this job is postdated 10 days. If our machine falls apart again in that time, I'll call the bank and tell them to stop payment."

"Well, the world can be grateful for one thing, Benjy—at least you didn't take up brain surgery."

"Is this your bill—or just the federal debt["

"We first suspected there was something wrong with it when we saw Richard Nixon addressing the Republican convention on the right side of the set, and on the left side we saw Kitty pouring Marshal Dillon a drink in the Long Branch Saloon."

"As soon as he finds out that we don't have any more beer in the refrigerator, he'll get the set working again in a jiffy."

"Benjy, you must make more out of television than Johnny Carson and Jackie Gleason put together."

"I don't want our television set to be lonely in case my wife and I should pass on suddenly, Benjy, so I've put a clause in my will leaving the machine to you. After all, it has spent more time in your shop than it has in our home."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

The American people are uneasy about the testimony of Associate Justice Abe Fortas that he served as a political errand boy for President B. Johnson.

It is disquieting for Americans in the hinterlands far removed from Potomac political practices to be exposed to disclosures that a supreme court justice has been cast in a servant's role by the President, who appointed him.

Blame cannot fairly be directed at Fortas because as a crony of President Lyndon B. Johnson he felt obliged to obey the commands of the man, who gave him a lifetime position on the nation's highest court.

This doesn't erase the fact that his conduct was beneath the dignity of a supreme court justice.

It would be useless to complain to President Johnson, who soon will leave office and who always has exercise political power as he saw fit.

The remedy lies in choosing a President who really believes in this country's separation of powers, a chief executive who believes that the best politics for him is to uphold this separation and to strengthen it rather than circumvent it or break it down.

Johnson has been motivated by the theory that what is best for the executive branch is best for the legislative and judicial branches.

This is not necessarily so.

Once a President appoints a supreme court justice he should let him alone if he is concerned about the welfare of the country.

This President Johnson has not done.

It was improper for Fortas to continue to act as the White House lawyer while serving on the supreme court, to participate politically on issues on which the supreme court might later rule, and to sit in on White House strategy councils.

Fortas has been serving two masters -- President Johnson and the American people.

He cannot do both. This involves a conflict of interest.

While on the supreme court he has continued to carry out administration policy much as he did before his appointment.

To maintain the independence of the judiciary, the American people must send statesmen to the White House not arm twisting wheeler dealers for whom the end justifies the means.

His work with the Cardinals has been outstanding.

Maris has played a brilliant baseball afield and while he doesn't hit as he did of old he has been an inspired and dependable clutch hitter.

The Cardinals string of victories would not have been so long or impressive without the trusty stick work of Maris, who has won a number of games by timely hitting.

The Cards are well on the way to winning the National League pennant.

If they manage to repeat their 1967 achievement of winning the National League flag and the World Series, Maris will have the satisfaction of quitting while he is ahead.

Maris, who is 33, has called his two years in St. Louis his most enjoyable in baseball.

They have been rewarding ones for Cardinal fans, too, who wish him a pleasant life after he tucks away his glove and bat.

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that television repairmen get tired of hearing:

"The only difference between you and Jesse James is that Jesse rode a horse."

"What new tweed pattern are you going to leave us with this time, Benjy[ I got kind of tired of the last one."

"I don't know what's wrong with it. I kicked it several times —and even that didn't seem to help."

"Why can't you fix our television set so it will stay fixed[ Is that too much to ask["

"I hear that Benjy studied television repairing through a correspondence school. He must have run out of stamps after taking the second lesson."

"What!—You here again Benjy[ You spend more time in my living room than Walter Cronkite does."

"It was real eerie. We were just sitting there calmly watching an old Lucille Ball program, and then, instead of her voice, we heard Hubert Humphrey giving a political speech. How mixed up can a television set get["

"I'm giving you one last warning, Benjy. If you don't get this set in working condition in two days, I'll climb down your chimney with it next Christmas and leave it under your tree."

"What's wrong with it this time[ Well, for one thing, the NBC peacock looks like a flamingo or a blushing chicken. Are peacocks supposed to have pale pink feathers["

"Put away your screwdriver, Benjy. I guess I won't need you after all. Just before you got here, I jiggled the machine a little and now it's doing fine again. Here's a quarter for your trouble."

"My wife wastes whole days looking at soap operas, Benjy. I'd like to make a secret deal with you. Whatever she pays you to fix the set, I'll double the amount if you fix it so that it breaks down again ten minutes after you leave."

"Why is it that every television repairman, when he finds he can't make your old machine work anymore, can always refer you to an uncle or a cousin or a brother-in-law who is in the business of selling new sets[ Isn't that against the antitrust laws—or something["

"Well, Benjy, if our television set has you stumped, how about looking at my laundry machine or my vacuum cleaner[ They're not working either."

"Just do me one favor, Benjy. Tell me who your wife calls for help when the set in your own house breaks down—and I'll give him a ring."

"I'm warning you, Benjy—my check for this job is postdated 10 days. If our machine falls apart again in that time, I'll call the bank and tell them to stop payment."

"Well, the world can be grateful for one thing, Benjy—at least you didn't take up brain surgery."

"Is this your bill—or just the federal debt["

"We first suspected there was something wrong with it when we saw Richard Nixon addressing the Republican convention on the right side of the set, and on the left side we saw Kitty pouring Marshal Dillon a drink in the Long Branch Saloon."

"As soon as he finds out that we don't have any more beer in the refrigerator, he'll get the set working again in a jiffy."

"Benjy, you must make more out of television than Johnny Carson and Jackie Gleason put together."

"I don't want our television set to be lonely in case my wife and I should pass on suddenly, Benjy, so I've put a clause in my will leaving the machine to you. After all, it has spent more time in your shop than it has in our home."

"Your honor," he cautioned," the prisoner forgot to explain that his kid brother is the cashier of the Security National Bank."

It is human frailty that prevents one generation from understanding and trusting another. A young man of twenty-five will go into business and surround himself with others of his own age, or younger. Rarely will he employ men older. He thinks they are fossils.

As he ages, he continues to feel confidence and faith in his contemporaries. Whereas at twenty-five he thought men of that age had a monopoly on intelligence and resourcefulness, so at forty he turns to men of his own age for assistance. By the time he is sixty, he distrusts anyone under forty, except for routine work.

We need to remind ourselves occasionally that neither young nor old men necessarily know it all. Integrity, imagination, and executive ability may exist in full bloom at any age.

A neighborhood lady had given herself a fancy new permanent. Two of her neighbors were discussing the job after she had gone home."What do you think of it?" asked the first.

"Well, to me," said the second, "it looks like her parole came through just as the warden pulled the switch."

H.L. Hunt Says

VIOLENCE IN OUR COUNTRY

The increasing violence and lawlessness in our country, most recently examplified by the murder of Senator Robert Kennedy, has prompted many of our people to ask why this is happening. President Johnson has appointed a commission to inquire into the causes of violence in our nation.

A commission is not necessary to find the underlying causes of the breakdown of law and order. Many of these causes have been obvious to right-thinking people for years.

The primary cause of the increasing lawlessness in this country is the attitude of permissiveness by those in leadership positions in government, education, and the communications media. We are told that if an individual wants to do something badly enough, he should be allowed to do it, and that individuals who disrupt law and order should not be punished.

This attitude of permissiveness appears in many Supreme Court decisions over the past decade which have protected the criminal, hampered law enforcement, and endangered innocent persons. If a criminal knows that Supreme Court decisions give him many ways to escape punishment, he will be much more likely to commit crimes.

We see permissiveness on college campuses. Professors have been teaching for year that absolute moral standards do not exist. Now students are putting this doctrine into practice, sometimes lead by professors, and all too often escape punishment for their lawless actions.

We must reverse these trends. We must again teach absolute moral values and require punishment for violators of the law. Only then will the climate of violence come to an end. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON SAYS: Jonathan Daniels reveals more details of FDR's secret romance; Mrs. Roosevelt discovered that Lucy Mercer had been at the White House; Lucy's visit at Warm Springs was hushed up.

POOR FOOD FOR GHETTOS

Almost one year ago, Nov. 16, 1967, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that "some chain stores have been loading their counters, particularly in the Negro ghettos, with food that has been rejected by the defense supply agency for U. S. troops." They gave further details.

On Aug. 11, the house government operations committee under Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D- N.Y., reported that grocery chains sometimes sell second - rate food in their ghetto stores;

WASHINGTON -- Jonathan Daniels, son of Woodrow Wilson's Secretary of the Navy, has written another book, "Washington Quadrille," giving more details of the secret romance of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It's a fascinating account of Washington society in the days of the Wilson administration, when young FDR served as assistant secretary of the navy under Jonathan's father, Josephus Daniels.

This time Jonathan, now editor of the Raleigh (N.C.) News and Observer, has done painstaking research to document a romance which could have changed history. More important than the romance, he has also told the story of Eleanor Roosevelt, the ugly duckling who married her handsome cousin, FDR.

Daniels has dug up the dates of the gay yachting trips on the SS Sylph when the dashing young assistant secretary of the navy took Lucy Mercer for weekend house parties down the Potomac. Eleanor Roosevelt was in Campobello, and Washington summers, especially during 1917, the first year the U.S. was fighting in World War I, were both lonesome and romantic.

Lucy Mercer, then 25, daughter of an aristocratic Maryland family, had become Eleanor's social secretary, later a navy yeomanette. There are two versions as to why she and FDR never married. One version is that Lucy, a Catholic, was unwilling to marry a divorced man. The other version is that Eleanor was firm in reminding her husband that he could never reach the White House as a divorced man.

My own knowledge of the romance came from Elsie Cobb Wilson, who later married Gen. Louis Little of the Marine Corps.

CALM MRS. ROOSEVELT

Elsie, a close friend of the Roosevelts, told how the romance came to a crisis when Eleanor came back from a summer of 1917 in Campobello, and driving through the Virginia countryside, passed her husband and Lucy in a parked car, in fond embrace.

Mrs. Roosevelt had an unemotional showdown with her husband, while Elsie had a talk with Lucy Mercer, advising her to step out of Roosevelt's life altogether.

It is not quite clear, either from Jonathan Daniel's book or from my conversations with Mrs. Little, whether it was Eleanor's confrontation or Lucy's decision to bow out that finally broke up the romance.

However, there are at least three subsequent chapters.

Elsie Little always blamed the Lucy Merger incident for the fact that Roosevelt would not promote her husband to be commandant of the Marine Corps. Gen. Little, a brilliant officer, reached the No. 2 rank in the Marine Corps, but FDR never made him commander. According to Mrs. Little, he was irked over the part she had played in breaking up his romance.

Another chapter occurred during the closing days of World War II when Steve Early, Roosevelt's press secretary, told me that late one night he received a phone call from an editor in northern New Jersey telling him that the President's special train was on a siding near Allamuchy and he, the editor, wanted permission to publish the story.

In those war days, the whereabouts of the President was a military secret and could not be published without permission. Steve withheld permission. He said that he learned later that FDR, traveling north to New York, had ordered his train stopped near the home of Lucy Mercer, who had become Mrs. Winthrop Rutherford.

FDR's DEATH

The final chapter in FDR's secret romance is told poignantly by Daniels in describing the death of the President in April 1945. Mrs. Rutherford had gone to Warm Springs, taking along portrait painter Elizabeth Shoumatoff. He suffered a stroke while posing.

Mrs. Rutherford was spirited out of Warm Springs, and Bill Hassett, the President's Secretary, deliberately omitted her name from the list of those who were with FDR when he was stricken. But Mrs. Roosevelt knew.

Daniels tells the story: "But Early blurted to him (Hassett): 'There's hell to pay, Bill. Mrs. Roosevelt knows that Lucy Rutherford was here.'

"Even in the midst of the solemn obsequities there was on her heart a secret something she had to face," Daniels continues. "She made direct inquiries. Had Lucy Mercer come to the White House in the times she had been away? The truth could not be denied. Eleanor's resentment could not be dissembled. She announced that she was getting out of the White House immediately."

She packed in record time.

Daniels goes on to tell of Mrs. Rutherford's own death, July 31, 1948. "The world Little noticed," he reported. "The New York Times obituary gave much of its attention to her dead husband."

Mrs. Roosevelt outlived Lucy by many years, and Daniels concludes his book by telling of Mrs. R's busy life, especially her life on July 31, the day of Lucy's death. She had taken a trip to Wilkes - Barre, Pa., where she dedicated a monument to her husband.

"The afternoon was growing late. The road she followed along the New Jersey - Pennsylvania line ran, as the twillight came on that afternoon, a little north of Allamuchy.

"There the word had come to prepare Lucy's place in the Rutherford family cemetery at Tranquility under the little mountains and not far from the pond where occasionally a blue heron stood as at Val-kill. The big, old Rutherford house loomed, solid and heavy in the dark. It had given Lucy shelter. She had given it grace, affection, a warm heart and a blithe spirit. She was welcome to its earth. Her story was over as Mrs. Roosevelt on her lengthening journeys rode by, hurrying home -- and to the world."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

BIG DRAFT COMING:

Top Labor Chiefs Launch Boom to Make Ted Kennedy Humphrey's Running Mate.

Washington, D.C.: —Inside labor, the boys in the front room, as well as the chiefs in the executive suites, want Ted Kennedy as Hubert Humphrey's running partner.

When they hear that the Vice President may choose Oklahoma's Senator Fred Harris, they say, in effect, that a Humphrey - Harris ticket would be "swell alliteration, but is it an inspiration?"

These words are those of one of the nation's most influential policy - making labor leaders who privately doesn't believe the Nixon - Agnew ticket will be easy to defeat.

"Maybe it's corn to say, chum, but the Humphrey campaign will need exhilaration and perspiration, as well as what some of my colleagues think will be built-in inspiration, simply because the enemy is Dick Nixon," he mused. "And young Ted Kennedy can give us what we need -- a jolt in the arm."

There are other labor leaders, equally as powerful, who are delighted to shed their anonymity along with their jackets these hot pre-convention days, and talk up for Ted Kennedy. This, regardless of the Massachusett's Senator's positive refusal to get into pre-Chicago politicking so soon after "Senator Bob's" murder.

"Nothing and nobody could beat a Humphrey - Kennedy ticket this fall," said Louis Stulberg, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers, the New York City - based union which invented modern laborite political action.

Stulberg, whose needle trades union traditionally has run the big eastern windup presidential rallies for Democratic candidates for decades, is no sideliner. Just two weeks ago he welded together some mighty disparate union leaders into the New York Labor Committee for Humphrey, first such regional machine in the nation. It went soft-sell so the pro-Rockefeller labor leaders would not be embarrassed and could swing into position with the Humphrey people after the Nixon nomination.

"I'm not denigrating the qualities of leadership of my good friend Hubert Humphrey, with whom I've been in regular contact," Stulberg said some hours after the Republicans left Miami Beach's silken coast.

It's just that Ted Kennedy would give terrific strength to the Democratic ticket. We need what the Kennedys have stood for in this nation. And let's be candidate, Ted can get along with us labor people far better than did his late brother. He is far warmer than Bob was. In our parlance, he is a nice guy, but nice guys finish last, unless they have Ted's youth, energy, appeal and posture.

"Yes, there is considerable talk in labor circles that Sen. Kennedy is more than acceptable. He is vital and regardless of what he has said, he can be drafted. No man today can really reject the call of a presidential candidacy and the national convention. We all are organizational people. He is too. And organization people just don't run off, or out."

Stulberg, whose union is a heavy contributor to the Democratic - labor coalition in a score of states, articulates labor's sentiments best.

This column's poll of national labor circles found considerable support for Stulberg's analysis and sentiment -- though there was a reluctance to talk publicly of a vice presidential nominee.

The attitude was that, publicly at least, this must be Mr. Humphrey's choice. But in such unions as the steelworkers, the longshoremen, the auto workers, the retail clerks, and other traditional Democratic supporters, the posture was the same: Draft Ted Kennedy regardless of what he says or where he is. Aristotle Onassis' yacht is but a phone call away.

A talk with some of the intimates of Ted Kennedy and "Senator Bob" reveals a yearning to get back into politics this year, and not in some uncertain 1972.

One of Bob Kennedy's closest advisers -- and I rarely saw one without the other - put it in this way:

"I'm not bouncing into this one. But we do think that a Humphrey - Kennedy ticket can unite the party, cut deeply into McCarthy supporters, rally virtually all the labor people and the youth. But there are two crucial considerations which only Ted can cope with and determine. Grim as it sounds, he must decide whether he wants to get into the line of fire in this maniacal year after having lost Jack and Bob.

"And will Humphrey accommodate himself to Ted Kennedy on key issues. The Senator can't suddenly accept principles which he and Senator Bob were attacking just two months ago."

This would mean that Mr. Humphrey must establish a new Vietnam policy without repudiating the past, or the administration. There is might little difference between the two men on domestic policies. Furthermore, the Kennedys and the Vice President always have been fond of each other. There's sharp bitterness within the Kennedy Camp over Gene McCarthy. They've always disliked him. And labor dislikes him.

So, if Ted Kennedy has the stomach for a campaign, there could be a swift, dramatic, traumatic, united roar for Ted Kennedy in the city where the equally young Jack Kennedy took his first swing at big-time politics.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl I. Thomann, 221 Crowe. Tinsley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Tinsley Sr., route three, Charleston.

The Rev. Ronald Austin officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Coyita Dockins was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal-length gown of angel mist taffeta and peau de ange lace. The empire bodice and long sleeves were made of lace. The controlled skirt was fashioned of taffeta. A lace chapel - length train was banded with taffeta and ended in a point.

Marcia Mays of Sikeston was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Peggy Tanner, Betty Hampton, both of Sikeston, cousins of the bride, and Topsy McClain of Sikeston. Junior bridesmaid was Dorothy Tinsley of Charleston, the groom's sister. Flower girl was Deborah Thomann, the bride's niece.

The attendants wore empire styled gowns of Serrana fabric. They wore headdress of roses covered with net and each carried a long stemmed yellow rose.

Miss Mays' gown was mint green trimmed in yellow velveteen ribbon. The other attendants wore pale yellow gowns with mint green trimming.

John Laster of Charleston was best man. Groomsmen were Pat Gresham and Bill Freezor, both of Charleston, brothers - in - law of the groom, and Gary Noisworthy of Charleston. Ushers were Julian Pease of Blodgett, the bride's uncle, and Dennis Stockman of Charleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomann entertained the wedding guests at a reception at the Holiday Inn.

The bride's table was covered with a white taffeta cloth overlaid with green net. The corners were draped and secured with yellow bows. A four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple centered the table.

Serving were Mrs. Rosie Pease of Blodgett, Miss Kay Johnson and Miss Dorothy Templeton, both of Sikeston.

Donna and Janet West were in charge of the gift table.

The couple left on a wedding trip to the South. They are living on route three, Charleston. Tinsley farms with his father.

The new Mrs. Tinsley formerly was a clerk employed by P. N. Hirsch and Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tinsley Sr., entertained Aug. 3 at a rehearsal supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ervin Tinsley Jr.

Thomann-Tinsley Vows Pledged

Betty Carlene Thomann and Charles Ervin Tinsley Jr., route three, Charleston, were married at 2 p.m. Aug. 4 at the Illinois Avenue General Baptist church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl I. Thomann, 221 Crowe. Tinsley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Tinsley Sr., route three, Charleston.

The Rev. Ronald Austin officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Coyita Dockins was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal-length gown of angel mist taffeta and peau de ange lace. The empire bodice and long sleeves were made of lace. The controlled skirt was fashioned of taffeta. A lace chapel - length train was banded with taffeta and ended in a point.

Marcia Mays of Sikeston was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Peggy Tanner, Betty Hampton, both of Sikeston, cousins of the bride, and Topsy McClain of Sikeston. Junior bridesmaid was Dorothy Tinsley of Charleston, the groom's sister. Flower girl was Deborah Thomann, the bride's niece.

The attendants wore empire styled gowns of Serrana fabric. They wore headdress of roses covered with net and each carried a long stemmed yellow rose.

Miss Mays' gown was mint green trimmed in yellow velveteen ribbon. The other attendants wore pale yellow gowns with mint green trimming.

John Laster of Charleston was best man. Groomsmen were Pat Gresham and Bill Freezor, both of Charleston, brothers - in - law of the groom, and Gary Noisworthy of Charleston. Ushers were Julian Pease of Blodgett, the bride's uncle, and Dennis Stockman of Charleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomann entertained the wedding guests at a reception at the Holiday Inn.

The bride's table was covered with a white taffeta cloth overlaid with green net. The corners were draped and secured with yellow bows. A four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple centered the table.

Serving were Mrs. Rosie Pease of Blodgett, Miss Kay Johnson and Miss Dorothy Templeton, both of Sikeston.

Donna and Janet West were in charge of the gift table.

The couple left on a wedding trip to the South. They are living on route three, Charleston. Tinsley farms with his father.

The new Mrs. Tinsley formerly was a clerk employed by P. N. Hirsch and Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tinsley Sr., entertained Aug. 3 at a rehearsal supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ervin Tinsley Jr.

Sikeston, Beaumont, Tex. Remain Unbeaten

YOUR OUT was the call from first base umpire Lou Wise on this close play at first base in the final contest of a four-game opening series of the south plains regional baseball tournament at VFW stadium Tuesday. Making the play unassisted is Sikeston's Rick Wilson, at right, who reaches first base just ahead of sliding Felix Martinez of La Junta, Colo. At left is Potlatch pitcher Tim Halter, who hurled a two-hitter for a 5-1 victory.

Two teams were eliminated and two remained undefeated after a second full day of baseball at VFW stadium in the south plains Connie Mack regional baseball tournament.

Cape Girardeau and Corning, Ark., bowed out of competition after suffering their second defeats of the tournament by identical 1-0 scores.

Cape fell to El Paso behind the one-hit pitching of Jim Greggerson and Corning again failed to score as it did in its opener Tuesday night while out-hitting its opponents and lost to La Junta, Colo. Both were afternoon contests.

Sikeston waited eight years and finally overcame a Ft. Worth entry into the tournament by going 10-innings for a 3-2 victory in the nightcap.

Beaumont, Tex., remained unbeaten by topping Grand Prairie in the night opener, 6-1 behind a tight defense that yielded but one run and six hits while comitting one error.

El Paso rode the strong southpaw pitching of Greggerson through seven scoreless and six hitless innings in posting its first win of the tournament.

Greggerson allowed a single to Walt Matthews leading off the seventh inning for Cape only hit of the game as he faced 22 men and retired the first 14 batters he faced, getting 13 of the Missourians on strikeouts.

Paul Guerrero scampered home on the second inning for the game's only run after reaching first on an error by the Cape shortstop, Greg Brune. He advanced home on a wild pitch by losing hurler Tim Godwin.

DROUTH DISASTEROUS FOR CORNING

Felix Martinez scattered six hits in posting La Sunta's first win of the tournament in yesterday afternoon's second tame against Corning.

Corning failed to advance a runner past second base, stranding four at that position after one was out.

It was the second defeat by shutout for Corning, which outhit two opponents.

La Junta broke in for its only run in the third inning. Tim Waner reached first on a hit and swiped second before advancing home on a two base error by Corning's centerfield, Doug Harmon, who bobbled Martinez's pop fly.

BEAUMONT CAPS ON ERRORS

Grand Prairie failed in its bid to remain undefeated as it took a 6-1 drubbing from Beaumont, which captalized on five Grand Prairie errors to tally its runs.

All five of Grand Prairie's miscues came in Beaumont scoring innings with the first being in the third. Beaumont pushed across Russ Ball, who had singled after one was out and took base on an alert running play. He then scored on Jim Kerr's single after the second out hald been recorded.

David Bensen carded the victory with nine strikeouts to his credit.

FORESTERS FINALLY SCORE

Like the St. Louis Cardinals, Sikeston Potlatch has their fireman, that man being Tim Halter, the lad who had hurled the first win Tuesday night for Sikeston. He returned for two innings, reliefing Bruce Farris in the ninth with runners on first and second with no outs. He walked out of the jam and held Ft. Worth while his teammates scored in the top of the ninth.

Halter managed to do something no other Sikeston hurler in the past eight years had done in defeating Ft. Worth.

Halter provided the heroics on the mound while cleanup clutch-hitting by Gary Owens did the job at the plate. With two out and Wayne Limbaugh on third, Owens ripped a ball up the middle that scored Limbaugh to break a 2-2 deadlock that had checked the two teams for four innings.

Sikeston drew first blood with a pair of runs in the third inning with Stan Sorrells and Mike Garner driving in the tallies. Ft. Worth waited one inning before evening the score in the fourth and both teams battled from their out, with both threatening periodically.

Farris went eight innings for the Foresters and took count of 14 strikeouts, got into a pair of jams in the late innings but managed to work out.

Ft. Worth committed nine errors, with the biggest in the 10th inning when the losing hurler, David Green, shot a ball past the catcher, allowing Limbaugh to move to second.

Tonight, Sikeston and Beaumont meet to settle the matter of who will remain undefeated after El Paso encountered La Junta at 11 a.m. today and Ft. Worth went against Grand Prairie.

GARY OWENS, prepares to plant his foot on home plate in scoring the first run in Tuesday's opening game of the Sikeston Potlatch Foresters against La Junta, Colo., which the Foresters won 5-1. He played a major role in last night's 3-2, 10-inning win over Ft. Worth. He drove in the winning run in the tenth.

Gibson Serves As Fireman

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Gibson, the Big Pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, may have hurled the season's Big Win for the defending world champions Wednesday.

Gibson, notching his 14th straight victory with a 3-1 decision over the rampaging Chicago Cubs, fattened the Cards' first-place lead over the Cubs to 13 games.

Gibson, now 17-5, effectively scattered eight hits before a third straight howling, partisan weekday crowd of more than 30,000 to end a string of seven straight Cardinal defeats by the second-place Cubs.

The two clubs today wind up a four-game series — and their 18-game season rivalry — but, win or lose, the Cards seem to have dimmed the chances of a miracle stretch drive by the Cubs, now holding a 9-8 edge over St. Louis. Nelson Briles (15-7) will pitch for St. Louis and Ken Holtzman (8-8) for Chicago.

Gibson, last beaten May 28, discounted the importance of stopping the Cubs, who had visions of a four-game sweep to send St. Louis limping off with a shrinking 10-game lead.

"Any game is a big game to win after you have dropped three in a row," said Gibson.

"I heard on the radio we were getting to be fat cats. That's ridiculous. That comes from people who don't play the game. We're in it to play our best and win every time out," Gibson added.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

JAIPUR, India (AP) — Jaipur's oldest woman and one of the oldest persons in India, Jelle, died recently at the age of 112.

She was known and admired for her hectic life and prodigious hunger.

"It is much better now than in my youth when it was difficult to get even two square meals a day," she told a neighbor not long ago, while having one of her usual seven meals a day.

Sports Corner

By Ron Jaynes

An attempt to form a Skeet and Trap shooting association is being made. Persons interested may attend a meeting at the police station tonight at 8 p.m. It will be a National Rifle Association organization.

Charleston, Benton; Richland and Illmo move into semi-final round play of the second annual 9 and 10-year-old baseball tournament tonight.

Charleston takes on Benton at 6:30 p.m. and Richland squares off against Illmo at 8:30 p.m.

Illmo eliminated Jackson 1-0 in extra innings last night with Dohogne taking the victory.

Richland won by forfeit over Bell City, 6-0.

The Charleston 11 and 12-year-old all-stars meet the Cape American's tonight at 9 p.m. after being rained out with them last night.

Practice officially opens for all of the football teams in Missouri today.

Equipment checkouts were being made by Coach Bill Sapp and his assistants today at SHS.

The SHS Bulldogs will be shooting for two things this year, those being the Northern Conference Championship and a state title . . . GOOD LUCK.

The Jaycee Bootheel rodeo, which offered $7,649, attracted 90 entries. The All Around Cowboy was Marvin Holmes, Pickens, Okla., who won $707 in saddle and bareback bronc riding.

Only one of the players off the eight teams which entered the 1968 south plains regional Connie Mack baseball tournament at VFW stadium has been drafted by the professionals.

Sylvan Rothschild of El Paso, was that draftee. He plays infield for the Sports.

Sikeston, Beaumont, Tex. Remain Unbeaten

YOUR OUT was the call from first base umpire Lou Wise on this close play at first base in the final contest of a four-game opening series of the south plains regional baseball tournament at VFW stadium Tuesday. Making the play unassisted is Sikeston's Rick Wilson, at right, who reaches first base just ahead of sliding Felix Martinez of La Junta, Colo. At left is Potlatch pitcher Tim Halter, who hurled a two-hitter for a 5-1 victory.

Two teams were eliminated and two remained undefeated after a second full day of baseball at VFW stadium in the south plains Connie Mack regional baseball tournament.

Cape Girardeau and Corning, Ark., bowed out of competition after suffering their second defeats of the tournament by identical 1-0 scores.

Cape fell to El Paso behind the one-hit pitching of Jim Greggerson and Corning again failed to score as it did in its opener Tuesday night while out-hitting its opponents and lost to La Junta, Colo. Both were afternoon contests.

Sikeston waited eight years and finally overcame a Ft. Worth entry into the tournament by going 10-innings for a 3-2 victory in the nightcap.

Beaumont, Tex., remained unbeaten by topping Grand Prairie in the night opener, 6-1 behind a tight defense that yielded but one run and six hits while comitting one error.

El Paso rode the strong southpaw pitching of Greggerson through seven scoreless and six hitless innings in posting its first win of the tournament.

Greggerson allowed a single to Walt Matthews leading off the seventh inning for Cape only hit of the game as he faced 22 men and retired the first 14 batters he faced, getting 13 of the Missourians on strikeouts.

Paul Guerrero scampered home on the second inning for the game's only run after reaching first on an error by the Cape shortstop, Greg Brune. He advanced home on a wild pitch by losing hurler Tim Godwin.

DROUTH DISASTEROUS FOR CORNING

Felix Martinez scattered six hits in posting La Sunta's first win of the tournament in yesterday afternoon's second tame against Corning.

Corning failed to advance a runner past second base, stranding four at that position after one was out.

It was the second defeat by shutout for Corning, which outhit two opponents.

La Junta broke in for its only run in the third inning. Tim Waner reached first on a hit and swiped second before advancing home on a two base error by Corning's centerfield, Doug Harmon, who bobbled Martinez's pop fly.

BEAUMONT CAPS ON ERRORS

Grand Prairie failed in its bid to remain undefeated as it took a 6-1 drubbing from Beaumont, which captalized on five Grand Prairie errors to tally its runs.

All five of Grand Prairie's miscues came in Beaumont scoring innings with the first being in the third. Beaumont pushed across Russ Ball, who had singled after one was out and took base on an alert running play. He then scored on Jim Kerr's single after the second out hald been recorded.

David Bensen carded the victory with nine strikeouts to his credit.

FORESTERS FINALLY SCORE

Like the St. Louis Cardinals, Sikeston Potlatch has their fireman, that man being Tim Halter, the lad who had hurled the first win Tuesday night for Sikeston. He returned for two innings, reliefing Bruce Farris in the ninth with runners on first and second with no outs. He walked out of the jam and held Ft. Worth while his teammates scored in the top of the ninth.

Halter managed to do something no other Sikeston hurler in the past eight years had done in defeating Ft. Worth.

Halter provided the heroics on the mound while cleanup clutch-hitting by Gary Owens did the job at the plate. With two out and Wayne Limbaugh on third, Owens ripped a ball up the middle that scored Limbaugh to break a 2-2 deadlock that had checked the two teams for four innings.

Sikeston drew first blood with a pair of runs in the third inning with Stan Sorrells and Mike Garner driving in the tallies. Ft. Worth waited one inning before evening the score in the fourth and both teams battled from their out, with both threatening periodically.

Farris went eight innings for the Foresters and took count of 14 strikeouts, got into a pair of jams in the late innings but managed to work out.

Ft. Worth committed nine errors, with the biggest in the 10th inning when the losing hurler, David Green, shot a ball past the catcher, allowing Limbaugh to move to second.

Tonight, Sikeston and Beaumont meet to settle the matter of who will remain undefeated after El Paso encountered La Junta at 11 a.m. today and Ft. Worth went against Grand Prairie.

GARY OWENS, prepares to plant his foot on home plate in scoring the first run in Tuesday's opening game of the Sikeston Potlatch Foresters against La Junta, Colo., which the Foresters won 5-1. He played a major role in last night's 3-2, 10-inning win over Ft. Worth. He drove in the winning run in the tenth.

Gibson Serves As Fireman

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Gibson, the Big Pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, may have hurled the season's Big Win for the defending world champions Wednesday.

Gibson, notching his 14th straight victory with a 3-1 decision over the rampaging Chicago Cubs, fattened the Cards' first-place lead over the Cubs to 13 games.

Gibson, now 17-5, effectively scattered eight hits before a third straight howling, partisan weekday crowd of more than 30,000 to end a string of seven straight Cardinal defeats by the second-place Cubs.

The two clubs today wind up a four-game series — and their 18-game season rivalry — but, win or lose, the Cards seem to have dimmed the chances of a miracle stretch drive by the Cubs, now holding a 9-8 edge over St. Louis. Nelson Briles (15-7) will pitch for St. Louis and Ken Holtzman (8-8) for Chicago.

Gibson, last beaten May 28, discounted the importance of stopping the Cubs, who had visions of a four-game sweep to send St. Louis limping off with a shrinking 10-game lead.

"Any game is a big game to win after you have dropped three in a row," said Gibson.

"I heard on the radio we were getting to be fat cats. That's ridiculous. That comes from people who don't play the game. We're in it to play our best and win every time out," Gibson added.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

JAIPUR, India (AP) — Jaipur's oldest woman and one of the oldest persons in India, Jelle, died recently at the age of 112.

She was known and admired for her hectic life and prodigious hunger.

"It is much better now than in my youth when it was difficult to get even two square meals a day," she told a neighbor not long ago, while having one of her usual seven meals a day.

Big Red Swap For Giants' Childs

By The Associated Press

Returning kickoffs in the National Football League isn't child's play, so the St. Louis Cards went out and acquired Clarence Childs, once one of the best in this important department.

The trade that brought Childs from the New York Giants to the Cards was one among several in professional football Wednesday.

In other transactions, the Cards traded veteran linebacker Jerry Hillebrand to the Pittsburgh Steelers for a high 1969 draft choice and sent Sam Silas, a defensive lineman, to the Giants for a 1970 draft choice.

The New Orleans Saints traded linebacker Dave Simmons to the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft choice, and dealt second-string quarterback Gary Wood back to the Giants for two undisclosed draft choices.

Childs, also a defensive back, was among the NFL's leading kickoff return artists until he lost his starting spot last season to rookie Willie Williams. Childs was among the top ten in his specialty during his first four years in the circuit, but slipped to 21st in 1967 with a 20.8 yard average for 29 returns.

Hillebrand, acquired by St. Louis from the Giants in 1967 for Bill Triplett, had been traded to the Minnesota Vikings earlier. However, the Vikings sent him back to St. Louis, apparently dissatisfied with a knee condition which limited Hillebrand's training.

Simmons, a four-year veteran, played in 11 games for the Saints last season. New Orleans obtained him from St. Louis in the Saints' expansion draft.

New Orleans' expansion draft also was a factor in the deal that sent quarterback Wood back to the Giants. The Saints had acquired him from New York in the 1967 expansion draft and, under NFL rules, a team cannot trade back a player to the club from which he was drafted.

So, the Saints placed Wood on waivers and then notified all other clubs that he was intended for New York. The Giants promptly grabbed him. Wood saw limited action for the Saints last year, serving behind Bill Kilmer and Guary Cuozzo. New Orleans obtained quarterback Karl Sweetan from Detroit Tuesday.

In another development, Gene Snipes, considered one of the Atlanta Falcons' top pass catching prospects when summer training started, was placed on waivers along with rookie receiver Jack Head and defensive back Floyd Hudlow. Snipes, the Falcons' sixth draft choice in 1967, was on the Falcons' taxi squad last year.

Elsewhere, the New York Jets of the American League cut running back Henry Owens, defensive back John Dockery and end Wayne Richardson. Boston of the AFL released John Magnum, a defensive tackle. Houston, also of the AFL, trimmed Bob Longo, a split end, Johnny Brunson, a rookie halfback, and Ed Mitchell, a guard.

Big Red Meet KC Chiefs

KANSAS CITY - The St. Louis Cardinals and the Kansas City Chiefs meet here Saturday night in the first cross-state battle between professional football teams and the Big Red's first playing-field contact with an American Football League team.

Kickoff at Municipal Stadium is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. (CDT).

A sellout crowd, blostered by the presence of several thousand St. Louisians, will view the game between a pair of clubs unbeaten in three pre-season contests.

The Big Red opened its 1968 campaign at home last Friday night, with Jim Hart piloting three first-half touchdown drives on the way to a 24-7 triumph over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Kansas City edged the Minnesota Vikings, 13-10, last Saturday night on a last-minute field goal by Jan Stenerud. The Chiefs had opened their pre-season campaign with a 38-14 romp over the fledgling Cincinnati Bengals.

"I think we're quite a bit ahead of where we were a year ago," commented Coach Charley Winner after the victory. "I think our conditioning showed up well, and there were a number of bright spots. Jim Hart led the team well, and our offensive line provided excellent protection for Jim and for Charley Johnson.

"There still are some things to be worked on, and we will be doing that before the season opens. For a first game, though, you'd have to say that we were pretty well satisfied."

The Cardinals rolled up 341 yards on the Steelers, and the Big Red defense limited Pittsburgh to only 191 total years, dumping quarterback Dick Shiner four times.

Hart, playing only the first half, completed nine of 16 passes for 130 yards and led the three scoring drives. Willia Crenshaw bulled a yard for the first score, and passes to Bobby Joe Conrad (seven yards) and Jackie Smith (33 yards) provided the other two.

Crenshaw topped the rushers with 46 yards in 13 carries. Cid Edwards added 37 in seven tries, Roy Shivers picked up 26 in three carries and John Roland posted 23 yards in six attempts.

Smith and Conrad each caught four passes, one for a score. Smith totaled 73 yards, Conrad 56. Billy Gambrell and Dave Williams snared two apiece.

Jerry Stovall was credited with an interception and a fumble recovery, and Church Walker fell on a fumble. Chuck Latourette punte three times for a 39-yard average.

Looking to the meeting with the Chiefs, the Cardinals will be facing a team that is laced with top performers and which is led by veteran quarterback Len Dawson, who piloted the Chiefs to the first Super Bowl game. Mike Garrett, Bert Coan and Wendell Hayes spark a strong running game, and receivers Otis Taylor, Fred Pitts and Fred Arbanas have good speed and moves.

Navajos Celebrate their Sovereignty

By HOWARD GRAVES
Associated Press Writer

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The Navajos, the nation's largest Indian group, are celebrating their centennial year of freedom.

Under the Treaty of 1868, signed with the U.S. government, the Navajos achieved sovereignty — the nation's only Indian tribe to hold such an agreement.

The June 1, 1868, signing by 29 Navajo headmen and 10 U.S. Army officers ended four years of captivity under the Army at Ft. Sumner, a specially built installation in what is now east central New Mexico.

An estimated 1,500 Navajos died during the exile. Historians say 7,304 made the famed "Long Walk" back to their reservation area of what is now eastern Arizona and western New Mexico.

In late June, 165 Navajo men, women and children — all in traditional dress — participated in a reenactment of the peace treaty signing at the now abandoned fort site. Then, riding most of the way in four air-conditioned buses, the Navajos reenacted the "Long Walk" back to Window Rock, their reservation capital.

Each of them received $10 per day for the six days they were away from the 25,000-square-mile reservation which also extends into a part of Utah.

Those selected for the pageants represented a broad cross section of the reservation population of an estimated 110,000.

Martin Link, Navajo Centennial Commemoration Committee chairman, said the reenactment ceremonies meant a great deal to the Navajos, especially the older ones, many of whom don't speak or understand English.

"The big thing nowadays," Link said, "are protest marches. The Navajos marched not to Washington, but to their symbolic home, Navajoland."

He added, "We're too busy constructing and don't have time to destruct. The best way to improve life is to build, not to burn."

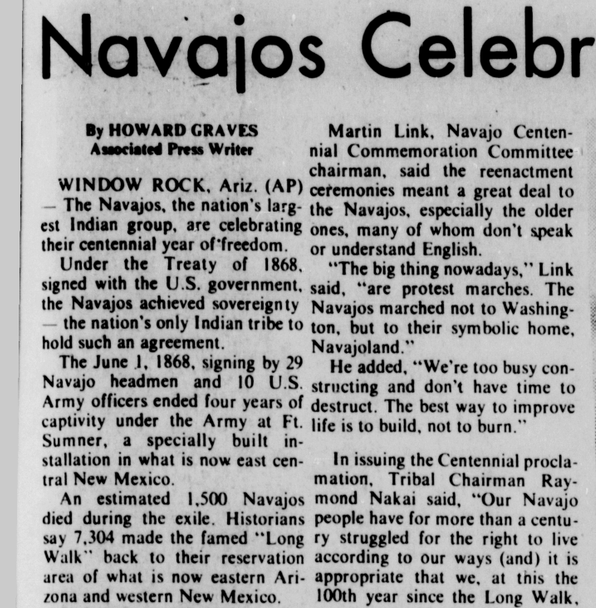
In issuing the Centennial proclamation, Tribal Chairman Raymond Nakai said, "Our Navajo people have for more than a century struggled for the right to live according to our ways (and) it is appropriate that we, at this the 100th year since the Long Walk, pause to mark our lives, being thankful for the blessings of our heritage, our land and our progress."

When the Navajo marchers returned to Window Rock in a dramatic ceremony July 4, Nakai, the ninth person elected chairman, said, "Today, freedom rings for us, the Navajo people, even louder, even more distinctly than for the rest of America.

"Today, we stand on the threshold of achievement. We cannot stop now. We dare not. Success will be ours. We have only to live up to the legacy of courage and perseverance left to us by our ancestors."

READY FOR REENACTMENT — Dick Drabble, Ft. Defiance, Ariz., Bob Potter, Mesa, Ariz., and Don Woodward, Gallup, N.M., as U.S. cavalrymen, lead Navajos through a field to ceremonies reenacting the signing of a treaty which ended four years of Navajo captivity under the Army at Ft. Sumner, N.M. The Navajos portrayed warriors and other Navajo men. The field is part of the original fort site where Navajos were held in captivity from 1864-1868.

THE LONG COAT — Cotton canvas in a forest green shade interprets a many-pocketed midi-coat. Belted at the waist in trenchcoat tradition, it's teamed with trousers fashionably flared at the hem. By Don Simonelli for Modelia.



1968 REENACTMENT of peace treaty of 1868 signing at Ft. Sumner, N.M., has Graham Holmes, Bureau of Indian Affairs area director at Window Rock, Ariz., portraying Lt. Gen. W.T. Sherman. The Indian portrays one of the 12 Navajo headmen who signed the original treaty.

IOE TOLEDO awaits his turn to board the bus that will take some of his people to Ft. Sumner, N.M., to reenact signing of peace treaty of 1868. His son, Harry Toledo, gives a final check of the label on their baggage.

Navajos Celebrate their Sovereignty

By HOWARD GRAVES
Associated Press Writer

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The Navajos, the nation's largest Indian group, are celebrating their centennial year of freedom.

Under the Treaty of 1868, signed with the U.S. government, the Navajos achieved sovereignty — the nation's only Indian tribe to hold such an agreement.

The June 1, 1868, signing by 29 Navajo headmen and 10 U.S. Army officers ended four years of captivity under the Army at Ft. Sumner, a specially built installation in what is now east central New Mexico.

An estimated 1,500 Navajos died during the exile. Historians say 7,304 made the famed "Long Walk" back to their reservation area of what is now eastern Arizona and western New Mexico.

In late June, 165 Navajo men, women and children — all in traditional dress — participated in a reenactment of the peace treaty signing at the now abandoned fort site. Then, riding most of the way in four air-conditioned buses, the Navajos reenacted the "Long Walk" back to Window Rock, their reservation capital.

Each of them received $10 per day for the six days they were away from the 25,000-square-mile reservation which also extends into a part of Utah.

Those selected for the pageants represented a broad cross section of the reservation population of an estimated 110,000.

Martin Link, Navajo Centennial Commemoration Committee chairman, said the reenactment ceremonies meant a great deal to the Navajos, especially the older ones, many of whom don't speak or understand English.

"The big thing nowadays," Link said, "are protest marches. The Navajos marched not to Washington, but to their symbolic home, Navajoland."

He added, "We're too busy constructing and don't have time to destruct. The best way to improve life is to build, not to burn."

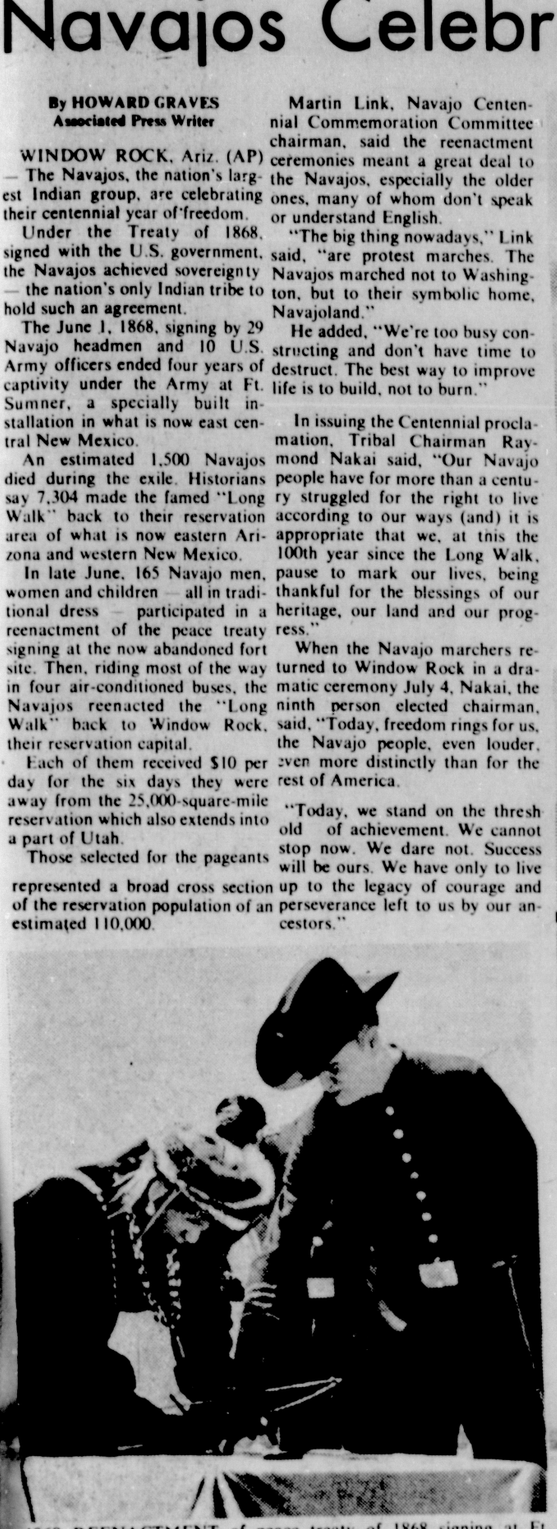
In issuing the Centennial proclamation, Tribal Chairman Raymond Nakai said, "Our Navajo people have for more than a century struggled for the right to live according to our ways (and) it is appropriate that we, at this the 100th year since the Long Walk, pause to mark our lives, being thankful for the blessings of our heritage, our land and our progress."

When the Navajo marchers returned to Window Rock in a dramatic ceremony July 4, Nakai, the ninth person elected chairman, said, "Today, freedom rings for us, the Navajo people, even louder, even more distinctly than for the rest of America.

"Today, we stand on the threshold of achievement. We cannot stop now. We dare not. Success will be ours. We have only to live up to the legacy of courage and perseverance left to us by our ancestors."

READY FOR REENACTMENT — Dick Drabble, Ft. Defiance, Ariz., Bob Potter, Mesa, Ariz., and Don Woodward, Gallup, N.M., as U.S. cavalrymen, lead Navajos through a field to ceremonies reenacting the signing of a treaty which ended four years of Navajo captivity under the Army at Ft. Sumner, N.M. The Navajos portrayed warriors and other Navajo men. The field is part of the original fort site where Navajos were held in captivity from 1864-1868.

THE LONG COAT — Cotton canvas in a forest green shade interprets a many-pocketed midi-coat. Belted at the waist in trenchcoat tradition, it's teamed with trousers fashionably flared at the hem. By Don Simonelli for Modelia.



1968 REENACTMENT of peace treaty of 1868 signing at Ft. Sumner, N.M., has Graham Holmes, Bureau of Indian Affairs area director at Window Rock, Ariz., portraying Lt. Gen. W.T. Sherman. The Indian portrays one of the 12 Navajo headmen who signed the original treaty.

IOE TOLEDO awaits his turn to board the bus that will take some of his people to Ft. Sumner, N.M., to reenact signing of peace treaty of 1868. His son, Harry Toledo, gives a final check of the label on their baggage.

OPEN WIDE for a comparison test to see who has fewer cavities. Three-year-old Michael Lankes of Austin, Tex., has a lot of growing ahead of him, but his feline friend has had it, for it's stuffed.

CRAZY HATS are always in evidence at Britain's Royal Ascot races. This one, apple-shaped with an arrow through it, is worn by Mrs. Gertrude Shilling.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THIS ECONOMICAL, easy-to-frame, two-bedroom home has living room and master bedroom facing the street while the kitchen-dining room and bedroom face the back. The 19 by 11 living room has a three-foot-wide fireplace centered along the end wall and a six-foot arch leading to the dining alcove. A coat closet is handy to the front door. Each bedroom has cross-ventilation. A linen closet is adjacent to the bathroom, with a small linen closet inside the bathroom. There is a full basement and a fireplace may be put there, under the living room fireplace. Laundry equipment is under the bathroom. A garage or carport can be added. Plan HA556R is designed by Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd Street North, St. Petersburg, Fla. It contains 864 square feet.

Buy Bonds where you work.

He does.

Why do our servicemen buy U.S. Savings Bonds? Their reasons are the same as yours and mine: saving for the future, supporting freedom. And because they're fighting for freedom, too, maybe servicemen see the need more clearly than many of us. Buy Bonds. In more than one way, it makes you feel good.

NOW—Higher Rates!

Savings Bonds now pay 4.25% when held to maturity — and Freedom Shares (sold in combination with E Bonds) pay a full 5%. The extra interest will be added as a bonus at maturity.

And now you can buy the Bond/Freedom Share combination any time — no monthly commitment necessary. Get the facts where you work or bank.

Johnson Will Open New Jewelry Store

50 years ago
August 15, 1918

Announcement. I have opened a jewelry store and repair shop in the Mayfield building, occupied by the Shankle Music House, where I will be glad to serve those needing anything in jewelry or repair work. I was with E. Julson's Jewelry Store in Sikeston for two years, also have had a thorough course of instruction in a watchmaking school. James P. Johnson.

Miss Effie Inman is taking her vacation this week and Miss Irene Randol is taking her place as bookkeeper in the local telephone office.

Monday evening while in swimming in the Natatorium Roger Bailey went to turn a somersault backwards in diving from a board, but did not jump far enough and instead of striking the water, he struck the springing board and cut the top of his head. He went to a physician, who dressed the wound.

Party Guests Liable For Overindulgence

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Walter and Wally went to a wedding at the Joneses' where they toasted the health of the bride and groom so often they nearly ruined their own. In fact, by the time they left the party, you could hardly tell them apart since they zigged-zagged so much alike.

Getting in their car, Walter did the driving. Unfortunately, he didn't get to drive very far. Two blocks away he had a head-on collision with Helen who would have been glad to have given him half of the road if she could have told which half he had wanted.

Climbing out of the wreckage, Helen not only sued Walter for her injuries, but she sued Mr. Jones as well.

"If he hadn't permitted Walter to get so loaded at the wedding," she complained in court, "there would have been no accident. Having supplied them with so much liquor, he's responsible for the consequences."

'That's ridiculous," retorted Mr. Jones. "A host can't ride herd on a guest at a wedding. It's a celebration. If a guest celebrates too much, it's not the host's fault."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold Mr. Jones responsible for the accident?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that private individuals are not liable for the actions of their social guests who over-indulge in the liquid hospitality provided at private homes or parties.

Teenage Drivers Urged to Cool It

Dear Ann Landers: Drunk drivers get fined, speeders get fined, people who drive without a license get fined, but nothing is done about teen-age sexpots who can't leave each other alone long enough to let a fellow drive a car.

I am not a crabby old lady. I am 24 years of age. I love my husband very much, but I wouldn't dream of kissing him or running my hands through his hair when he is at the wheel.

Last night we were on the highway and noticed the car ahead was weaving from one side of the road to the other. My husband said, "That guy must be drunk." As we got closer we saw the driver was a boy of about 18. At first it looked as if he were alone in the car. Then another head appeared. Ann, the girl was sitting on the boy's lap kissing his neck.

Why is there no law against this sort of thing? - FUMING

Dear Fuming: According to Chief Nicholas Ferri of the Illionis Secretary of State's office, there IS a law against reckless or negligent driving. There is also a law against interfering with a driver's ability to control a vehicle. Chief Ferri said a staggering number of accidents occur because kids insist on making out at high speed. He asked me to suggest that kids from coast to coast cool it. So do like the man says.

Dear Ann Landers: How long does a mother have to keep still? Forever?

My husband is a kind and gentle man. We raised our children to be thoughtful and considerate. I never recall my husband losing his temper with me, although I am sure I deserved it.

The problem is that our darling daughter is married to a man who is so mean and abusive it breaks our hearts to be around them. Our son-in-law takes sadistic delight in insulting and hurting this poor girl. She keeps a neat and comfortable house and has raised two fine children. Everyone loves her.

What mystifies us is that she takes this punishment and never opens her mouth to defend herself. Yesterday we were there for dinner and he let fly some foul language for no reason whatever. What is the matter with him anyway? -- WE NEED AN ANSWER

Dear Need: Your son-in-law is obviously immature, short-fused, and he probably feels woefully inadequate for reasons which go a long way back.

The real question, however, is what's the matter with your daughter? Why does she tolerate this shameful abuse? When she is able to face up to the answer to this question she might find a solution,

Dear Ann Landers: Please stop knocking fortune tellers and calling them fakers. I can attest to the fact that a tea leaf reader has added years to my life by warning me to stay out of planes, helicopters and motocycles. In the last five years I have lost two friends in plane accidents, a cousin in a helicopter crash and my neighbor was killed last week in a motorcycle accident. If it hadn't been for the fortune teller I might have been with them. -- SIGN OF THE SAPPHIRE

Dear Sign: Did the tea leaf reader warn you against taking a bath? Thousands of people are injured every year getting in and out of bathtubs.

Our son-in-law takes sadistic delight in insulting and hurting this poor girl. She keeps a neat and comfortable house and has raised two fine children. Everyone loves her.

What mystifies us is that she takes this punishment and never opens her mouth to defend herself. Yesterday we were there for dinner and he let fly some foul language for no reason whatever. What is the matter with him anyway? -- WE NEED AN ANSWER

Dear Need: Your son-in-law is obviously immature, short-fused, and he probably feels woefully inadequate for reasons which go a long way back.

The real question, however, is what's the matter with your daughter? Why does she tolerate this shameful abuse? When she is able to face up to the answer to this question she might find a solution.

Dear Ann Landers: Please stop knocking fortune tellers and calling them fakers. I can attest to the fact that a tea leaf reader has added years to my life by warning me to stay out of planes, helicopters and motocycles. In the last five years I have lost two friends in plane accidents, a cousin in a helicopter crash and my neighbor was killed last week in a motorcycle accident. If it hadn't been for the fortune teller I might have been with them. -- SIGN OF THE SAPPHIRE

Dear Sign: Did the tea leaf reader warn you against taking a bath? Thousands of people are injured every year getting in and out of bathtubs.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Four Receive God And Country Award

The God and Country Scout Award was presented to Fred Cauthorn, Bill Colwick, Greg Colwick, and Jim Swacker at the First Christian church. The Award was presented after the completion of a course of study and work in the God and Country program in which they enrolled last fall.

Those participating in making the presentation were Roy Nall, Scout Master; Ray, district scout executive from Cape Girardeau, Charles Shaw, assistant Scoutmaster; Earl Jarvis, chairman of the board of the Eagle review, and the Rev. Durward Penry, minister.

The Prayer
The Upper Room

One of his disciples aid to him, "Lord, teach us to pray." (Luke 11:1, RSV)

PRAYER: Thou art here now with me, O Lord; and even as I talk with Thee, I am growing stronger. The darkness of doubt is clearing away and Thy light is making this day to shine for me. Thanks be to Thee, O Lord, most high. Amen.

Today In U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Aug. 15, the 228th day of 1968. There are 138 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1904, the Panama Canal was officially opened to traffic.

On this date:

In 1769, Napoleon Bonaparte was born on the island of Corsica.

In 1935, Will Rogers, the humorist, and aviator Wiley Post were killed in the crash of their airplane near Point Barrow, Alaska.

In 1944, the Allied invasion of southern France began in World War II.

In 1947, the independent states of India and Pakistan were created, ending two centuries of British rule.

In 1948, the independent Republic of Korea was proclaimed.

In 1961, East German workers began to build the Berlin Wall.

Ten years ago: United Nations observers reported that it had found no evidence of massive infiltration into Lebanon from the United Arab Republic.

Five years ago: Fulbert Youlou resigned as president of the Congo Republic, and the army took charge.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

Ed Bihr, legislative chairman of the Missouri School Boards Association and co- chairman of the Governor's Conference on Education, states, in a recent article in the MISSOURI SCHOOL BOARD, that Missouri is still $87.00 below the national average in terms of current expenditures per pupil, ranking 35th in the nation among the 50 states. The average salaries of teachers in Missouri are $790.00 below the national average. Fifty per cent of the revenue used for public elementary and secondary education, comes from local school districts with only 34.2% being provided by the state government.

Missouri ranks 16th among the states in income per pupil, thus indicating Missouri's ability to provide adequate financial support for education, which it is not presently doing, Mr. Bihr continues.

Increasing pressure on the local property tax, as a primary source of school support, makes it imperative that the state participate more fully in school financing, we would add to the above statement. Unless the next session of the legislature results in much greater state support, Missouri's schools are in for real trouble. We are already losing good teachers to other states and we could not blame Missouri's teachers for departing, en masse, in the event that our General Assembly fails to live up to its obligation. It is up to every Missouri citizen, all of whom are concerned with the quality of education in the state, to actively assist the governor and the legislature in facing this problem.

Vandalism, i.e.: senseless and wanton destruction or defacement of school property, is becoming an increasing problem to Boards of Education and school administrators throughout the nation. We are faced with more vandalism in our schools here. This week, two plate glass doors, costing in the neighborhood of $300, were broken out by rock- throwing vandals. This is only one example of the breakage and destruction which annually costs the taxpayers of this school district several thousand dollars.

Such irresponsible and criminal actions result in a weakened educational program because of the loss of property which must be replaced or repaired, it benefits no one and sets up a pattern of criminal behavior on the part of the vandal, which may result in even worse crime.

Our Board of Education, the faculty and employees are adopting a very positive policy of trying to prevent vandalism first of all, and secondly, trying to apprehend and convict those who are responsible. We ask parents, in fact all citizens, to help us eliminate this vicious practice. The Board has established a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person who destroys or defaces school property. With the help of the police and city government, we intend to aggressively preserve and protect the taxpayers' interest and property. We solicit the cooperation of all.

The enrollment fee for elementary school children, including kindergarten is the usual $1.50. This partially covers some of the additional materials provided by the school: the weekly reader, penmanship paper, art supplies. etc, which purchased individually by the pupil would cost much more.

Middle school students will pay an enrollment fee of $3.00 for consumable supplies and at the high school, the $14.00 enrollment fee will include supplies, book rental, insurance and an activity ticket to all sports and activities.

Elementary and middle school children may buy activity tickets admitting them to athletic contests for $3.00. Individual admission for each contest, without an activity ticket, is 50 cents per contest.

The insurance which the child may buy through the school is provided by as an additional service and it is suggested that parents may wish to buy insurance from their own insurance agent. At the elementary and middle school level, the school insurance is optional for the parent and the cost is $2.25 per student per school year. At the high school level, insurance is included in the enrollment fee.

Classes opening the 1968-69 session of the schools will open at 8:00 A.M., Wednesday, August 28th. All students, grades K through 12 will report with the exception of juniors and seniors who will not be required to attend classes on the opening day. The first day of school will be devoted to the orientation and organization of freshman and sophomore students who have not previously attended Senior High School, hence the one day recess for juniors and seniors who will report on August 29th. Next year, it will not be necessary to hold juniors and seniors out of school until the second day, as then only incoming freshmen will be involved.

---

The cost for the daily noon meal for elementary school children will remain the same as last year or $1.50 per week plus an additional 10 cents if they desire extra milk at the mid morning break.

Middle school and high school student meals are 35 cents per meal.

Kindergarten youngsters will not be served at noon and the second session children are expected to have had lunch prior to reporting to school. They will be provided a mid session snack at a cost of 20 cents per week. This will consist of milk or fruit juice and cookies.

Two Breakins Investigated

NEW MADRID - Two break-ins Tuesday night are being investigated by the sheriff's department.

Entry was made to the New Madrid County Health Center by forcing the lock off a basement door. A 17-inch portable television was taken from the health director's office. A cabinet type safe was pried open and filing cabinets ranscaked but nothing taken.

One 38 caliber, chrome plated, long barrel revolver and an undetermined amount of money from vending machines were taken in the break-in of Rosie's Colonial restaurant. Entry was gained by removing a window at the rear of the cafe.

MONEY NEVER GONE

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — James J. Neely, district supervisor for the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, notified police that $2,428, representing proceeds from a Pennsylvania scholastic track meet, was missing from the safe in the McCaskey high school. Later, he called police to cancel the alarm, saying he had deposited the money over the weekend in the school's bank account, but had forgotten about it.

Breakins at Catron and Parma Firms

NEW MADRID - Burglars entered the David M. Barton gin office at Catron Monday night by forcing the front door and blew the safe open with explosives.

No money was taken from the safe but insurance papers and three checkbooks were taken. About $50 in change and one dollar bills were taken out of a desk drawer. One adding machine and one typewriter were stolen.

The sheriff's department of New Madrid warned anyone handling a check drawn on the First National Bank of Blytheville, imprinted "David M. Barton Gin Co., "David M. Barton Farms, Inc." or "David M. Barton, personal account" should investigate the issuance of the check.

Officers believe four break-ins reported in Parma were made by the same thieves.

Lovelace Station and Garage there was entered by forcing a side door. Money was taken from a soda and cigarette machine.

Glass was removed from a front window at Lutes Cafe. Money from a pinball machine and juke box and $25 in pennies and nickels in a cigar box was stolen.

Taken from Bea's Cafe was money from a juke box, cigarette machine, pool table, rifle target game and four pinball machines. Entry was gained by taking the glass out of a front door.

The front door glass was broken out of Midwest Auto Store, but no entry was made.

Four Breakins At Dexter

DEXTER - Police are investigating breakins at four business establishments Wednesday night.

At Bud Davis Chevrolet two tires and wheels were stolen along with a chrome finished breather.

The bus station was entered on the same night and $50 to $60 in cash was taken.

The Dexter Cotton Gin reported that a .22 caliber rifle was stolen and the fourth breakin was reported at Taylor and Christian Augo Sales, highway 114, where a breather for an automobile was also stolen.

BEETLE TROUBLE

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Big, black beetles were blamed for a number of car pileups on an expressway here. A three-mile stretch of expressway had to be closed until sand could be scattered. The beetles, apparently forced out of lowlands by heavy rains, made the pavement so slick that driving became hazardous.

Springfield Civic Leader Dies

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) - Lester Edmond Cox, described by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes as one of the state's most prominent citizens, died Wednesday night of an apparent heart attack.

Cox, a prominent civic leader and Springfield industrialist, died in Burge - Protestant Hospital following a 50th wedding anniversary celebration at his home. He was 72.

He was part owner of KOAM-TV, at Pittsburg, Kan.

A physician said Cox had suffered several heart attacks in recent months and that he probably suffered another one Wednesday.

Upon learning of the death, Gov. Hearnes issued a statement at Jefferson City which said:

"I am very sorry to hear of the death of my friend Lester E. Cox, one of Missouri's most prominent citizens. He was well known for his outstanding civic work and industrial leadership in the Springfield area.

"Mr. Cox was equally well known for his many services to the entire state of Missouri. As a former member of the Missouri Commerce and Industrial Development Commission and the University of Missouri Board of Curators, a member of the Missouri Academy of Squires, and as one of my appointees to the State Board of Health, Mr. Cox consistently worked for the best interests of his state. His death is a great loss to Missouri."

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

Ed Bihr, legislative chairman of the Missouri School Boards Association and co- chairman of the Governor's Conference on Education, states, in a recent article in the MISSOURI SCHOOL BOARD, that Missouri is still $87.00 below the national average in terms of current expenditures per pupil, ranking 35th in the nation among the 50 states. The average salaries of teachers in Missouri are $790.00 below the national average. Fifty per cent of the revenue used for public elementary and secondary education, comes from local school districts with only 34.2% being provided by the state government.

Missouri ranks 16th among the states in income per pupil, thus indicating Missouri's ability to provide adequate financial support for education, which it is not presently doing, Mr. Bihr continues.

Increasing pressure on the local property tax, as a primary source of school support, makes it imperative that the state participate more fully in school financing, we would add to the above statement. Unless the next session of the legislature results in much greater state support, Missouri's schools are in for real trouble. We are already losing good teachers to other states and we could not blame Missouri's teachers for departing, en masse, in the event that our General Assembly fails to live up to its obligation. It is up to every Missouri citizen, all of whom are concerned with the quality of education in the state, to actively assist the governor and the legislature in facing this problem.

Vandalism, i.e.: senseless and wanton destruction or defacement of school property, is becoming an increasing problem to Boards of Education and school administrators throughout the nation. We are faced with more vandalism in our schools here. This week, two plate glass doors, costing in the neighborhood of $300, were broken out by rock- throwing vandals. This is only one example of the breakage and destruction which annually costs the taxpayers of this school district several thousand dollars.

Such irresponsible and criminal actions result in a weakened educational program because of the loss of property which must be replaced or repaired, it benefits no one and sets up a pattern of criminal behavior on the part of the vandal, which may result in even worse crime.

Our Board of Education, the faculty and employees are adopting a very positive policy of trying to prevent vandalism first of all, and secondly, trying to apprehend and convict those who are responsible. We ask parents, in fact all citizens, to help us eliminate this vicious practice. The Board has established a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person who destroys or defaces school property. With the help of the police and city government, we intend to aggressively preserve and protect the taxpayers' interest and property. We solicit the cooperation of all.

Smart Grade Schoolers Dress Up to New Standards

AFTER A DAY OF HARD STUDY, IT MIGHT BE FUN to skate home from school. This young man dresses for school and the active life in warm jacket, plaid slacks and tie oxford with crepe sole. Casual shoes by Hush Puppies, traditional slacks by Metro.

ON THAT IMPORTANT FIRST DAY of school, fashions such as this shirtdress in paisley print Oxford cloth give a girl confidence. Note the Nehru collar and button-trimmed placket. By Cinderella in Lowenstein's easy-care cotton.

BACK TO TEACHER, BACK to books, grade school girls go smartly. Grown-up fashion idea might be a "Bonnie look" dress with dirndl skirt, vest. This one by Judy Bee in Wamsutta's easy-care cotton print.

ALL WORK AND NO PLAY? SCHOOL SEASON brings fun and parties, too, so back-to-school shopping usually includes dress-up wear — pretty dresses, smart slacks and jackets, and good-looking shoes. She's wearing polished leather pumps; he's well-shod in smooth leather oxfords with perfs on the squared-off toes. Shoes by Edwards.

TAKING THOUGHT of school, boys choose the comfort, good looks of sweaters. This one by Henry J. Tully, in Creslan acrylic fiber.

How to Stock Home Library For Student

Much is said today about tape recorders, language records, other modern aids to in-home study.

But what about reference books? They are still the basic requirement for home study.

A well-equipped home reference library for students might consist of:

1. A new dictionary. "New" is important, since words and word meanings change constantly.

2. A thesaurus. This useful vocabulary aid can assist the student in writing more effectively.

3. An atlas. Here too, a recently-issued edition is useful.

4. An almanac or other annual fact book. This can help the student keep abreast of current events.

5. A modern encyclopedia. Look for a set which includes, in the purchase price of a full set, forthcoming supplements to bring the volumes continually up to date.

6. A book of famous quotations. Words of statesmen and authors may often be a source of helpful inspiration to the student.

New Dimensions in Learning Aimed Also at Stimulating the Gifted

Just as there are newly developed packaged "remedial reading" systems for teacher aids, so too there are "supplementary" packaged systems designed to stimulate the average, the bright, and the highly motivated pupils to go beyond their ordinary classroom work.

New systems of this type for elementary and junior high school levels produced by New Dimensions In Education, are gaining favor among teachers. These packaged systems include cards, film strip, self checking devices and professional guides for teacher to use the sets in encouraging students to extend their learning at their own pace.

• • •

Turning a repetitive lesson from a sometimes-tedious drill into a creative experience is aim of new educational devices such as the "Language Master" instructional system.

Through a recording and playback device, students can hear instruction from prerecorded cards, then repeat and record what the cards have just played.

A wide selection of programs has been prepared for use with the "Language Master," by the manufacturer, Bell and Howell.

High School Student Uses Imagination

The trim, ready-to-act styling of shirts, slacks, sport coats and outerwear reflects the more imaginative personality of the teen man going back to high school.

An increased emphasis on correct grooming, linked with a resurgence of the suit at least for the older high school males, by no means limits the variety or versatility of class-campus clothes.

Conformity, in the sense of sameness, belongs to yesterday. Today, high schoolers express individuality, in both taste and personality, within the framework of current trends.

One reason for the happy combination of neatness with imagination may be seen in the clothes themselves. The suit is likely to be a "mixed" suit—for instance, patterned sport coat and vest combined with solid slacks, or vice versa.

Bold plaid and patterned slacks tend to take over from more conservative solid colors. And, like his older college brother, the high school man may opt for the new "earth" and "natural" tones in solids or patterns.

Military styling takes command in sports coats and outerwear. For the touch of imagination, there's the Nehru jacket, ready to meet special events on the high school calendar.

In keeping with this style mood are trim-looking guru shirts for classroom wear.

Sweaters worn with patterned slacks continue as a popular classroom combination, with turtlenecks scoring high.

ADD DETAILS

The outerwear look is accented with suburban details such as belts, mammoth pockets, hoods, big collars.

Match What They Wear To Advanced Studies

The generation of youngsters now in grade school has a maturity and sophistication that was once to be expected only of the much older high school set. This is reflected in their more advanced studies in the sciences, languages, math. It is reflected, too, in the way they dress.

Clothes suitable for youthful grade schoolers, and with ease-of-care in mind for Mom, stress a well-planned, well-groomed look and an active interest in fashion-of-the-moment.

Fashion news that will most affect a schoolgirl's complete wardrobe is the return of separates and the fitted waistline.

Her best friend in dresses are classic favorites with fitted, natural waistlines and full skirts.

Classically tailored jumpers, pleated skirts, vests and blazers return to their studies. Shirts and sweater-shirts teach a basic wardrobe to add and subtract partners-in-style, to create a closetful of fashion looks.

Classic tartans, glens, district checks, argyl, knits and romantic, old-fashioned prints earn high marks for grade school girls' fashions.

Boys will be boys in the "country look" for fall. This casual but-not-careless way of dressing has the look boys have always liked, in sturdy clothes that take lots of wear, feel comfortable, look neat and colorful.

Tweed, twill and corduroy are the favorite fabrics in "country look" class. Tweed rates for sport coats, outerwear and twill for blazers, slacks and outerwear as well as for soft flannel-like shirts. Pinwale printed corduroy is new in textures for slacks, sport coats.

"Country look" sweaters favor bulky knit pullovers and turtlenecks in warm tones.

Western-style outfits rope young boys into jean-like clothing in denim and corduroy that's made-to-take-it, and many outfits come with permanent press and soil resistant finishes.

Federal, State Officials Seek Long-Range Solutions To Problems of Paying High Cost of Education

Severe financial problems confronting the schools are forcing both state and federal officials to take a new look at the ways of paying for the education of American children.

Federal aid continues to ride the crest of a popularity wave in Congress, with education programs being among those to win strongest bipartisan support. Congress this year has allotted nearly $3.9 billion to programs run by the U.S. Office of Education.

New programs to extend and enlarge aid to elementary and high schools, purchase textbooks and library books, prevent school dropouts, give technical assistance to rural schools and provide for the education of children with language problems are on tap.

State officials too are making a determined effort to seek out new ways of aiding the schools to meet rising educational costs.

The reasons for the crisis are obvious — costs are going up. They reached a record peak last year, rising 6.9 per cent, according to a nationwide survey in School Management magazine.

Money problems have placed many school districts in a tight financial bind.

Wyoming this year considered shortening the school year to save cash. Last year, Cincinnati schools had to cut funds for high school varsity sports, kindergarten and many other programs.

Meanwhile, property tax increases for school support are meeting widespread resistance. Just two examples:

Los Angeles threatened to trim $15 millions from its budget because a proposed tax increase was rejected. White Plains, N. Y., taxpayers twice rejected an increase in school spending before finally giving their consent.

On many fronts, the debate over how best to finance your child's education goes on. Out of all the ferment may come long-range solutions that will improve the quality of education, and the lot of the teacher, in thousands of American communities.

Children Can Learn at Earlier Age, So . . .

Schooling May Start at Age Three

American children may soon start their formal education at age three, rather than five or six.

In fact, when school opens this fall, probably more than a half million three- and four-year-olds will be in classes. And they will be in school to learn and not as part of a mass baby-sitting operation.

For years, parents who had the means and the inclination have been sending three-year-olds to private nursery schools. But the real push for an earlier start in school dates back to 1965 and the inauguration of Operation Head Start under the Economic Opportunity Act.

Head Start was set up to provide compensatory education to three, four, and five-year-olds from poverty backgrounds. The program was an immediate success, though there was — and is — criticism that the public schools fail to capitalize on that success in working with Head Start graduates.

It was so successful, in fact, that it has touched off a popular uprising among middle class families who demand schooling for their three-year-olds.

Their demands are falling on sympathetic ears. Last December, for example, the New York State Board of Regents called for a long-range program to provide free public education for all three- and four-year-old children.

And the Educational Policies Commission of the National Education Association in 1966 issued a call for mandatory school attendance beginning at age four. (Only half of the nation's five-year-olds now are enrolled in kindergarten.)

Behind it all is the discovery in the last ten years that children can learn at an earlier age than thought possible in the past and, more significant, that half of a child's mental development occurs by age four and two-thirds of it by age six.

And, the educational researchers and psychologists discovered, if that growth did not take place within that age span, it would not take place at all.

Schooling for very young children from disadvantaged homes therefore was held to be crucial.

Beyond that, the experts have concluded that middle class children also can benefit from an earlier start in school and experience fuller development than they would have enjoyed if they stayed at home.

There is disagreement among early childhood educators over the type of education to provide for very young children.

It is not clear where the money will come from to finance schooling for every three- and four-year-old.

DEMAND GROWS FOR AN EARLIER START in school for all children, as result of scenes like this. Here, four-year-olds get a head start at learning in a class operated under the Head Start program of the Office of Economic Opportunity. Photo by Ken Wittenberg, courtesy of the Institute for Development Studies.

And, according to Educational Facilities Laboratories, there is a problem in providing buildings and facilities for early childhood education and in determining how they should be designed.

It is difficult, therefore, to predict how many years will be required to establish universal education for three-year-olds. But the problems of educational theory, finances, and building design are being tackled. The future may be closer than it seems.

These Things Need Doing Before School Begins

Preparedness is the watchword, as parents and children cooperate in getting ready for school. These things need doing now, and should be first on back-to-school checklists:

- CHECK HEALTH. A general physical examination, eyesight and dental check-ups should be early on the agenda.
- CHECK WARDROBES. Build up the back-to-school wardrobe, with properly-fitted clothing and shoes, while fresh selections are available.
- CHECK THE HOME. Comfortable, correct conditions for study and sleeping are essential. Special homework needs should be anticipated, and quiet sleeping quarters provided, too.
- CHECK SCHOOL SUPPLIES. Pencils and pens, tablets and notebooks, book bags and other important accessories should be purchased now.

Whether your child will need a lunchbox or not will be determined by school cafeteria facilities.

They're Taking 'House' out of Schoolhouse

The schoolhouse of the future may not be a schoolhouse at all.

It may be teaching space built into apartment or office buildings.

It may be the student's own home or apartment, linked by television to live teachers or to computer-controlled stores of knowledge.

Or, it may be a rapid-transit system that carries the student to university-supported "resource centers" handling different subject areas.

Two factors are behind new concepts of the schoolhouse, one educational, the other economic.

Efforts to tailor education to the needs of the individual child are contributing to the disappearance of the schoolhouse.

And rising real estate costs and spreading population are making the single-purpose, part-time facility called the schoolhouse unrealistic from an economic point of view.

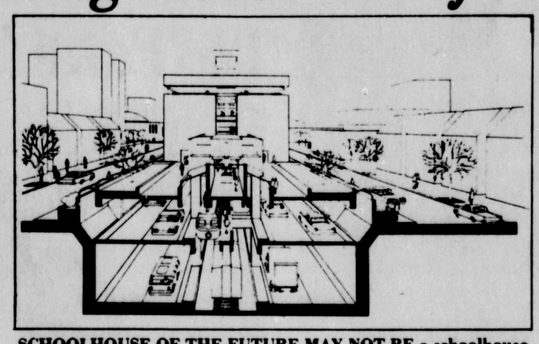
This schoolhouse of the future may not be as far in the future as it sounds.

Philadelphia, for example, already is proposing to create a new high school without putting up a single new building.

Instead, existing facilities in the city's museums, libraries, hospitals, cultural centers and even some corporate offices will be employed on a part-time basis to house an instant high school.

Or consider "Linear City," part of an exhibit, The Schoolhouse in the City, developed by Educational Facilities Laboratories (EFL) and now touring major American cities under the auspices of the U.S. Office of Education.

Linear City is a proposal from the office of New York's Mayor John V. Lindsay to build five miles of a new expressway over an existing railroad line and, in turn, build a five-mile-long city-in-the-air over the expressway.



SCHOOLHOUSE OF THE FUTURE MAY NOT BE a schoolhouse at all — witness this proposal for a "city in the air," where mass transit system would carry students not to a schoolhouse but to specialized educational resource centers throughout the city. Drawing, for proposed Linear City in Brooklyn, N. Y., by Corde Corporation; courtesy Educational Facilities Laboratories.

The proposed city would have every facility — but no traditional schoolhouse.

Instead, younger children would attend school centers built into apartments or even commercial structures located near their homes.

For older children (fifth grade and up) the entire new city would be a schoolhouse. They would use the local rapid transit system to travel to the biological sciences resource center, the languages center, the social sciences center, and so forth, according to a personal program worked out with an adviser.

Eventually, a communications system, permitting children to pursue a good part of their studies at home and on their own, would be added.

Linear City may not be built for another 15 or 20 years. But it is a straw in the wind.

Already, a number of cities are building schools into apartments or commercial buildings.

The little red schoolhouse is a thing of the past. And the big red schoolhouse may not be far behind.

Reach New Peaks In Spending On Salaries, Pupils

Teacher salaries have gone up about 7 per cent over the last school year, and spending per pupil has risen about 10 per cent, acording to the U.S. Office of Education.

Both increases have brought new peaks in numbers of students and teachers and total spending.

Children Can Learn at Earlier Age, So . . .

Schooling May Start at Age Three

American children may soon start their formal education at age three, rather than five or six.

In fact, when school opens this fall, probably more than a half million three- and four-year-olds will be in classes. And they will be in school to learn and not as part of a mass baby-sitting operation.

For years, parents who had the means and the inclination have been sending three-year-olds to private nursery schools. But the real push for an earlier start in school dates back to 1965 and the inauguration of Operation Head Start under the Economic Opportunity Act.

Head Start was set up to provide compensatory education to three, four, and five-year-olds from poverty backgrounds. The program was an immediate success, though there was — and is — criticism that the public schools fail to capitalize on that success in working with Head Start graduates.

It was so successful, in fact, that it has touched off a popular uprising among middle class families who demand schooling for their three-year-olds.

Their demands are falling on sympathetic ears. Last December, for example, the New York State Board of Regents called for a long-range program to provide free public education for all three- and four-year-old children.

And the Educational Policies Commission of the National Education Association in 1966 issued a call for mandatory school attendance beginning at age four. (Only half of the nation's five-year-olds now are enrolled in kindergarten.)

Behind it all is the discovery in the last ten years that children can learn at an earlier age than thought possible in the past and, more significant, that half of a child's mental development occurs by age four and two-thirds of it by age six.

And, the educational researchers and psychologists discovered, if that growth did not take place within that age span, it would not take place at all.

Schooling for very young children from disadvantaged homes therefore was held to be crucial.

Beyond that, the experts have concluded that middle class children also can benefit from an earlier start in school and experience fuller development than they would have enjoyed if they stayed at home.

There is disagreement among early childhood educators over the type of education to provide for very young children.

It is not clear where the money will come from to finance schooling for every three- and four-year-old.

DEMAND GROWS FOR AN EARLIER START in school for all children, as result of scenes like this. Here, four-year-olds get a head start at learning in a class operated under the Head Start program of the Office of Economic Opportunity. Photo by Ken Wittenberg, courtesy of the Institute for Development Studies.

And, according to Educational Facilities Laboratories, there is a problem in providing buildings and facilities for early childhood education and in determining how they should be designed.

It is difficult, therefore, to predict how many years will be required to establish universal education for three-year-olds. But the problems of educational theory, finances, and building design are being tackled. The future may be closer than it seems.

These Things Need Doing Before School Begins

Preparedness is the watchword, as parents and children cooperate in getting ready for school. These things need doing now, and should be first on back-to-school checklists:

- CHECK HEALTH. A general physical examination, eyesight and dental check-ups should be early on the agenda.
- CHECK WARDROBES. Build up the back-to-school wardrobe, with properly-fitted clothing and shoes, while fresh selections are available.
- CHECK THE HOME. Comfortable, correct conditions for study and sleeping are essential. Special homework needs should be anticipated, and quiet sleeping quarters provided, too.
- CHECK SCHOOL SUPPLIES. Pencils and pens, tablets and notebooks, book bags and other important accessories should be purchased now.

Whether your child will need a lunchbox or not will be determined by school cafeteria facilities.

Jobs, Fellowships Help Pay Cost Of School, Say Graduate Students

How do graduate students pay their way?

Most rely on their own employment, wives' employment and fellowships, according to a study conducted by the U.S. Office of Education.

The study, based on a nationwide sample of students seeking a master's or higher degree, also finds that a majority of graduate students in the U.S. are married, going to school part time, and do pay their own way.

Teaching and research assistantships were named by some students as ways they financed their schooling. Others said gifts and loans from relatives helped.

Loans from other sources, including the National Defense Education Act, provided only three per cent of the cost of graduate schooling.

More than half the students reported that, when they graduated from high school, their fathers earned less than $7,500 a year.

Safety Patrols Preparing To Take Their Stations

PRIDE IN THE JOB the School Safety Patrol member does is reflected in the care he takes of his appearance and the brightness of his equipment.

Squads of alert young lads and gals, wearing the widely familiar white "Sam Browne" belts, soon will be taking their posts at street corners near schools in all parts of the city.

The signal for them to "go on duty" is sounded by the bells that summon all the children back to classes.

The same signal should alert drivers of all manner of vehicles, passenger cars and trucks, that it's time to keep a wary eye out for them, and to give them all the co-operation they deserve.

They are members of the School Safety Patrols whose ranks boast more than 900,000 trained youngsters across this country, serving more than 40,000 schools in 15,000 communities.

Doing their job from curbside only, since they are not allowed to go into the street or direct vehicular traffic, the proud patrols are generally credited with having made a major contribution to keeping school children safe from traffic.

The American Automobile Association reports that since 1922, when the organization became a major supporter of the Safety Patrol program, the traffic fatality rate for youngsters in the 5-14 age group has been reduced by almost half.

During the same period the rate for all other age groups has more than doubled.

The falling accident rate for children is most encouraging but is not construed as any reason for relaxation. With a vastly greater number of vehicles on the streets, and an equally increased number of school children, the situation requires even greater alertness on the part of motorists.

Since School Safety Patrols can direct only children and not the traffic in the streets, school and police authorities urge patient co-operation with the school patrols. It is their job to keep the youngsters from stepping off the curb until there is a safe break in the flow of traffic, or a traffic light or police officer signals that the way is clear.

Some patrols are assigned to duty on school buses, helping the driver keep order and getting off the bus when necessary to keep those who have just alighted on the curb until traffic clears.

The School Safety Patrol boy or girl has been chosen because of his outstanding qualities of leadership and reliability. He has pledged himself to perform his duties faithfully and strive to earn the respect of other students.

But he cannot do his job without the help of parents and motorists.

The patrol depends on motorists to drive with increased caution in school zones. And the driver must be extra careful when he spots that familiar belt and badge because it signals that the young ones are on the streets traveling to or from school.

The School Safety Patrolman depends finally on the co-operation of his classmates. Here is where parents can help by insisting that their young children obey the patrol's instructions to wait on the curb and only cross streets when it is safe to do so.

When Lighting Is Right, Learning Gets an Assist

For comfortable, effective home study, privacy and quiet are two essentials. To these, add a third, of equal importance: Adequate, well-distributed lighting.

Lighting that is too dim, too glaring, or a hodge-podge of brightness and shadow punishes the seeing system—eyes, nerves and muscles—leads to fatigue, difficulty in concentrating, and mistakes.

Guidelines to a well-lighted study center are suggested here by the American Home Lighting Institute.

There are three acceptable ways to light the desk or work surface: Use a pair of ceiling or wall-mounted lighting fixtures; provide a single, long light source across the desk; or, use a study lamp approved by Better Light Better Sight Bureau.

If the choice is a pair of fixtures to give ample, evenly-distributed light and keep the desk completely free as a work surface, the fixtures should be positioned so that light sockets are 30 inches apart and the bottom of the shades measures 15 inches from the desk top.

Another idea is a wall bracket using two 15- or 20-watt fluorescent tubes. Tubes should be positioned six inches from the wall. A faceboard shield distributes light up on the wall and down on the desk.

Whichever method is chosen, it's a good idea to have other lights on in the room to balance the lighting.

For Mom, School Means Time to Plan Menus

Going back to school means checking wardrobes, renewing school supplies — and planning menus.

Nourishing breakfasts, essential year-round, now come in for extra attention. The dinner menu is of course important.

But with the start of school, there are two "meals" that especially demand forethought and even a bit of cunning on Mom's part: lunch and the after-school snack.

For the millions of school children who bring lunch from home, the favorite midday menu is still soup, sandwich, dessert and milk.

Soup and sandwich combinations take care of protein needs and also give Mom scope for planning something special. For a change from soup, the "one hot dish" might be baked beans or stew carried in a wide-mouth vacuum bottle.

To provide variety and keep nutritional standards high are fruits for dessert and crispy finger foods such as carrot sticks. Or, salads and gelatine treats might be packed in keep-cold snack jars.

Perhaps the biggest challenge to Mom is the after-school snack. Hungry youngsters are apt to reach for the handiest tasty tidbit, so it's Mother's job to make sure the right foods are conveniently ready.

Milk, juices, fruit and ice cream have both taste appeal and nutritive value. And that old standby, the peanut butter and jelly sandwich, still rates high as a healthful, filling snack.

What 'We Wear' May Vary, So Freshman Must Plan with Care

"At the University of Oregon, we wear pants on campus and like short coats of the pea jacket variety," says Kathy Caselton, a junior from Portland, Ore.

Key words here are "we wear." Fashion preferences and acceptability vary from college to college. Pantsuits, for instance, are forbidden or frowned on at some schools, approved at others.

For the freshman girl without first hand knowledge of what "we wear" at her chosen school, wardrobe planning demands special care. One recommended idea is to begin with basic fashions, adding others later in the semester.

Sales personnel in college shops and departments, friends who have already attended the school and, in some cases, guidelines provided by the school can help with suggestions for the starter wardrobe.

Whatever the college or status of students, double-purpose fashions help — witness Kathy's plan.

Kathy, who was elected Kodak's "Most Photogenic Smile Girl of 1968," makes most of her own clothes.

She'll return to campus this semester with a made-it-herself gray flannel pantsuit as part of her wardrobe.

PANTSUITS — TO wear or not? At University of Oregon, answer is yes, says Kathy Caselton, a junior. She made this one herself. Both Simplicity Patterns 7307, 7351 and fabric are available at Singer Centers.

For versatility, the jacket of the suit doubles as a coat with dresses and separates. Coat look of the double-breasted jacket is enhanced by insignia brass buttons.

BOOTS STEP ahead at high school, college. Shown are waxy leather knee-high, left, and antiqued leather monk-strap style. By Shenanigans, Golo.

TIMELY IDEA for school might be a watch that's also a fashion accessory. Here's a checkerboard style with matching vinyl band. By Timex.

FOR THE NEW SEMESTER, CO-EDS FAVOR DRESSES that go to class, dress up a little, too. Dirndl fashion and ease right for many occasions is demonstrated by these long-torso styles, one boasting tucks, one pairing solid and plaid. By Dorothy Pinnock.

Surveys Say Schools Need State Aid

What does the public think about today's education issues?

Educators are busy expressing their views every day, but rarely do they know exactly how the people who pay the bills think about specific problems and trends.

Two states — California and Maryland — have completed pioneer public opinion surveys to find the answer.

Rated as unprecedented undertakings to help guide school policy-makers, the two surveys disclosed that "teaching pupils how to think" should be given heavier emphasis in the classroom.

Another major finding: Schools should receive far greater financial support from state governments.

The California survey represents a cross-section analysis of the entire state. Conducted from the federally-financed State Committee on Public Education by Field Research Associates, the survey also disclosed that:

- The public is content to leave decision-making to professional educators.
- Math and social science are rated the most desirable subjects for a school to teach.
- Persons with a high income are most likely to be opponents of change and persons of low income are more likely to advocate change.
- The public says the best sources of information about the schools are newspapers and personal contact with pupils.
- Strong public support exists for efforts to make certain that schools in poorest districts have the same amount of money to spend per pupil as schools in wealthiest districts. In addition, strong support exists for spending additional money to provide special teachers and smaller classes for minority group children with learning problems.
- Negroes and other minority races are more critical of schools than any other segment of the population.

The Maryland survey reflects the opinions of the state's community leaders — local political officials, state legislators, school board members, school teachers and administrators, PTA presidents, business and labor officials.

Conducted by Johns Hopkins University for the U.S. Office of Education, it found that training pupils to find jobs, team teaching, helping pupils to make social adjustments, and a state lottery to raise school funds are given low priority.

High priority is given to placing major stress on the needs of the average child — not the bright or the disadvantaged. Only professional educators are particularly concerned with disadvantaged pupils.

The survey also showed that the state's community leaders believe that:

- The federal government and the state board of education should not be given additional control over the schools.
- Lack of qualified teachers is the most pressing problem today in education. Overcrowded classrooms rank second.
- The most valuable contribution the schools can make to a college-bound pupil is to teach him how to study.
- Teachers should be freed of clerical, babysitting and administrative chores so they can devote their full attention to teaching.

Games Go to College

IN ECONOMICS course, students learn by playing a game called "Acquire." Based on buying, merging and expanding chains of hotels, it demonstrates corporate financing.

TESTING NEW games before they are marketed is job for college students. Here, they write evaluation of a game, test-played three times, at 3M Company in St. Paul, Minn.

Skill at "Play" Counts As New Way to Learn

Has modern education gone too far when students play games in the classroom — and teacher joins in?

Not necessarily. In fact, games based on real-life situations are being used more and more as an educational tool, from elementary school through college.

For instance, a game called "Mr. President" is used by civics and political science teachers because it shows students how the electoral system works and also gives an idea of how political parties, issues and personality factors influence election outcomes.

"The nomination, campaign and election portions of the game make an entertaining teaching device, especially as we approach another national election," comments Robert Carver, instructor of history in St. Mary-of-the-Woods College in Indiana.

Teachers teach financial games, too. The Downery School District in Los Angeles, Calif., uses the game, "Stocks and Bonds," in which each player buys and sells stocks and bonds, to teach students the terminology of finance.

Another financial game, "Acquire," is used for instruction in economics courses and is based on buying stock in hotels, then building, merging and expanding hotel chains.

Why do teachers use games in addition to more traditional methods of instruction?

"Only a mere 15 per cent of students profit from lectures in classrooms," says Dean G. Farrar, former instructor in business administration and economics at Fullerton Junior College in California.

"The other 85 per cent learn by doing — and doing is what they do with strategy games like 'Stocks and Bonds' and 'Acquire.'"

There's another reason — besides fun — why students play games. At least one major game manufacturer, 3M Company, employs students from the universities and colleges around St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., to test games before they are marketed.

New Trends Take Shape

New education trends take shape as school authorities and teachers' colleges wrestle with the mountains of research-reports coming from foundations and government presses.

According to Engelhardt, Engelhardt, and Leggett, educational consultants, these are the current trends:

- The small 400-pupil high school recently attacked as outmoded, gets a new lease on life. Sometimes it offers a better comprehensive education than the 2,000-pupil giant schools nearby because youngsters are not swallowed up, is the new feeling.
- Principals and school administrators are trying their utmost to get free of housekeeping, clerical and discipline problems so they can concentrate on educational matters.
- Language-laboratories are on the way out because it is felt they do not do an adequate job for the money spent. Closed-circuit television, however, is becoming more important for keeping both students and teachers abreast of the latest developments.

TEXTBOOK SPENDING

Current figures on school spending for textbooks and related materials show that a yearly median of $6.60 is spent for each elementary student and $9.50 for each secondary student, according to a survey made by a joint committee of the National Education Association and the American Textbook Publishers Institute.

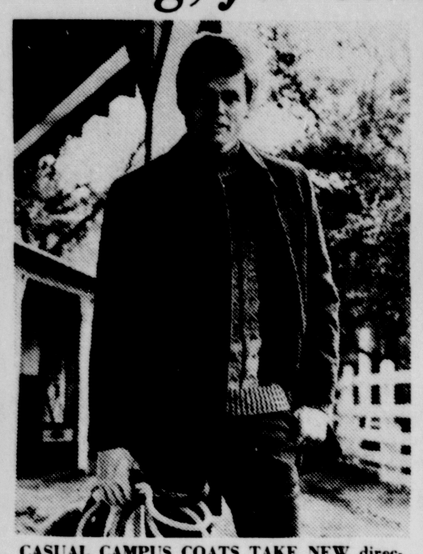
They Elect Good Grooming, for Class and Campus

LOOKING AHEAD TO COLLEGE IN DRESS as well as in study and planning, today's high schooler joins his older brother in favoring a well-groomed look — achieved here with a "mixed suit." Coat and vest in tattersall wool mohair tweed pair with trousers in polyester worsted twill. By Levinsohn in Stevens' fabrics.



CASUAL CAMPUS COATS TAKE NEW directions, for style-conscious college men. Bal-collared topper in above-knee length boasts outsize glen plaid pattern in wool mohair tweed. Coat by Stratojac, fabric by Stevens.

FOR WARDROBE FLEXIBILITY, SPORT coats and slacks get high marks. Right in town or around campus is this sport coat, in bold plaid wool saxony that epitomizes the "country look." It's by Sagner, in Stevens fabric.

College-Bound Males Study Fashion News

Though "student unrest" gets the headlines, "student well-dressed" is the order of the college day. Among the modern generation of college males some may depart from tradition as they dissent from class and campus procedures, but most put their stamp of approval on the tradition of good grooming.

A few semesters ago, the question of correct dress may have been a controversial one. No longer. The vast majority of college men favor "right dress." The only question is, how fashion-conscious should they be?

Very fashion-conscious, seems to be the answer. Current studies see college men interested not only in style but in color. Thus brown and its earth tones get masculine attention as the fashion color returning to the campus scene this fall, according to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

Look to Coordinates

As college-bound male students pack sport coats and slacks, they're likely to pay special attention to color choices in golden-brown, reddish-brown, whiskey and tobacco. Both solids and bolder, wider patterns—windowpanes and glen plaids—get attention.

Jackets, separately or as a part of suits, move toward the shaped silhouette, showing their waists.

Look for big interest in sports coordinates — three-piece combinations that mix and match solid colors and patterns in jacket, vest, and slacks trios.

In both sports coats and suits, the rustic, country look bids for campus favor through use of the heavier fabrics such as twill and Donegal tweed. The three-piece suit leads in dress fashion, with the double-breasted suit fast becoming the second choice.

Now-gear fashion finds single and double-breasted blazers worn with tartan slacks. Notable, too, is the return of tartans in shirts, coordinates and sport coats.

Shirt and tie accessories complement the rustic fashion colors in deep tones of red, orange and gold. Shirt collars are higher, wider and broader. Bigger knots for ties in woven fabrics, including silk, keep with the heavier look.

About Nehru Tunic

This look also shows up in sweaters, which sport big stitching. Many are in "natural" ground tones.

Especially on the campuses of metropolitan areas, the Nehru tunic seems due to continue its spirited fashion drive. The tunics may be worn with medallions and amulets on chains to certain campus functions such as fraternity meetings, weekend outings and dances.

Outerwear made of corduroy, suede and antique leather completes the brawny, country fashion look on campus. Coats and outer-jackets are more shaped, and many are in plaid, with single and double-breasted sports coat styling. For a different look, some have fur trims.

STUDENT BASICS, sport coats, now often appear in solid colors, ready to team up with slacks in darker solids or patterns. This one is by Mavest.

CHEERING THE TEAM at fall's football games gets a warm assist from zip jackets like this one, in brushed wool with pile lining. By Puritan Sportswear.

'Operation School' Calls for Planning

It's "Operation School."

From kindergarten through college, the school set is getting ready for the new term. The students themselves, their parents and teachers take advantage now of the days and weeks remaining before the start of school to prepare themselves, both mentally and materially.

Health and wardrobe, school supplies and home study needs all come into the picture as final preparations are made. The basic procedure for equipping the student with his or her routine requirements is so important that in many homes it's a family shopping project, planned and executed well in advance.

Broader Horizons

This early preparation contributes much to enthusiasm of both parents and children, and it is equally valuable for the reassurance it provides. While school may be eagerly anticipated, it nevertheless presents a challenge, and a vital one.

For parents, there is the deeply-felt obligation to encourage their children to make the most of today's opportunities. The children, on the other hand, are fully aware that broadening education horizons make demands as well as offering rewards.

Thus "Operation School," with its attention to preparedness in everything from clothing to school supplies, helps by assuring that both parent and student will be ready to grasp and to expand opportunity.

Parents may find two surprises.

While they expect to give careful guidance to the younger children, they are likely to discover that even the beginning grade schoolers now have a new awareness of their individual needs along with definite, and sound, opinions about their first-day-of-school supplies.

May Need Help

Older students — the high schoolers and especially those going to college for the first time -- may, conversely, need more help than anticipated. Pressures of preparation are expanding here, and call for understanding and aid on the part of parents.

While students and parents shop, check wardrobes, examine home study conditions and stock up on school supplies, those who are in charge of the nation's educational facilities — the school and college administrator, the teachers and the maintenance crews—are getting an early start, too. They're already at work, preparing the schools to receive students.

Dad's Boss Helps Pay for College

The newest way to finance that expensive college education, according to Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J., is to get help from Dad's employer.

There are now about 250 companies with programs for giving scholarships to sons and daughters of employees, and 85 more are contemplating similar ventures.

Awards range from $100 to $25,000 and total about $45 million annually. The average number of awards granted is ten per company.

Dad's corporate boss may be the key to a college degree for children of employees of such firms as W. T. Grant, the retail chain; Gulf Oil Company and Rollins, Inc., Atlanta-based diversified service company.

Coeds Mix Separates In Style

College fashion collections, opening now, beckon the high school girl as well as the collegienne. Career girls and young homemakers, too, are likely to find useful and attractive ideas in the array.

Bright, lively and practical, current back-to-campus fashions inspire wide interest for a number of reasons. Basically, they appeal because so many of them are just that — basic -- and because they're in the forefront of style news.

Shirts and skirts, sweaters and skirts and separates of all sorts have long been the foundation of campus wardrobes. Now, with the fashion renaissance of the shirt and skirt, and with the new importance of the separates look, campus-bound girls are in their element.

The ruffled and/or tucked shirt, the dirndl skirt, the turtleneck sweater, the suit mixers—shirt, skirt and vest — are just a few of the leading fashions that, while particularly adaptable to the back-to-books life, go just about everywhere.

In both sports coats and suits, the rustic, country look bids for campus favor through use of the heavier fabrics such as twill and Donegal tweed. The three-piece suit leads in dress fashion, with the double-breasted suit fast becoming the second choice.

Now-gear fashion finds single and double-breasted blazers worn with tartan slacks, Notable, too, is the return of tartans in shirts, coordinates and sport coats.

Shirt and tie accessories complement the rustic fashion colors in deep tones of red, orange and gold. Shirt collars are higher, wider and broader. Bigger knots for ties in woven fabrics, including silk, keep with the heavier look.

About Nehru Tunic

This look also shows up in sweaters, which sport big stitching. Many are in "natural" ground tones.

Especially on the campuses of metropolitan areas, the Nehru tunic seems due to continue its spirited fashion drive. The tunics may be worn with medallions and amulets on chains to certain campus functions such as fraternity meetings, weekend outings and dances.

Outerwear made of corduroy, suede and antique leather completes the brawny, country fashion look on campus. Coats and outer-jackets are more shaped, and many are in plaid, with single and double-breasted sports coat styling. For a different look, some have fur trims.

STUDENT BASICS, sport coats, now often appear in solid colors, ready to team up with slacks in darker solids or patterns. This one is by Mavest.

CHEERING THE TEAM at fall's football games gets a warm assist from zip jackets like this one, in brushed wool with pile lining. By Puritan Sportswear.

'Operation School' Calls for Planning

It's "Operation School."

From kindergarten through college, the school set is getting ready for the new term. The students themselves, their parents and teachers take advantage now of the days and weeks remaining before the start of school to prepare themselves, both mentally and materially.

Health and wardrobe, school supplies and home study needs all come into the picture as final preparations are made. The basic procedure for equipping the student with his or her routine requirements is so important that in many homes it's a family shopping project, planned and executed well in advance.

Broader Horizons

This early preparation contributes much to enthusiasm of both parents and children, and it is equally valuable for the reassurance it provides. While school may be eagerly anticipated, it nevertheless presents a challenge, and a vital one.

For parents, there is the deeply-felt obligation to encourage their children to make the most of today's opportunities. The children, on the other hand, are fully aware that broadening education horizons make demands as well as offering rewards.

Thus "Operation School," with its attention to preparedness in everything from clothing to school supplies, helps by assuring that both parent and student will be ready to grasp and to expand opportunity.

Parents may find two surprises.

While they expect to give careful guidance to the younger children, they are likely to discover that even the beginning grade schoolers now have a new awareness of their individual needs along with definite, and sound, opinions about their first-day-of-school supplies.

May Need Help

Older students — the high schoolers and especially those going to college for the first time — may, conversely, need more help than anticipated. Pressures of preparation are expanding here, and call for understanding and aid on the part of parents.

While students and parents shop, check wardrobes, examine home study conditions and stock up on school supplies, those who are in charge of the nation's educational facilities — the school and college administrator, the teachers and the maintenance crews—are getting an early start, too. They're already at work, preparing the schools to receive students.

Dad's Boss Helps Pay for College

The newest way to finance that expensive college education, according to Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J., is to get help from Dad's employer.

There are now about 250 companies with programs for giving scholarships to sons and daughters of employees, and 85 more are contemplating similar ventures.

Awards range from $100 to $25,000 and total about $45 million annually. The average number of awards granted is ten per company.

Dad's corporate boss may be the key to a college degree for children of employees of such firms as W. T. Grant, the retail chain; Gulf Oil Company and Rollins, Inc., Atlanta-based diversified service company.

Coeds Mix Separates In Style

College fashion collections, opening now, beckon the high school girl as well as the collegienne. Career girls and young homemakers, too, are likely to find useful and attractive ideas in the array.

Bright, lively and practical, current back-to-campus fashions inspire wide interest for a number of reasons. Basically, they appeal because so many of them are just that — basic — and because they're in the forefront of style news.

Shirts and skirts, sweaters and skirts and separates of all sorts have long been the foundation of campus wardrobes. Now, with the fashion renaissance of the shirt and skirt, and with the new importance of the separates look, campus-bound girls are in their element.

The ruffled and/or tucked shirt, the dirndl skirt, the turtleneck sweater, the suit mixers—shirt, skirt and vest—are just a few of the leading fashions that, while particularly adaptable to the back-to-books life, go just about everywhere.

A GEOMETRIC PROBLEM

Zippers and more zippers are the rage just now. Here's one used as a diagonal opening on a rectangular pocket made of leatherette as is the collar. The fabric of this WESTWAY PETITE JUNIOR slim dress is Gadfly (50% cotton, 50% avril). Colors: Biscuit/Cayenne; Red/Navy. Sizes: 1-11.
